PARIS, Aug. 21—Since the Belgian debt settlement there has been a great deal of figuring in Paris how France will come out of the debt negotiations due to take place next month at Washington.

In the first place the French hope to settle with America on the basis of a payment of $90,000,000 or $100,000,000 annually. After reading the Belgian terms they now expect America to ask between $125,000,000 and $130,000,000 a year as the ultimate payments with softer terms over the preliminary period.

This sum is arrived at in the following manner. While the special treatment accorded to Belgium for her prearmistice debt is not expected for France, the French figure America will allow the same terms on accumulated interest on the debt. The capital of the French debt is $2,933,000,000 on which about $800,000,000 of interest is due. Cutting this interest by two-thirds, as was done with Belgium's post-armistice debt, here will be a total of $3,200,000,000. On a basis of 3½ per cent. interest plus one-half of 1 per cent. amortization for a 62-year period, one arrives at an annual payment of $128,000,000. On the basis of the Belgian settlement it is calculated here French payment for the first year would be $38,000,000, increasing gradually.

$128,000,000 Yearly as Maximum.

Of course the French still hope for an easier settlement than this. They hope to gain a hearing for their plea that it is not fair that France shoulder the greater part of the cost of reconstruction of the common war damage. They regard the $128,000,000 settlement as the worst that could happen.

Naturally the French are obliged to consider the English settlement in connection with payments to be made to America. M. Caillaux hopes to settle with the English at £10,000,000 sterling, perhaps going to £13,000,000 annually. At current exchange, a $128,000,000 payment to America would mean 2,700,000,000 francs. Plus 1,000,000,000 for England there would be a total of 3,700,000,000, which, added to 1,200,000,000 francs France pays annually on her commercial debt, would mean annual payments abroad by France of 5,000,000,000 francs. Some French economists regard this as impossible to accomplish without ruining France. It is about equal to the French favorable trade balance this year.

Closer contact with the debt situation is bringing the French to the realization that Germany has, in comparison with France, won the post-war financial battle. Under the Dawes plan Germany stands to pay 2,500,000,000 marks, or the value of 12,500,000,000 francs, to liquidate the war. It is calculated that 40 per cent. will be paid abroad in cash under the Dawes plan and the rest in kind. This would make foreign payments by Germany about equal to those by France. There would remain a balance equal to 7,500,000,000 francs for Germany to pay in marks for war liquidation, whereas the French budget this year carries 19,000,000,000 for interior loan service. Thus Germany, conquered, gets off, as the French see it, about 12,000,000,000 francs annually better than France, and there are twice as many Germans to pay it. The French persist in thinking this is unfair.

Wants Better Terms Than Belgium.

The Temps tonight says France must try to get from America better terms than Belgium was able to get because of the relatively small size of her debt. It advocates recalling to Americans French generosity after the War of Independence. The Temps thinks business Americans will see the impossibility of France's adding 4,000,000,000 francs to her present taxes.

"There is another factor," says the Temps. "Americans took part in making the Dawes plan. The President of the first committee of experts was General Dawes, now Vice President of the United States. It is to be recalled his plan reduced Germany's debt. The agreement for division of the Dawes receipts was signed by Ambassador Kellogg, now Secretary of State. Is it fair that in these conditions most of the sums due France, sums reduced by English and Americans, be taken by our creditors and that our country alone support the crushing burden of reparations, which, according to the Treaty of Versailles, should fall on Germany? It is not possible for the force of this argument to escape our friends across the Atlantic."

On high authority this statement may be made:

"The French case on interallied debts

WITH THE RIGHT WING OF GENERAL BOICHUT'S ARMY, TAZA SECTOR, Morocco, Aug. 20.—"The most interesting part of the big operation we are carrying out for pacification of the Tsoul tribe is the right flank," we were told at General Boichut's headquarters. "We are sending five columns against the Tsouls. One composed of six battalions is marching east along the northern edge of the tribe. Two other columns of five battalions each are going north from Oued Amelli, another of six battalions is advancing northwest from Jebel Halfa over the massif of Tamdert, at the extremity of which all four converge. The fifth column of three battalions under Colonel Poulet is going north from Jebel Halfa to guard the right flank and prevent the Branes, who are more formidable than the Tsouls, from coming to their rescue. They are at the loose end, which does not converge anywhere, the objective being to recapture Msila and re-establish the post there. They have a delicate job on their hands but it will be difficult to join them now as they already are on the march."

It was, as we three correspondents soon found out, and doing so got an unusually intimate experience of the soldiers' daily life. We could not proceed further than Camp des Roches in an automobile and had to make the next three miles to Jebel Halfa riding on artillery limbers moving frontward. After five minutes of jolting on one of their springless, blistering sheet iron seats, it is easy to understand why the artillery men ride their horses instead. After a walk of a couple of miles from Jebel Halfa we came to a field hospital where the Major lent us a Ford ambulance to continue another three miles. The Tsouls living in the mountains south of the hospital had fired on it and a battery of 155s a little way behind it all the previous night making sleep impossible.

Scene at Poulet's Camp.

Poulet's column was moving so fast that none behind knew exactly where it was, but when we reached a point where the 155 high explosive shells which had been screaming overhead suddenly began breaking directly on our right and less than half a mile away, while rifle balls dropped much closer, we concluded we had gone far enough. A non-com passing with a train of mules carrying eight wounded Senegalese informed us the column was in the hills on the left, and after another mile of tramping and climbing we found the colonials' pup tents installed a few yards under the cover of a crest where soldiers were busily digging themselves in for the night. They had just mounted two 75s up the steep slope of the ridge, a seemingly impossible operation. One limber

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The administrators of the twenty-four new Federal enforcement districts were named today by General Lincoln C. Andrews, Commander-in-Chief of the Treasury's reorganized prohibition unit. The General gave them their "marching orders" in an outline of his projected campaign to dry up the nation and allotted them ten days to line up their staffs and prepare for the attack.

Although five former army officers and one railroad executive, who was recommended by Judge Elbert H. Gary of the Citizens Committee of One Thousand, were among those appointed, eighteen of the district commanders were already in the prohibition service, eleven of the eighteen being State directors, five divisional chiefs, one assistant divisional chief, one general agent and the chief of general agents.

General Andrews explained that after meeting the executives of the service, he decided "it would be a great mistake not to give most of them the chance to operate under a system that I feel will give more power and efficiency to the field enforcement of prohibition."

Seven of the appointees were designated as "acting administrators," the General saying he had not yet made up his mind on their qualification, but adding that he expected some would "demonstrate their ability to render the service" after the new régime gets under way.

Two radical changes were made today. One was the abolition of the office of E. C. Yellowley, chief of general agents, who was sent to California as district administrator. The other was the creation of a new office, that of chief prohibition investigator, to which was appointed Walton C. Green, former publisher of The Boston Journal, who served as a Major under General Andrews at Camp Dix and later aided in the formation of the Military Police in France.

Mr. Green is expected to organize a corps of highly trained investigators to take charge of big conspiracy cases of interdistrict or international character and to serve as intelligence officers in the field for General Andrews to report on the effectiveness of enforcement efforts.

In the New York district, which includes the southern and eastern districts of the State and Connecticut, J. A. Foster, now division chief at Philadelphia, will be in charge, while R. Q. Merrick, division chief of New York and the Fifth Collection District of New Jersey, is transferred to Buffalo.

Roster of Directors by Districts.

First—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, with headquarters at Boston—R. B. Sams, Acting Administrator, now State Director of New Jersey.

Second—Southern and Eastern Districts of New York and Connecticut, with headquarters at New York—John A. Foster, Acting Administrator, now Division Chief of First and Twelfth Pennsylvania Districts.

Third—Western and Northern Districts of New York, with headquarters at Buffalo. R. Q. Merrick, Acting Administrator, now Division Chief of New York and Fifth Collection District of New Jersey.

Policeman Dives Off High Wall and Saves 5-Year-Old Boy Gripped by East River Tide

Policeman Rudolph Kerchof plunged from the high retaining wall at East River and Eighty-fourth Street last night and pulled a five-year-old boy from the grip of a strong tide that was sweeping the child out. The policeman then revived the boy and sent him home in the care of another policeman.

A week ago Kerchof was a mounted man. When ordered to patrol duty he was assigned to the East 104th Street Station. He had been four years in the mounted division and he and Prince, his horse, had become great pals. Orders were orders however, and Kerchof began to pound the pavements along the East River waterfront.

Last night as he paused at Eighty-sixth Street he heard cries. He located the sound as coming from the wall at Eighty-fourth Street two blocks outside Kerchof's precinct. The policeman ran down. He was short of breath when he reached the embankment sloping down to the darkening water. Without pausing to remove even his shoes Kerchof leaped in. A few powerful strokes and he seized the boy, Emil Sacket of 1,584 Avenue A.

After his rescue Kerchof, thoroughly soaked and chilled, reported at his station house. He was ordered to go home and rest. He gently suggested to the Desk Lieutenant that he could not travel out to his home at 115 Potter Avenue, Astoria, dripping water like a rain-spout.

"Slip into your extra suit in the locker," said the Lieutenant.

"But I've only been here a week and I haven't got the extra uniform over yet," said Kerchof.

A backroom conference was held and in the end Kerchof sallied out of the station house in the shirt of Captain Loonam, the shoes of the doorman, the Desk Lieutenant's extra trousers, some accessories supplied by a detective, and a cap lent by a Sergeant. The only thing that fitted Kerchof were a fellow patrolman's suspenders and the commendation of everybody in the station house for his deed.

Carl C. Magee Kills Bystander in Fight With Judicial Foe in New Mexico Hotel

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., Aug. 21 (AP).—Carl C. Magee, Albuquerque editor and storm centre of New Mexico politics, tonight shot and killed John B. Lassater, a State employe, in a hotel here, when, in a fight with former District Judge D. J. Leahy, his political enemy, he drew a revolver and fired suddenly. Lassater was a bystander.

Magee fired two shots after he had been knocked to the floor by Leahy, the first shot striking Lassater and the second wounding Leahy in the arm.

Leahy was the district judge who tried Magee in two cases, both of which gained national publicity.

Leahy walked into the hotel, witnesses of the shooting said, and immediately approached Magee and began pummeling him.

Magee was taken into custody by Sheriff Lorenzo Delgado of San Miguel County, but no charge had been filed against him at an early hour tonight.

Carl C. Magee, known as "the fighting editor of Albuquerque," has been called the man who really started the Federal Teapot Dome oil lease investigation by his editorial activities in New Mexico. In his paper, The New Mexico Tribune, he fought for two years what was known as the Segundo Romero political ring. As a result of his activities and his criticism of the manner in which the courts were conducted he was indicted and found guilty on four counts of criminal libel and contempt of court by District Judge B. J. Leahy in July, 1923.

Judge Leahy sentenced him to 360 days in the County Jail, or ninety days on each count. Governor Hinkle immediately issued a complete pardon, characterizing the court proceedings as "more of a persecution than a prosecution."

The next year a jury acquitted Magee of a charge of criminal libel made by Clarence J. Roberts, former Justice of the State Supreme Court.

NEW JERSEY LEADERS SEEK COOLIDGE'S AID

HE REACHES SHORE IN RAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge Greet Old Friends at Northampton Before Leaving in Car.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 21.—President and Mrs. Coolidge returned to White Court tonight after spending a week visiting their parents. They spent last night at Northampton as the guest of Mrs. Goodhue, the President's mother-in-law, who lives in the Coolidge home at 21 Massasoit Street.

The President reached White Court at 6:30 o'clock to face the busiest week-end he has had this Summer. Postmaster General New is to arrive soon after 10 o'clock tomorrow, to be followed by Senator Wadsworth, Chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee. At 11 o'clock Butler Wright, Assistant Secretary of State, will present Edwin Barclay, Secretary of State of Liberia.

Senator Edge, State Senator Whitney and Edwin C. Stokes, Republican State Chairman of New Jersey, will see the President before noon and may be luncheon guests.

The visit of the New Jersey politicians is to seek the support of the President in the New Jersey Gubernatorial contest. It is not probable that Mr. Coolidge will interfere actively in the partisan troubles in that State, although he may make some move in the hope of bringing about harmony for the Fall election.

President Receives Neighbors.

After calling upon his law partner Arthur Hemmenway, at Northampton this morning, the President received several old neighbors and left soon after noon for Swampscott.

The utmost simplicity attended the President's visit in Northampton. He declined to have a reception and his neighbors followed his wishes. Mrs. Coolidge called greetings from the front porch to her near neighbors and those who passed by. She obliged the photographers and movie operators by posing with her mother and consented to be filmed while holding the Boston bulldog Beans.

The first thing that greeted the President today was the flag raising on the flagpole in the yard by the Boy Scout assigned to that duty Gilbert Bartlett of Company 101. Calvin Coolidge Jr. was a member of this company, which had raised and lowered the flag in the Coolidge yard during and since the war.

The trip from Northampton by motor was made by Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge in a slight rain. This made it impossible to run over the good roads in fast time, although the 135 miles were covered in a little over five hours, including a stop for tea at the home of Charles F. Choate of Boston, near Marlboro.

Hears From "Green Mountain Boys."

The Executive offices made public today a letter written by William A. Aiken, a Vermont voter, and President Coolidge's reply. The former expresses the hope that he might be able to vote for the President again, in the following letter:

"Dear Mr. President:

"The writer, a 'Green Mountain Boy' of A. D. 1833, takes this method of 'paying his respects' to his chosen President, whom he hopes to vote for once more.

"His first vote was cast for Abraham Lincoln, whose nomination in the Chicago 'Wigwam' he witnessed. During Lincoln's Presidency writer held eight interesting interviews with him, as military representative of the then 'War Governor' of Connecticut, Hon. William A. Buckingham. Writer was present, in same capacity, in the East Room of the White House at Lincoln's funeral.

"Writer cannot close this tribute of respect without including Mrs. Coolidge, one of the most acceptable mistresses of the White House, at which he was often a guest during the incumbency of his very dear aunt, Mrs. Franklin Pierce.

"Yours, with high respect,
WM. A. AIKEN."

President Replies.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 19, 1925.

My dear Mr. Aiken:

COMPANION SAVED BY RUSE

James E. Gallagher, a bank messenger, was shot to death and a payroll of $14,000 was stolen yesterday afternoon in a hold-up at Perth Amboy by three gunmen who shot without warning and escaped without uttering a word.

The robbery was at Convery Place and Smith Street, in one of the most frequented parts of the town, and dozens of persons witnessing it fled for cover when the men started firing.

Although the police of Perth Amboy and near-by cities spread the alarm swiftly and put every available man on the hunt, no one had been caught late last night, nor had the money been recovered.

Gallagher was 65 years old and was employed by the Perth Amboy Trust Company. With a companion, Carl Gray, he left the company's office in a taxicab with the money which was to be delivered to the Stillman, Delehanty & Ferris Company, contractors, in charge of the construction of a bridge across the Raritan River between Perth Amboy and South Amboy.

Attacked as Car Slows Up.

The taxi, driven by Russell Schuck, a Perth Amboy youth, was nearing its destination when at Convery Place and Smith Street the driver saw a deep rut in the road ahead. Schuck slowed up his machine. At the same instant two men sprang from an automobile parked near by and mounted the running board of the taxi. One of them pointed his pistol at the driver, and the driver's hands shot from the wheel into the air. The other, without a warning of any kind, sent a bullet through one of the windows of the car, and Gallagher dropped to the floor with a bullet through his temple.

The dead man's companion although armed with two pistols, knew that resistance was useless and rolled from the seat to dodge the five bullets which spat from the pistol in quick succession. He lay as if he had been killed, and apparently no bullet was fired directly at him, for he escaped harm. Probably to terrify the driver, whom he covered, in the front of the machine, the second gunman also blazed away, smashing the windshield to bits and breaking the other windows in the cab. Then he grabbed the satchel containing the money and fled with his companion to the machine they had left. A third man, at the wheel, sent the car swiftly south on Smith Street toward New Brunswick, where it rounded a corner and disappeared.

Throughout the whole procedure not a word had been spoken, but the volley of shots with which the robbery started brought workmen from a near-by tile factory into the adjoining yards to see what was happening. Instantly seeing they were in danger from the flying bullets, they rushed to their kilns again and remained hidden until the shooting subsided. A group of children playing on a near-by lot scattered in all directions.

Dies on Way to Hospital.

As soon as the bandits had left, Schuck started with Gallagher toward the Perth Amboy Hospital at high speed, but the aged bank messenger died before reaching there.

The driver and Gray said that the bandits used an Essex closed car, but the police several hours later discovered an abandoned Buick machine in Maurer Road, near Perth Amboy. This was taken to the latter city where finger prints found on the car were recorded. It later developed that the license plate of this automobile had been issued to George Tangora of 175 Totowa Avenue, Paterson. He told the police that it had been used on his Hudson car, which had been stolen on May 6.

Despite the fact that the hold-up was seen by many persons, a complete description of the bandits could not be obtained. Even Schuck and Gray were not certain of their assailants' appearance. They said that all of the men wore working clothes and were of me-

BAGGAGE DELIVERY IN CITY THREATENED BY TRANSFER STRIKE

REFUSE PLEA FOR DELAY

SHORTER HOURS DEMANDED

Employers Say Business Has Fallen Off So They Lose Money—Move for Lower Rates Expected.

A strike of 800 expressmen and helpers was called yesterday and the men have agreed to quit work at midnight Monday. Last hour efforts by the Public Service Commission to avert the strike resulted in a call for a meeting of the union last night, at which the agreement was reached and the plea for delay rejected. Unless the order for the walkout is withdrawn, vacationists and the traveling public will be seriously inconvenienced. Tens of thousands of vacationists returning to the city with their trunks and other baggage, which is generally transferred by the New York Transfer Company and the Westcott Express, will be compelled to make their own arrangements for the delivery of baggage to their homes.

Negotiations for a new agreement to replace the two-year contract expiring midnight Sunday have been going on for a month between Local 645 of the Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers' Union, an organization headed by Martin Lacey, and the two transfer companies. Yesterday a conference was held at the office of the Public Service Commission. Commissioner George M. Van Namee requested the union delegation to arrange a meeting last night, and ask the members to postpone the strike three weeks so that public hearings might be held and the merits of the case be determined.

Meeting Rejects Delay.

The expressmen voted to go on strike after listening to impassioned addresses by their leaders. They refused to heed the suggestion of the Public Service Commission to postpone the strike three weeks, on the ground that this would take them past the vacation season and would leave the transfer companies in a better position than at present. The announcement that the strike vote had been taken was made by Martin Lacey, business manager of the union.

Union spokesmen told reporters after the meeting at Unity Hall, 34 West Forty-seventh Street, that if the Public Service Commission felt that it had been imposed on by being taken unawares at the last minute it was not the union's fault, as the negotiations with the employers spread over six weeks.

Orders have been issued by the New York Transfer Company not to pick up trunks for transfer to railroad stations after midnight tonight, nor to accept trunks and packages for delivery at the terminals after tomorrow. Extreme congestion of trunks in shipment is expected tomorrow unless the walkout is postponed.

As far as could be learned, the walkout will affect only the two companies which have contracts with railroads for the transportation of baggage. As the union involved is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, a sympathetic walkout is not expected.

S. W. F. Draper, head of the New York Transfer Company, said that the company was financially unable to grant the reduction of one hour in the work day. He said the company lost money last year, and would lose more if the cost of operation increased without an increase in the cost of transferring baggage.

It was said that the Public Service Commission was confronted with the problem of lowering rates for the transfer of baggage to create greater business, in order to bring revenue to meet the demands of employes.

Three years ago the Public Service Commission increased the rate per piece of baggage from $1 to $1.25. The vol-

No Vacation, Says Governor; 'Must Get Walker Nominated'

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP).—"There isn't going to be any vacation this year. I've got to get back to New York and get 'Jimmy' Walker nominated," was Governor Smith's reply tonight when asked if he was in the Adirondacks for a vacation.

The Governor came here early this afternoon "just to visit with my friends," he said. He was accompanied by Joseph H. Wilson, Research Director of the State Board of Estimate and Control.

The Governor and Mr. Wilson returned to Albany tonight.

INDICT SIX FOR PLOT TO DRIVE OUT NEGRO

VANDALISM IS CHARGED

Neighbors Had Objected to Letter Carrier Moving Into a Community of Whites.

Musco M. Robertson, a Staten Island real estate operator, was indicted yesterday by the Richmond County Grand Jury with five "John Does" for conspiracy to force Samuel Brown, a negro letter carrier, to sell his home in the Castleton Hill district, where Brown and his wife are the only negro residents. Brown's home is at 67 Fairview Avenue and Robertson's at 65 Fairview Avenue, next door.

The indictment was returned one month and a day after the case was presented to the Grand Jury. Robertson pleaded not guilty in the Richmond County Court and after he had been released in $500 bail issued a statement denying guilt and announcing his readiness to go to trial at once.

The indictment, which was handed up to County Judge J. Harry Tiernan, charges Robertson and the five other white men, whose names are unknown to the Grand Jury, with conspiring to use four methods to oust the letter carrier from his home. The methods were:

(1) Attempting to have Brown transferred from duty in the Stapleton post office to an office much further distant from his home.

(2) Attempting to have the Westerleigh Building and Loan Association foreclose the first mortgage on Brown's home.

(3) Attempting to get fire insurance companies to cancel the fire insurance policies of the letter carrier.

(4) Committing acts of vandalism on the property from July 5, 1924, to July 17 of this year.

Charged With Vandalism.

It was the vandalism on the property that finally resulted in the presentation of the case to the Grand Jury. It is charged in the indictment that Robertson and the five others conspired to uproot trees on Brown's property, tear down screens, break windows and otherwise damage the property.

The last attack on the house came early on the morning of July 17, when a group gathered in the street, broke many windows with stones, ran to the front porch and kicked in several of the panels in the door, smashed flower pots and broke several umbrella trees.

The first attack came soon after Brown bought the house from Mrs. Klea Evans for $8,500. When he moved in and other residents of the district discovered that a negro family had purchased the property, efforts were made to get him to sell at a profit. The first offer was $9,000, and when this was refused the bid was raised to $9,500 and then to $10,000.

Soon after Brown had refused the first offer the first acts of vandalism were committed. When the $10,000 offer was presented, according to Mrs. Brown, who is a teacher in Public School 11 in Stapleton, her husband was ready to accept, but just as he was prepared to make the deal the conspirators managed to have the company that held the fire insurance policy cancel it.

This turn of affairs, said Mrs. Brown, caused her husband to decide definitely that he must continue to hold the house

Pancake-Loving Turtle, a Family Heirloom, Kidnapped From Home He's Visited for Years

BROOKHAVEN, L. I., Aug. 21.—Mrs. Edward Raynor's pet turtle, which came to her back door every day in Spring and Summer for four years to get pancakes made by a recipe known to her family for 200 years, has been kidnapped and advertised as lost in the current issue of The Brookhaven Advance.

Mrs. Raynor, like many other persons of Brookhaven, has made a pet of turtles, especially those which had the initials of her ancestors carved on their shells, and when this particular turtle which had a large "B" on his back, came to her house four years ago, she knew he had been the pet of the Bartow family, her ancestors, who settled here two centuries ago, and she took pains to make him welcome.

The turtle, a large fellow, immediately showed a fondness for the Bartow pancakes. At first he ate only what the Raynor cat left, but then, after Mrs. Raynor saw how much he liked them, she made up special batches of batter for him alone and set them out in a plate at the back door. Every morning he would waddle to the house to get them, except during strawberry blossom time, when Mrs. Raynor knew he was getting sustenance in strawberry beds. This would continue until early Fall, when, with the first cold snap, the turtle would disappear somewhere into the earth to hibernate for the Winter.

But a week or so ago after the turtle had got his pancakes and waddled off again to whatever turtles do when not eating pancakes, Mrs. Raynor saw an automobile stop, a man reach down to the earth, lift something into his car and drive away.

The next day and the next and the day afterward the turtle did not come to the Raynor backdoor for his pancakes. Then Mrs. Raynor inserted the following advertisement in The Brookhaven Advance:

LOST—If this notice comes to the man who took the turtle, will he please return him to Mrs. Edward Raynor, who fears he will miss his pancakes and also will never be able to find his way back to his Winter location?

"I want only to know that the turtle is well off," said Mrs. Raynor today. "If the man doesn't want to return him, I'll be glad to send him a recipe for the pancakes. I'm afraid the turtle will miss them and be unhappy."

BROOKLYN SENATOR REPUDIATES HYLAN; TO SUPPORT WALKER

CALLS TWO TERMS ENOUGH

KINGS CAMPAIGN FORMING

The anti-Hylan forces gained an important adherent in Brooklyn yesterday when State Senator William Lathrop Love, from the home district of John H. McCooey, Mayor Hylan's chief supporter, announced his support of Senator Walker, the Tammany candidate for Mayor. Senator Love criticized the Mayor's attack on Governor Smith's proposed $300,000,000 grade crossing program, for which he voted in the Legislature, and said he had believed for some time that two terms were enough for any Mayor, but had refrained heretofore from saying so, out of loyalty to Mr. McCooey.

With the time for filing declinations of designations expiring at midnight, Tammany men expressed satisfaction that their fight with the Mayor was in the primaries, where they expect to defeat him, rather than as an independent candidate in the general election. More assurances of support from organization Democrats in Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond, where the Democratic organizations are officially supporting Mayor Hylan, were reported by the Walker campaign managers.

Senator Love's Statement

In announcing his support of Senator Walker, Senator Love said:

"When a man has the high standard of home life and the reputation for personal integrity possessed by Mayor Hylan the unbounded knocks and unfair criticism to which he has been subjected act as a boomerang and make him very strong. But, as I diagnose public sentiment, the feeling that two terms are enough for any man—the crystallization of public opinion against a third term which always comes about—constitutes the chief obstacle to his re-election.

"My loyalty to Mr. McCooey has prevented me from saying this before, but Mayor Hylan's announcement of opposition to the proposed grade-crossing bond issue definitely alienates from him the support of those who voted for this program in the Legislature.

"With thousands of others who admire Mayor Hylan's stand on many public questions, I believe two terms as Mayor are enough for any man. I am going to vote for Senator Walker. I believe him to be exceptionally qualified. My diagnosis is that nearly every member of the Senate and Assembly who served with Senator Walker will be found in the final showdown lined up enthusiastically in his support."

Senators Kleinfeld, Higgins and Johnson, all Brooklyn Democrats, repudiated on Thursday Mayor Hylan's attack on the proposed grade-crossing bond issue, but Senator Love so far has been the only Brooklyn Democratic Senator to announce that he would support Senator Walker. Three other Brooklyn Democratic Senators, John A. Hastings, Daniel J. Carroll and Jeremiah B. Twomey, announced their repudiation of the Mayor's position on the grade-crossing amendment yesterday.

"We're for Hylan for Mayor, but I stand by my vote for Governor Smith's grade-crossing program," said Senator Twomey.

"I voted for the grade-crossing amendment, and I am still for it," said Senator Hastings.

Defections From Hylan.

The grade-crossing situation is reported to be acute in Brooklyn, as many of the most dangerous crossings which would be eliminated by the Governor's program, should it be adopted, are in Brooklyn. It was said that the Mayor's opposition to this program had already cost him considerable support, and that some of the Brooklyn Assemblymen who also voted for the grade-crossing resolution in the Legislature might announce their support of Senator Walker.

John J. Curtin, the Brooklyn campaign manager for Walker, reported that more than 150 Brooklyn Democrats had volunteered to speak for him in Brooklyn. The Brooklyn Walker Speakers' Bureau will be organized at a luncheon at the Hotel St. George on Monday, at which Senator Walker, General Charles W. Berry, candidate for Controller, and Justice Joseph V. McKee, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, will speak.

State Senator Duncan T. O'Brien of the Nineteenth Manhattan District also joined the protest over the Mayor's grade crossing utterance. Last night he sent the following telegram:

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 21.

To the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES:

I noticed several statements by Brooklyn Senators in today's TIMES. I wish to add mine to the fast-growing list. As far as the grade-crossing question is concerned, I stand squarely behind my vote in the Senate. Our leader, Jimmy Walker, led the fight for it and every bill that was for the people of the State, and especially of the City of New York, as a representatives of New York City. I heartily endorse Senator James Walker for Mayor and will do all in my power to help the election of the Walker-McKee-Barry ticket.

SENATOR DUNCAN T. O'BRIEN.

Other defections from Mayor Hylan were reported in Richmond, where the anti-Hylanites have put up a local ticket, headed by County Judge J. Harry Tiernan as a candidate for Borough President. Some dissatisfaction was said to have been caused among the other Hylan local candidates by what they have regarded as an attempt of the regular Richmond Democratic organization to centre their efforts for the renomination of Borough President John A. Lynch without particular regard to carrying the borough for Mayor Hylan.

Revival of the old-time Brooklyn Democratic slogan, "The Tiger Must Not Cross the Bridge," by Mr. McCooey in presenting Mayor Hylan to his Executive Committee on Thursday, was variously interpreted yesterday. It was accepted as definite evidence by the Hylan supporters of Mr. McCooey's loyalty to the Mayor.

"It was all right," was the comment of former Surrogate John P. Cohalan, Mayor Hylan's Manhattan and Bronx campaign manager. "It was a definite answer to reports that there was any doubt about Mr. McCooey's position."

Walker Leaders Confer.

George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany; Sheriff Edward J. Flynn, Democratic leader of the Bronx; Senator Walker, General Berry and Justice McKee had a conference at the Walker-Berry-McKee headquarters at the Hotel Commodore and made definite plans for the campaign. Beginning next Monday meetings for the candidates will be arranged for practically every night of the week.

Judge Olvany declined to discuss Mr. McCooey's "Tiger Must Not Cross the Bridge" statement, and said that the only matters discussed at the conference were routine matters in connection with the campaign.

Senator Walker sent a letter to the Walker-Berry-McKee Committee of Richmond County, headed by Bertram G. Eadie, thanking the members for the work done in his behalf. "You can tell your voters that we have the welfare of Staten Island constantly in mind and will do all we can to meet the needs of your borough," Senator Walker wrote. "The reports from your borough have been most encouraging. Keep up the good work and success is assured."

It was announced at Walker headquarters that the Manhattan and Bronx Chapter of the Retail Confectioners' Association had endorsed Senator Walker's candidacy. An endorsement of him by the General Tadensz Kosciusko Polish Democratic Club of the Bronx also was made public.

HYLAN CALLS WALKER TRACTION RING 'TOOL'

Says His Opponent, if Elected, Would Bring About Increased Fare.

Mayor Hylan charged last night that Senator James J. Walker, his Tammany opponent for the Democratic nomination for Mayor, was a "tool" of the traction ring, and asserted that his opponent, if elected, would bring about an increased fare.

The Mayor made his charge in a speech at a municipal band concert at Sunset Park, Seventh Avenue and Forty-third Street, Brooklyn. He appeared there about 9 o'clock, and said he had dropped in, attracted by the music, and thought he might tell his hearers something about the city campaign.

"If this man Walker is elected, you can bet you will have an increased fare," the Mayor said. "He is with the traction ring.

"During his service at Albany he never did anything on his own initiative to protect you from an increased fare. It was not until I sent him a bill, which was passed by the Legislature at my request, that there was anything done to prevent an increased fare. Walker is with the traction ring and, if elected, will deliver the goods to them."

The Mayor also gave his explanation of the defection of Senator Walter Lathrop Love, who announced his support of Senator Walker during the day, and attributed it to the Senator's loss of his "P. D." automobile sign.

"Today a Brooklyn man came out against me," Mayor Hylan said. "The man I mean is Senator Love, and I will tell you why. It 'peeved' him because his 'P. D.' sign was revoked. He had a 'P. D.' sign, but Commissioner Enright revoked all 'P. D.' signs, his along with the rest. He has been sore ever since and looking for some excuse to come out against me."

The Mayor attacked the traction interests and told of what his Administration had done for the people of the city, specifying construction of new schools, the establishment of playgrounds and street shower baths and the giving of band concerts in the parks as some of the things of public benefit he had brought about.

About 1,500 persons, including many women and children, were present at the concert and listened to the Mayor's speech.

DEBS TO CAMPAIGN HERE.

Will Make Several Speeches for Socialist Candidate for Mayor.

Eugene V. Debs, four times Socialist candidate for President, will enter the New York City campaign with a series of speeches for Dr. Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Mayor, it was announced yesterday at Socialist headquarters, 7 East Fifteenth Street.

The announcement followed receipt of a telegram from Mr. Debs in which he denounced Mayor Hylan as an "arch demagogue," and referred to supporters of Senator Walker as "a Tammany band of grafters and menials of the predatory interests."

"I am itching to get into the fight on behalf of Norman Thomas," Mr. Debs added.

The Socialists have so far scheduled three large meetings at which Mr. Debs and Dr. Thomas will be the principal speakers. These will be held at Carnegie Hall on Oct. 11, Hunt's Point Palace, the Bronx, on Oct. 13, and the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, on Oct. 15. Other Socialist speakers of prominence who will take part in the campaign include James Maurer, President of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor, and Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor in 1917.

SUMMONED FOR AUTO SIGN.

Walker Placard on Real Estate Man's Car Obscured License Plate.

Enthusiasm for the candidacy of Senator James J. Walker, Tammany candidate for Mayor, brought Le Roy C. Silver, a real estate man of 67 West Fifty-second Street, into Traffic Court yesterday. Mr. Silver pleaded guilty to covering his automobile license plate with a sign, reading "Our Jimmie for Mayor." Magistrate August Dreyer suspended sentence.

Mr. Silver said that his zeal for Senator Walker had caused him to overlook the fact that the sign, a large one covering the entire back of the automobile, had obscured the license plate. It was not overlooked by Patrolman Anthony M. Lees of Traffic A, who was stationed at Broadway and Sixty-fifth Street, when he handed Mr. Silver a summons. Mr. Silver told the Magistrate that he had readjusted the sign.

HYLAN ECHOES LYONS ON TAMMANY PLOT

SEES TRACTION SCHEME

Hints That Walker if Elected Would Repudiate His Endorsement of Hylan Policies.

Picking up the charge of John J. Lyons, Republican Mayoralty candidate, that the ticket headed by Frank D. Waterman was named by the Republican organization leaders to be beaten, Mayor Hylan asked yesterday whether there had not been agreement between Republican leaders and Tammany, as instruments of the traction interests, to nominate a weak Republican ticket, if Tammany would prevent his renomination.

The Mayor said:

"Mr. Lyons, one of the candidates for the Republican Mayoralty nomination, charges that Waterman, the organization Republican candidate, is merely a stall and that he was put up to be knocked down. There is more truth than poetry in that observation. It leads to the query, What induced the Republican organization, acting through Hilles and other politicians of the reactionary traction financial group, to put up a candidate in name only? It lends color to the suggestion that they were working in agreement with somebody. If so, with whom were they working? And what was the agreement?

"Obviously, no one present at the political meeting of arrangements will tell. We can assume, however, that when the traction Republican leaders put up a candidate to be knocked down the knocking down and dragging out is to be done by a Democratic candidate, whoever he may be. We can also assume, knowing that the traction Republicans are bitterly hostile to Mayor Hylan, that they put up their stall candidate under an agreement with the Democratic traction factionists.

"Did the traction Republican leaders say to Olvany and Flynn, directly or through some one else, 'We realize that if you go into a primary fight to defeat Mayor Hylan for renomination it will leave the Democratic Party in a weak condition to face election in November. We don't want to take advantage of that. We only want to defeat Hylan, the principal opponent of a higher fare. Now, if you make the fight in the primary against Hylan we will assist you to make the fight in the election by putting up a weak candidate. And then we will toss to your candidate the Republican machine vote, as well as a lot of conservative Republicans, and then there will be plenty in it for all of us.'

"Mr. Olvany might have settled all doubt by promptly replying to the fourteen questions put to him by Judge Cohalan, but he has declined to tell why he designated Mr. Walker in place of Mayor Hylan. He has refused to tell the leaders and members of his own organization his reasons for breaking a precedent of thirty years' standing by refusing to abide by the rule of the majority in Democratic Party conferences and conventions when he arbitrarily demanded that his candidate should be the nominee for Mayor.

"And an amusing phase of the whole situation is that the traction newspapers are supporting Walker. The Olvany-Flynn minority candidate has declared for practically all of my principles and policies, which, in turn, are the principles and policies as enunciated in the Democratic city platforms of 1917 and 1921. Yet such newspapers have attacked these very policies day in and day out ever since I have been in office.

"Do they feel that Walker's declaration of principles are so much lip-service and that he has said something merely to tickle the ears of the public until election day, but to permanently gladden the hearts of the traction gentlemen by a prompt disavowal of all such declarations if successful in the contest?

"They know that I, as Mayor, have meant every word that I have said and that I have lived up both to professions and to promises. Do they know what Walker is going to do? Has Olvany spoken for him in secret session?

"When the chief of the Wall Street Tipster Bureau was questioned on the tip which he gave to Wall Street gamblers many days in advance of the actual designation that Walker would be the next candidate of Tammany for Mayor, he replied that he had received the information from inside the organization, that is, Fourteenth Street, evidently George Olvany.

"Why does not Mr. Olvany take the people into his confidence? If he continues to disregard the fourteen pertinent questions, the public is entitled to assume that Mr. Lyons's assertion is quite correct, that the Republican mayoralty candidate is merely a stalking horse, and to assume further that there is a deal on between the traction Republicans and the traction Democrats to seize control of the city Government and to put over a candidate for Mayor who will do the bidding of the traction interests and increase the carfare."

Former Surrogate John P. Cohalan, Mayor Hylan's Manhattan and Bronx campaign manager, added to his list of questions to Judge Olvany by inquiring if it was not true that Mayor Hylan had appointed hundreds of Tammany men to exempt positions and if he had not forced the selection of Borough President Julius Miller as the Tammany candidate for renomination when the majority of the Tammany Executive Committee favored the designation of Max S. Levine.

CONNOLLY ATTACKS UNION.

Says Caldwell Is Welcome to Support of Citizens' Organization.

In reply to announcement of the endorsement of Charles Pope Caldwell, his opponent for the Democratic nomination for Borough President of Queens, by the Citizens Union, Borough President Maurice E. Connolly attacked the Union yesterday as a "dead" organization and declared that its endorsement of his opponent was a compliment to his own integrity.

"My opponent is welcome to the Citizens Union endorsement," Mr. Connolly said. "I should have been much embarrassed and much concerned about my success had they endorsed me.

"The Citizens Union a dead body, has rarely been right, and when right only because of a wrong reason. It has been the tool of every big interest that has contributed to its support and has underwritten every big fake movement for the exploitation of the City of New York since its organization. It is composed of a paid Secretary named Arndt and a few other professional officeholders drawing salaries furnished by dupes and special interests. They would be all out of a job if they could no longer shake these people down.

"The endorsement of this paper organization has always been regarded as a bad omen for the one they approve. The people of Queens know the record of achievement made for the Borough during my administration and know of the wonderful things that we have been able to accomplish, and knowing this they will not be influenced by big organizations."

Announcement of the appointment of a Hylan-Connolly Rockaway Business Men's League, to support Mayor Hylan and Borough President Connolly for renomination and re-election, was made by Isaac Zaret, a leading realtor of the Rockaways. Mr. Zaret declared that officials who had done so much for the Rockaways as had Mr. Hylan and Mr. Connolly deserved the support of the business men there.

HIRSHFIELD WARNS HYLAN.

Tells Him Prial Is Reviving Obsolete Club to Aid Walker.

Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield notified Mayor Hylan yesterday that he had been informed that Deputy Controller Frank J. Prial was attempting to revive the Brooklyn Democratic Club, which Mr. Hirshfield declared had been dead for a number of years, and would have it endorse Senator Walker for Mayor.

"Wall Street interests know that as long as you are Mayor the fare on the transit lines in New York will be 5 cents, and that the new city-built subways will be operated municipally for the convenience of the traveling public and the benefit of the city Treasury," Mr. Hirshfield wrote the Mayor. "They are therefore spending money freely and are doing everything to nominate and elect their friend Walker.

"Prial's move to reorganize on paper the old Brooklyn Democratic Club can only have one object—that is, to afford the Walker traction supporters an opportunity for large headlines and to mislead the people into believing that the Brooklyn Democratic Club is a live and important organization in Brooklyn and that it has endorsed Walker, when, as a matter of fact, that old organization is no more."

DIVORCE INQUIRY ORDERED BY JUDGE

Pennsylvania Justice Discovers That Attorneys Are Advertising Decrees Made Easy.

Special to The New York Times.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 21—Judge William Maxwell of Towanda, Pa., presiding over the Bradford County Court, has ordered an investigation of divorces issued by that court. The action followed discovery that lawyers residing in Sayre and Athens, Pa., and practicing in his court, were advertising that they could secure divorces under Pennsylvania's easy divorce laws without undue publicity.

The Judge has discovered that out of more than 3,000 divorces granted in his court, less than 1,000 plaintiffs have remained in Pennsylvania after the signing the decree, many of the others contracting new marriages.

Following a heated declaration that he proposed "to crush Bradford County's divorce mill," Judge Maxwell issued a rule requiring attorneys for Robert Suppe of Clinton, N. Y., to show cause why the divorce granted their client should not be vacated.

At every term of Bradford County Divorce Court, for years past, there have been listed from five to ten actions by "residents" of Sayre and Canton against defendants residing in Elmira, service being secured by publication in the small Bradford County papers not circulating in this city. In most of the cases, it is declared, the plaintiff in the action never gave up his or her residence in this city.

LOWER TAX RATES BRING MORE CASH

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Although the tax rates which were in effect in July were considerably lower than those in the same month last year, the Government collected $15,000,000 more for this July. The Bureau of Internal Revenue announced today that the respective collections were: July, 1924, $110,814,885; July, 1925, $125,866,689.

There was a decrease in the admission tax from $6,000,000 in July, 1924, to $1,500,000 last July, due to the new laws, but there was an increase in the receipts from taxes on automobiles and motorcycles from $7,605,505 to $12,332,971.

Collections of income tax from individuals and corporations rose from $29,264,137 to $34,953,218. The capital stock tax was $20,563,000 this July, while in July, 1924, it was only $6,172,000.

Automobile truck taxes paid $650,666 in July of this year, compared to $902,219 in July, 1924, but while automobile parts were taxed $2,965,694 a year ago, the levy this July was only $1,844,970.

Other taxes for July, 1924, and July, 1925, respectively, were: Cameras, $68,539 and $112,761; films, $103,212 and $82,402; firearms, $320,896 and $444,811; cigar holders and pipes, $8,039 and $2,740; slot machines, $15,820 and $41,015; mah jong sets, $45.74 and $119.25; cigarettes, $19,749,000 and $22,836,000.

CAT WHISKERS PAY DUTY.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The British customs has just made a momentous decision that the whiskers of Felix, the immortal movie cat, are dutiable under the British tariff.

A consignment of cotton handkerchiefs was required to pay 2 per cent. ad valorem duty because the handkerchiefs were adorned in one corner of a representation of Felix. His whiskers were made of six silk stitches, hence the tax. "A stitch in time saves nine, but one in silk costs money," is the comment made by J. H. Hogge, leading member of the Liberal Party, and there is little doubt that taxing the Felix whiskers will play a part in the next British election campaign, as did Lloyd George's phrase about "sardine tin empire" in defeating Stanley Baldwin's preference policy in 1923.

Two Mexican City Suburbs Turn Out to Protect Children.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 21.—Alarm caused by the disappearance of young children caused a small riot in Xochimilco this morning when families, frightened by rumors of kidnappers in the village, rushed to the schools and took the children home.

Crowds gathered in the streets of Tacubaya, also alarmed by the reports. One suspect was almost lynched.

Soviet Auto Caravan on 3,000-Mile Trip Reaches Moscow.

MOSCOW, Aug. 21 (AP).—The United States holds first place, both as regards the number of machines and variety of types, in the Soviet automobile tour from Leningrad to Tiflis, Georgia, which started on Aug. 18 and reached Moscow yesterday.

Many types of cars are represented, from road cars to heavy lorries. The trip of 5,000 kilometers (3,106 miles) is to occupy twenty-two days, including four days of rest.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 21—Germany celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first Zeppelin flight today at Friedrichshafen with music, speeches and special flights of airplanes and balloons but without a Zeppelin. Though the Zeppelin works on the shore of Lake Constance completed 126 dirigibles, the fortunes of war have depleted the country of all the products of this plant in the last twelve years.

Since the departure of the Los Angeles to America, the plant has been idle. Many technicians who shared the problems of the first Zeppelin's construction and the glory of the first flight a quarter of a century ago, gathered at Friedrichshafen. Kober, construction engineer; Duerr, an engineer; Marx, a pilot; Hergesell, a meteorological engineer, and Dr. Eckener, whose efforts enabled the first flight to become a reality, were greeted by a score of aged workmen, who, with their chiefs, bore the jeers of the credulous ones who declared attempts to conquer the air "flying in the face of Providence."

Dr. Eckener, who was captain of the Los Angeles on her transatlantic flight, made an appeal to the German people to come to the rescue of the Zeppelin's future by subscribing to a fund for the construction of a new mammoth ship for a North Pole expedition. The campaign for raising the fund begins next Sunday and Dr. Eckener already has been assured by sport clubs and workers of other organizations that the necessary 5,000,000 marks will be forthcoming.

Dr. Eckener in the course of his speech, said that the Versailles treaty forbade ownership of Zeppelins by Germany but did not mention restriction of private ownership. Therefore, he maintained, the Allies could not disapprove the construction of an airship for an organization whose only aim was discovery.

WALKER ADVOCATES COMPETITION PLAN

Tammany Candidate Favors It to Improve Transit Conditions.

WELCOMED IN THE BRONX

Speaks at Three Meetings—Says Hylan Has Failed to Accomplish Much in His Terms.

Charging Mayor Hylan with having failed to accomplish much of anything during his seven and a half years as Mayor and with having failed particularly to build needed new subways, Senator James J. Walker, Tammany candidate for Mayor, spoke last night at three meetings in the Bronx.

Senator Walker indicated his intention of sticking to his declaration in favor of municipal subway operation by declaring that, if elected, he intended to subject the existing transit companies to competition, which he declared to be the way to bring about improvement in existing conditions. He reiterated his assertion that he had always been and always would be for the five-cent fare.

"But," he added, "I don't want to be a five-cent Mayor."

Senator Walker spoke at three Democratic clubs—the Samoset Democratic Club, at 384 East 155th Street; the Jackson Democratic Club, at 1,175 Boston Road, and the Muskoota Democratic Club, at 313 St. Ann's Avenue. He was accompanied by General Charles W. Berry, candidate for Controller; Justice Joseph V. McKee, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, and Lester W. Patterson, candidate for Sheriff of Bronx County.

Walker in Friendly Territory.

The Tammany Mayoralty candidate was in friendly territory and was received with great enthusiasm. From five to six hundred persons were present at each of the meetings, and each hall was filled to overflowing. Practically all his hearers were members of the Bronx Democratic organization, which is supporting him, and Senator Walker was forced to stop frequently at each meeting for the applause to die down.

Only once was there any attempt at heckling, and that was when a man in the rear of the hall at the Samoset Club meeting during Senator Walker's discussion of the transit issue exclaimed:

"I am getting tired and I am going home."

"You will be more tired before I am through," Senator Walker retorted. "In fact, I think there will be an epidemic of paralysis in certain quarters. I never get tired of telling the truth, but certain persons may get tired of hearing it."

"I don't care what they say about me and I don't care what they think about me," Senator Walker said. "I stand upon my record of service. Of course, if a man hasn't any record, there is no use asking him to stand on it. If no record has been made in one year, it isn't so bad, but when it takes a man seven and a half years to make no record at all we at least have the right to comment upon it."

In the discussion of the five-cent fare, which he indicated that he did not consider a real issue, Senator Walker declared that he didn't blame the transit companies so much for the present congestion as he did the fact that they had no competition. "The way to improve conditions is to give them competition by building more subways," he said.

"I don't know any one who is not for the retention of the five-cent fare, except the transit companies. I am certainly for it and always have been. The five-cent fare is fixed by the dual subway contracts. The only serious effort to increase the fare was through the Legislature, and this attempt was defeated under my leadership.

"I propose to be fair to every opponent," Senator Walker said, "and I want to state right here that the bill providing for bus transportation was written in the City Hall. Although this was so, when the bill came to me I found that there was no provision for a five-cent fare, so I incorporated it in the bill.

"So when we hear that the Mayor is responsible for the five-cent fare, it isn't true. The record of it is all at Albany. I don't want you to take my word for it. As to the charge that we will increase fares, I want to call your attention to the fact that it can only be done by legislation at Albany, if it is to be done at all, and the records of our candidates and the pledges of our candidates are all against it."

Answers Hylan's "Minority" Charge.

Senator Walker referred to Mayor Hylan's frequent assertion that he was the minority Democratic candidate because he had the support of the Democratic organizations of only two out of the five counties.

"You will find out on Sept. 15 that I am the designee of all five counties," he said.

This prediction that he would carry each of the five divisions of the city was received with great applause, temporarily interrupting Senator Walker's speech at the Samoset Club. He took advantage of the pause to take a drink of water from a mug on a table beside him.

"For a moment I didn't know whether I was in the Bronx or at Coney Island," he said, looking at the mug. "Those were the good old days. The sooner they return the better."

Senator Walker stressed the fact that he was a native New Yorker and told of the love he felt for the city in which he was born.

"There is no other town like it," he said. "There is no other town I know of that is so ready to extend the helping hand to the fallen and unfortunate and even to the incompetent. But why should New York, a glutton for punishment, continue the chance of an incompetent over and over again?"

For a Five-Cent Fare With a Seat.

In his speech at the Jackson Club, Senator Walker reiterated that he was for the five-cent fare, but for the five-cent fare with a seat. "I speak with some feeling," he added. "Every day I ride in the subway from my home in Greenwich Village. I only travel about four stations. I have kept tabs since January and I have had a seat only once."

"I don't want the Mayoralty for the glory or honor of it," Senator Walker continued. "I had more satisfaction in leading the fight for workmen's compensation, widows' pensions and child welfare than I ever could get by reviewing all the parades that might pass down New York's thoroughfares in a thousand years. It is going to be a tough job. It will mean that I will have to put in many hours at City Hall and will not have so much time elsewhere.

"I am going to do what every mother in the room would want her son to do if he were Mayor, and what every son would do to please his mother, so help me God."

General Berry and Justice McKee spoke at each of the meetings. Justice McKee, formerly a member of the Assembly, declared that he knew of his own knowledge that Senator Walker had led the fight in the Legislature to preserve the 5-cent fare. The Legislature, Justice McKee added, was the only place in which the 5-cent fare could be successfully attacked.

DANTZIC DECISION IS POLISH VICTORY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 21.—The report of the League of Nations experts commissioned to delimit the Port of Dantzic for the purpose of the Polish Postal Services contains an unquestionable victory for the Polish Government. Despite the contentions of the free city that "the port is limited to the harbor waters and certain technical plants along the banks," the commission has expressed to the council the unanimous opinion that "the port, in a postal sense, should include not merely the area occupied by its technical plants, but also the area in which its economic constituents are concentrated. Following out this opinion the experts have traced within prohibited postal limits practically all territory within half a mile of the waterfront and a large proportion of the city where "a large majority of those trading with other firms which work in conjunction with the port are situated." Moreover it is stressed that certain Polish officials and authorities, notably the Commissioner General of Poland, who are established outside the proposed limits, have the right to use the Polish post.

The experts suggest that representation on either side of the boundary be open to revision every five years. This brings a moral pressure on the free city to make equitable arrangements with Polish authorities by suggesting that the boundary be reconsidered at the expiration of three months, if within that period no agreement has been reached for delivery of postal matter addressed to postal authorities outside the port, and for delivery of postal matter for addressees outside the port at addresses within the port.

Certain postal rights were guaranteed Poland within the free city by the Treaty of Versailles. These rights are supposed to be defined by agreement between Poland and the free city. On failure to arrive at an agreement, Poland last year placed postboxes throughout the city. The boxes were treated by the Dantzickers in a most uncomplimentary manner. The Council of the League then asked the Permanent Court of International Justice to give a decision in the case. The Court decided that Poland is entitled to postal service within "the port" limits, which have never been fixed.

The commission selected by the council to fix the boundary comprised a member of the Legal Committee of the League's Advisory Committee on Communication and Transit—the technical adviser of the Brazilian delegation at Geneva—the former Chairman of the Dantzic Harbor and Waterway Board and a Director of the Amsterdam Post-office.

ume of business dropped considerably, and the transfer companies found that the higher rate, instead of assisting them, deepened their financial plight. In 1922, the rate was lowered to $1 again, but this did not result in the increase in business that had been expected. It may now be necessary for the Public Service Commission to consider the advisability of again reducing the rate.

One explanation of the reduction of the transfer companies earnings was said to be the scantiness of women's apparel, which enables them now to use hand luggage where formerly they were compelled to use trunks. The increased use of the automobile for the transfer of baggage was another reason ascribed for the smaller business.

EXPRESS WORKERS ENJOINED.

Federation Tried to Seize Railway Clerks' Funds, Court Is Told.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Churchill yesterday enjoined the American Federation of Express Workers from interfering with the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, according to the last mentioned organization.

Branding the federation as an "outlaw" organization, Harry J. Chapman, representing the Grand Lodge, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks of Cincinnati, told Justice Churchill that the federation's officials had attempted to seize the brotherhood's funds and property.

The federation, according to Chapman, was organized recently in Chicago, the New York city local including several former members of the Brotherhood. He added that the federation has about 139 members, as compared with the brotherhood's 4,000 that officials of the federation have suspended from the brotherhood.

LYONS ASKS GIFTS FOR PRIMARY FIGHT

FIXES NEEDS AT $5,000

Saying that he was a poor man who could not compete in campaign expenditures with his leading opponent, former Secretary of State John J. Lyons, candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor, appealed yesterday for $1 contributions to his campaign fund to be sent to his headquarters at the Hotel McAlpin. Mr. Lyons added that he did not expect his total campaign expenses to exceed $5,000.

Mr. Lyons said he entered the primaries as a "regular" Republican to give the enrolled voters of that party opportunity to say whether they wanted him or Frank D. Waterman, choice of the Republican country leaders, whom he described as a man who had voted in New Jersey and was an advocate of the League of Nations.

Mr. Lyons, who returned from Florida Thursday night, opened his headquarters at the McAlpin yesterday, and was busy seeing callers who came to offer support. In making clear his position, he said:

Recalls His Record.

"Certain party dictators have asked me the question why I entered the Republican primaries for the office of Mayor. My answer to these gentlemen is as follows:

"I am a Republican. I have been a worker in the party ranks for thirty years. I was elected Secretary of State by a vote which was 510,000 greater in New York City and 720,000 greater in this State than that received by Governor Miller. As a candidate for Sheriff of New York County I received over 200,000 votes more than Mayor Mitchel, the head of the ticket, and lost the election by only 10,000. I have received more votes than anybody nominated on the Republican ticket in Greater New York during the last decade. As a candidate for Mayor I therefore present my name to the party workers with the confidence that it will meet with their approval.

"In the campaign I shall not say it with a fountain pen and a check book, as in the case of Mr. Waterman, but with a loyal devotion to the best interests of the city and to the Republican Party welfare. If I am defeated in the primaries I shall give my unqualified support to the head of the ticket in the subsequent campaign to elect him. But I do not expect to be defeated for the reason that we have a primary in which all Republican voters may express their choice. I believe the great majority of these voters will repudiate the selection by the five titular leaders in the boroughs under the leadership of Mr. Hilles of a business man who has never been identified with party activity and who has registered and voted in the State of New Jersey. To the rank and file of voters Mr. Waterman can have no appeal and the designating committee will find it out to their dismay on primary day

"Usually in this city the Republican organization has sought as its candidate for Mayor either an out and out Republican, such as Henry H. Curran or Otto Bannard, or an out and out Democrat, such as Mayor Mitchel. Whatever may be said for the success of such candidates at the polls, they had a political psychology, differing from that of a purveyor of fountain pens. These men were experienced in public affairs in one way or another and by reason of that fact were equipped to fulfill the duties of Mayor if elected. But Mr. Waterman is not so equipped. He does not know New York; the language of the masses and its problems are Greek to him. There is nothing in his training or affiliations that should entitle him to lead the Republican organization to victory at the polls in November. The party workers are clamoring for a man with an appeal to the people as a whole, for a man who can get votes, and not merely for a bank book which has no appeal.

Resents Leaders' Action.

"I have no complaint against the committee which named Mr. Waterman. It is within their province to state who they think the nominee should be, just as it is within the province of any other six citizens to do the same thing. Clearly, however, it is not within the province of five leaders in Greater New York to dictate to the Republican voters who their nominee shall be. It is for the voters themselves to declare their choice. Therefore, when I throw my hat in the ring I do that which any Republican is privileged to do without the slightest charge of irregularity. I am a regular party man. I present myself as such. Can Mr. Waterman, who has voted in New Jersey and espoused the cause of the League of Nations, say as much? Just as lifelong identification with politics does not unfit a man for public office, as proved in the case of President Coolidge, so lifelong lack of identification with politics does not fit a man for public office, as proved by the case of Mr. Waterman.

"We need a change in our city Government and we need it badly. Strap hangers are tired of continual bunk and promises. Expenditures have doubled in seven years and there is no end in sight. I stand upon a platform of good government, economically administered, without favor or unfairness, for the good of all. I should like to see in this town four years of the common sense that we have in Washington. What we need is more subways, more schools, and above all, less talk and more actual and definite accomplishment. Hylanism and Tammanyism should both go. Let us have a Mayor who is human and also has common horse sense. I understand that the Republican platform is being written by a committee headed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. I have no doubt that I shall be able to accept it in entirety.

"I cannot hope to compete with the pocketbook of Mr. Waterman. I am a poor man and am dependent upon my salary. Therefore, I cannot make the extensive campaign that he can. I shall have to appeal to the voters through the party workers and the newspapers. I do not suppose that my entire campaign will cost more than $5,000.

"I respectfully request that Republicans interested in my fight will show an interest and contribute $1 to the cause.

"Believe me, whatever the outcome, my opponents will know by primary day that they have been in a battle. It will be no quarter and let the best man win."

KISSEL OUT OF RACE.

Withdraws After Announcement His Petition Has Too Few Names.

Former State Senator John Kissel of Brooklyn, insurgent candidate for the Republican nomination for Controller, was disqualified yesterday, when a count of the signatures on his designating petitions by employes of the Board of Elections disclosed that they numbered only 1,096, instead of 1,500 as required by law for a candidate for any city-wide position.

Announcement of the failure of Mr. Kissel's supporters to obtain a sufficient number of signatures was made by Commissioner Jacob A. Livingston, who in addition to being a member of the Board of Elections is the Republican leader of Brooklyn. The elimination of Mr. Kissel left James E. Finegan, the Brooklyn Democrat selected as the candidate for Controller on the so-called Republican-Citizens' ticket, without opposition for the Republican nomination for Controller. It has been understood that Mr. Finegan, who has long fought John H. McCooey's leadership of the Brooklyn Democratic organization, was Mr. Livingston's selection.

Scrutiny of Mr. Kissel's petitions was said to have been in progress for several days, as were others submitted by insurgent Republican candidates in Kings. Formal action by the board disqualifying Mr. Kissel is expected at its regular meeting next Tuesday.

Eight hours after Mr. Livingston's announcement of Mr. Kissel's disqualification THE NEW YORK TIMES received the following telegram from Mr. Kissel, dated at Washington, D. C.:

Irving Fain, insurgent Republican candidate for Register of Kings County against Jacob Bartscherer, choice of the organization, filed his declination. "I withdrew from the contest so as not to create dissension and in the interest of party harmony," Mr. Fain said.

P. St. George Bissell, Republican, for Municipal Court Justice, First District, Manhattan.

854 Queens Voters Shifted To a Brooklyn District

Voters of one entire election district, the Sixteenth of the Second Assembly District of Queens, will receive formal notification in a few days that they have been transferred permanently from residence in Queens to residence in Brooklyn. The transfer involves a total of 854 voters and a complete population of 2,346. About 100 other voters, now living in the Fourth Election District of the Second Queens Assembly District and the Fourth Election District of the Queens Sixth Assembly District also have been transferred.

The change, which was completed in the office of the Queens Board of Elections was made necessary by an act of the last Legislature changing the boundaries between Brooklyn and Queens. Many of the houses had been built partly in Queens and partly in Brooklyn.

OTTINGER FOR WATERMAN.

Congratulates Candidate and Asks Support for Him.

Attorney General Albert Ottinger yesterday wrote to Frank D. Waterman, congratulating him on his designation and the Republican Party on getting a business man as its candidate for Mayor.

"We are prepared to go before the people affirmatively upon the basis of your splendid talent for organization and reorganization," Mr. Ottinger wrote. "Under your administration thrift, economy, enterprise will become a ready substitute for waste and extravagance.

"It is my earnest hope that the people will realize their good fortune in being afforded the opportunity to vote for you next November. As a Republican I urge every other Republican to work earnestly and constantly, not only for your nomination, which is already assured, but for your nomination by an overwhelming majority."

PERSHING CHECKS RIOTING OF CHILEANS

Breaks Up Efforts of Potato Throwers in Arica to Suppress Peruvian Journal.

ARICA, Chile, Aug. 21 (AP).—General John J. Pershing, President of the Tacna-Arica Plebiscitary Commission, intervened today when the hostility of Arica's Chilean inhabitants to the newspaper published and distributed here by the Peruvian delegation to the commission resulted in disorders in front of his residence.

A Chilean crowd gathered this morning to attempt to prevent the sale of the newspaper on the streets of Arica and frightened the sellers into the doorway of General Pershing's residence, where three members of the American delegation intervened. When the General's attention was called to the incident he immediately visited Agustin Edwards, head of the Chilean delegation, and afterward announced that the Peruvians "will have a perfect right to sell papers or to go anywhere in the city."

The Chilean-Aricans' hostility to the paper, which is published on the Peruvian transport Ucayali, has increased daily since it first appeared on Aug. 10. This morning a crowd gathered around the sellers and hustled them down the street until they were in front of General Pershing's residence, at the door of which the Peruvians stopped.

In the presence of Raymond C. Cox, William J. Dennis and Major John G. Quakemeyer of the American delegation, potatoes were thrown at the Peruvians.

The police guarding the General's residence then ordered both the Peruvians and the crowd to move on, since it was against orders to loiter in that vicinity. Mr. Denins and the other Americans, however, ordered the police to allow the Peruvians to remain and they helped the police disperse the crowd, which retired a few hundred feet, forming a semicircle.

When the General was informed of the affair he went immediately to Señor Edwards's residence. Returning soon, he told the Peruvian newspaper men still gathered on his doorstep that the sale of their paper was permissible. By this time the crowd has dispersed and the Peruvians returned into the centre of the city to continue selling their papers.

SMITH TO CAMPAIGN TO AID AMENDMENTS

ASSURED WALKER WILL WIN

Governor Hopes for Big Majorities for Bond Issues and Reorganization.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 21.—As soon as he finishes his primary campaign in behalf of the nomination of Senator James J. Walker for Mayor of New York City, Governor Smith will stump the State to rally support for the three constitutional amendments that are to go to the voters for decision on election day.

One of the amendments, that proposing a $300,000,000 bond issue for the elimination of grade crossings throughout the State, recently drew the fire of Mayor Hylan, who served notice that he intended to oppose it. This was regarded by friends of Governor Smith as a reprisal for the latter's support of the Walker campaign.

Of the other two amendments which the Governor will urge, one is designed to carry out a reorganization of the State Government. The Governor has urged this ever since he was first elected to office. It is designed to consolidate the existing State agencies into twenty-one civil departments.

The third amendment is designed to authorize a $100,000,000 bond issue for permanent State improvements, such as a new State office building in Albany, a new double system of highways between Albany and New York to relieve the already overcrowded conditions, a new bridge at Poughkeepsie, and other similar projects.

This latter proposal has been under attack by former Governor Nathan L. Miller and Representative Ogden L. Mills. It is the proposal which the Governor and Mr. Miller recently debated in New York, with former Governor Charles E. Hughes as arbiter.

Governor Smith's tour is to begin in the western section of the State, starting at Buffalo. Mr. Smith then will go to Rochester, Syracuse, Utica and Albany, then down the Hudson Valley, and wind up in New York City just before election. He hopes to bring about a big plurality in New York for all three proposals.

During the three weeks prior to the primaries the Governor expects to be busy aiding the campaign for Senator Walker. His friends say he is very confident that the Senator will win the primaries.

Lieutenant Governor Seymour Lowman has been one of the leaders of the opposition to two of the constitutional amendments, while it is a matter of record that former Governor Miller and Representative Mills are opposed to the $100,000,000 bond issue for permanent improvements.

NO ORDERS PLACED BY SOVIET AGENTS

British Manufacturers Express Surprise at Collapse of Machinery-Buying Mission.

LONDON, Aug. 21—The Soviet party who, as official representatives of the All-Russian Textile Syndicate, have been visiting the British woolen and cotton textile districts left hurriedly from London without placing a single order, and it is stated they will now return to Russia.

In view of the fact that the delegation spread abroad they had authority to spend £5,000,000 in purchasing textile machinery, this action has caused a great deal of surprise. Not only were no orders placed, but aside from the general statement that they would need long credit, the party never even discussed details or terms.

British manufacturers are now disposed to regard the episode as a mere reconnoitring inquiry in the hope that by stories of generous credit treatment by America, Germany and France the delegation could stampede British firms into similar offers.

A good deal of capital was incidentally made by the British Labor Party about this alleged willingness of Russia to do business here.

MATADOR'S TWO SONS KILL 4 YOUNG BULLS

PARIS, Aug. 21.—The two sons of the Spanish Matador, Bienvenida Mejias, aged 11 and 9 years, killed four young bulls yesterday before an audience of 10,000 at San Sebastian.

The boys showed skill displayed by only the greatest bullfighters, doing wonderful capework, placing the banderillas perfectly and killing each bull with a single stroke.

A mishap occurred when Manolo, aged 11, was about to place the banderillas in the second bull. He stuck one through his own thigh. He was taken immediately from the bull ring to the infirmary. His matador father in the audience shed tears while his brother Pepito took the banderillas and placed them and killed the remaining three bulls.

The press was unanimous in saying that the bullfight was one of the best ever seen in Spain. Spain's best matador in all times, Juan Belmonte, was perceived by Pepito, who toasted him a bull. Belmonte has consented to appear for a few more special occasions, although he retired from the ring after his Mexican tour.

CAIRO, Aug. 21.—A Syrian attack on the automobile carrying the French General Soule and his aide-de-camp, Captain Degoutel, on a trip of inspection of the Damas Ezraa Railroad is reported.

Both officers were slightly wounded and a French detachment was sent to occupy the village near the spot where the attack was made.

It is reported that there is no connection between this and the Druses rebellion.

A message from Beirut indicates that conversations between the French and the Druse chiefs is continuing, while quiet virtually reigns in the Djebel Druse Mountains.

STRIKERS LOSE JOBS IN GARMENT TRADES

MANY ARE REINSTATED

Forty garment manufacturers discharged some of their employes who participated in the two-hour strike called by the Joint Committee of Action of Locals 2, 9 and 22, according to an announcement by the committee yesterday. Fifteen employers, it was said, immediately reinstated their discharged employes when other employes walked out in sympathy.

The walk-out on Thursday was a test of strength between the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and the suspended officials of local unions 2, 9 and 22, who were found guilty of having arranged a May Day meeting where Communist speakers denounced the governing officials of the international union. The suspended officials joined forces to fight the international union and for this purpose organized the Joint Action Committee.

Morris Sigman, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, said that although he had warned the employes not to desert their shops on an "outlaw strike," he got in touch with the employers yesterday and requested them not to interpret the stoppage as a literal "abandonment of employment." He said he was inclined to believe that the employers would heed the request of the international union.

In his statement Mr. Sigman said that his estimate late Thursday of those who joined in the demonstration called by the Joint Action Committee was correct. Reports based on a check of cloak and dress shops, he said, indicated that between 10,000 and 11,000, "including Communist sympathizers from other trades and cloakmakers and dressmakers without jobs," filled the meeting halls.

Sigman Minimizes Walk-Out.

"The Industrial Council of the Cloak Manufacturers' Protective Association announced this morning that out of the 6,200 workers employed in the shops belonging to its members only about 1,000 joined the stoppage," he added, "while in ninety-seven shops of the 181 in the association not one worker left his employment. The American Cloak Manufacturers' Association said that after a careful canvas not more than 20 per cent. of their workers left the shops."

The Joint Action Committee raised its estimate of Thursday, which placed 20,000 as the number of men and women in the meeting halls. Louis Hyman, Chairman of the Joint Committee, said: "President Sigman says that 10,000 members answered our call and stopped work. Such a statement is ridiculous. No one can issue any absolute figures, for there was no actual count. Originally we engaged halls to accommodate 20,000 people. These were filled to capacity. Other halls were hired and were also crowded, and many never got into any of the meetings. According to reports we have received today from all sources, we estimate that at least 35,000 stopped work."

Hyman declared that instead of 70,000 cloak and dress makers in the city, as claimed by President Sigman, only 50,000 are affiliated with the New York Joint Board, and this number includes members in near-by New Jersey, Brooklyn and the suburbs.

REPLIES FILED IN FIVE SUITS.

Ousted Garment Union Officials Seek to Control Funds.

Answers were filed in the Supreme Court yesterday in five suits brought in behalf of the members of local unions 9 and 22 of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, who have been accused of Communist activities by the officers of the international union, and whose officers have been supplanted on the ground that they held a public meeting at which "red" speakers were encouraged to express their views.

While the complaints are not yet on record, the answers show that the suits are based on the refusal of the bank to honor checks drawn by the former officers on the accounts of the two locals. The main actions are brought by Louis Hyman as Secretary-Treasurer of Cloak and Suit Tailors' Union, local 9, and by Charles Zimmerman as President of the Dressmakers' Union of Greater New York, local 22, who contend that the officers who have been supplanted still have control over the funds of the locals.

The answers assert that the use of union funds to pay the expense of the public meeting at which speakers representing the Communist Party, the Workers' Party and the Trade Union Educational League of America talked, was a violation of the constitution of the international organization because these parties are "avowed enemies" of the International Ladies' Garment Workers of America, and "advocated violence and dictatorship," which injured the reputation of the international union when the speeches were reported in the daily press. The answers also state that Hyman and Zimmerman were suspended from office and that Isidor Sarkin has been elected Secretary-Treasurer of local 9 and Saul Seidman is temporary administrator and manager of local 22, pending the election of new officers.

HELD FOR ATTACK ON GIRL.

Man Seized Near Lonely Spot in Brooklyn Under $10,000 Bail.

Joseph Hallen of 525 West Twenty-third Street, Brooklyn, said to have been an inmate of the State Hospital for the Insane at Central Islip, L. I., and accused of attempting to assault Miss Susie Dillon of 2,422 Avenue P, Brooklyn, in a lonely spot near her home Tuesday night, was arraigned in the Coney Island Court yesterday on a charge of attempted felonious assault. Magistrate Brown held him in $10,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

Miss Dillon had alighted from a train at the Kings Highway station of the B. M. T. subway, and was nearing her home when Hallen is said to have leaped out of the shadows and grappled with her. Her screams frightened him away, and he was captured soon afterward by Patrolman Harold Halpin.

A gold bar pin and several handkerchiefs found in his pocket prompted policemen working on the murder of Florence Kane to inquire into his movements, but nothing was learned which appeared to implicate him.

Brooklyn Edison Gathers Entire Borough Into System

The Brooklyn Edison Company completed its electrification of Brooklyn yesterday. Heretofore some sections of the borough had been served by other companies, the lines of which have been gradually taken over by the Brooklyn Edison. A small district adjacent to Ocean Parkway, between Foster Avenue and the ocean, was the last outside the Edison Company's system.

This district, in which are about 3,300 consumers, was supplied with household electric current by the Flatbush Gas Company. On Thursday the Brooklyn Edison Company obtained permission from the Public Service Commission to take over these consumers. The transfer was made yesterday without as much as the flicker of an electric lamp in the homes affected, simply by throwing a switch in a sub-power station.

SOLDIER A SUICIDE IN TRAINING CAMP

TELLS OF UNREQUITED LOVE

A private of the Fourteenth Infantry of the National Guard, a Brooklyn regiment, which is in training at Camp Smith at Peekskill, committed suicide by shooting himself last night while his regiment was at mess. Ill health was believed to have been the cause of the act. The private was Thomas Pryor, 19 years old, of 429 Sixteenth Street, Brooklyn. He was the son of Patrick Pryor, traffic manager of a steamship line operating boats to Porto Rico. He had been a member of the regiment for several years.

Pryor had been ill for several years and about three months ago underwent what was believed to have been a successful operation. He went to the camp with his regiment on Aug. 9 for a two weeks' stay which was to have terminated on Sunday. He was assigned to the Headquarters Company because his illness had left him unable to perform more rigorous work. His illness was said to have made him highly nervous.

The suicide took place about 6:30 in the washroom of Company F, near the mess hall. Pryor, it is believed, waited until all his comrades had gone to the hall and then slipped into the washroom. He shot himself in the head with his .45-calibre service pistol. The pistol was found beside him. The sound of the shot startled the camp and three comrades found him lying in the washroom. He was pronounced dead by Major Lewis Adams, the medical officer of the regiment.

With his mind disordered by the illness, Pryor was believed to have planned the suicide for some time. He had written nine letters, which were found in his uniform. One was addressed to his commander, Captain Robert Petzoldt, and the others to his parents and to various friends in the regiment and in Brooklyn.

The letter to the Captain, it was said, contained a reference to a girl having failed to return his affections. Relatives in the city declared that such a reference must have been the result of a delusion, for, they said, they had never known of his close friendship with any girl. The letter to the Captain also referred to his sickness and contained an apology for "being such a poor soldier." The other letters also contained references to his illness and requests for forgiveness for his contemplated act.

Pryor bore an excellent reputation in the regiment.

Colonel Frederick W. Baldwin, commander of the regiment, started an investigation in an effort to discover how Pryor obtained the bullets, one of which he used to kill himself. Only blank cartridges are issued to the guardsmen in training.

At the youth's home in Brooklyn his father said that Pryor had been employed as a clerk in an office of the Brooklyn Edison Company. Believing him to be recovering from the illness, his father said, the family though that the training period with the regiment might hasten his return to normal health.

HELD FOR BROKERAGE FRAUD

Former Customers' Man Accused of Getting Money Through Forgery.

Edward D. Mitchell, formerly a customers' man employed by the stock brokerage firm of Warner Brothers, 11 Wall Street, is under arrest, charged with obtaining several thousand dollars hrough the forgery of a customer's name to checks. Mitchell was arrested last Wednesday on the complaint of the National Surety Company, which had issued a blanket bond to Warner Brothers and which has paid the firm's losses. Mitchell was arraigned in Magistrate's Court and held in $5,000 bail for a hearing next Tuesday on a charge of grand larceny.

According to the complaint, Mitchell on July 17 last told the cashier of Warner Brothers that Dr. Israel I. Bernstein of 780 East 169th Street, a customer of the firm, desired some English currency. The cashier bought $735 worth of English money, which was turned over to Mitchell, and a receipt bearing the name of Dr. Bernstein was given to the firm. Dr. Bernstein later repudiated the signature on this receipt and declared it a forgery.

Officers of the surety company also charged that a check for $2,000, signed with the name of Dr. Bernstein, was deposited in the Equitable Trust Company to the account of a Miss H. O'Reilly and the money drawn out by Mitchell. The prisoner is accused also of having forged the name of Dr. Bernstein to a check for $262, which was cashed by Louis T. Hollenbach, a Brooklyn attorney.

PITCHER IN ALIMONY SNARL.

McQuillan Faces Contempt Action for Failure to Pay.

An order directing Hugh McQuillan, pitcher for the New York National League Baseball Club, to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court was signed on Aug. 17 by Supreme Court Justice Dike in Brooklyn, it was learned yesterday. McQuillan was ordered to pay his wife, Mrs. Nellie T. McQuillan, $250 on Aug. 1 and 15 in a decision of Justice Cropsey in the Brooklyn Supreme Court on Aug. 4. The payments were to continue through September, according to the order.

Nothing has been paid to date, according to James F. Kelly and Maurice Janklow of 50 Court Street, Brooklyn, counsel for Mrs. McQuillan. Mr. Janklow told yesterday of unsuccessful efforts to serve McQuillan with the papers. The order of Justice Dike is returnable next Thursday morning. McQuillan, according to Mr. Janklow, is living at the Carlton Terrace Hotel, 250 West 100th Street. Attempts to serve him there have been unsuccessful, said the attorney.

DALY'S CLUE SPURS HUNT FOR MURDERER

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Seeking a clue that might lead to the capture of three other men who comprised the hold-up gang at Mount Vernon on July 20, officials questioned today Frank Daly, said to have confessed that he murdered Inspector Jacob Schumacher and Raglin I. Nicoll, trolley company employes.

Medical Examiner Amos O. Squire and Detectives Thomas Martin and Stephen Donahue directed the interrogation. Their information, they said, is expected to lead to another arrest within forty-eight hours.

Daly, arrested yesterday in an old Connecticut farm house, outside Westport, was brought here this afternoon from New York City and was booked on the police blotter on a charge of first degree murder. His arrest came about through information supplied by a young woman.

The young woman is said to be Marion Mooney, out on bail as a material witness, and who is the estranged wife of a New York gangster, according to the police. She was released from the White Plains jail, where she had been held since the day of the murder, on Wednesday, Aug. 12. The arrest of John Marino, driver of the robbers' car, came the day following her release.

Daly has maintained a defiant attitude since his arrest, and informed Chief of Police George Atwell today that he had better keep a close watch over him as he would make every endeavor to escape.

"If those guys squealed on me," Daly said, according to the detectives, referring to Marino and David Demaio of New Rochelle, alleged planner of the hold-up, "I'll fix 'em. I ain't scared to burn in the chair and they'll burn with me."

Daly's share of the loot from the trolley hold-up was $35.

It was reported today that Marino had been endeavoring to bargain with the authorities to be allowed to enter a plea of guilty for second degree murder in return for information he might give which would lead to the arrest of others implicated in the hold-up.

Marino was pleased when he learned of Daly's arrest and said "Now you'll see that I wasn't the man who shot those two. I told you the truth all along."

Demaio, who is also held on Dr. Squire's warrant for first degree murder, made no comment.

FINES G. D. BIDDLE $500 FOR NEWPORT CRASH

Court Assesses Philadelphia Youth Maximum Penalty on Three Charges in Auto Accident.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—George Drexel Biddle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Biddle of Philadelphia, who on the night of July 9, while driving on Bellevue Avenue, crashed into the rear end of an automobile driven by Morton A. Weaver of this city and severely injured him and his companion, Miss Marion Colinan of Pawtucket, besides wrecking both cars, was fined $500 and costs today by Judge Max Levy. The fine was paid.

There were three charges and the maximum fine was ordered on each. Biddle is 21 years old and returned here from Philadelphia earlier in the morning. Reckless driving was a new charge, on which Biddle was arraigned for the first time and pleaded nolo. On the other two, driving while intoxicated and driving without a license, to which he had originally pleaded not guilty, he also pleaded nolo.

After a severe warning by the Court he was fined $200 and costs on each of the reckless driving and driving while intoxicated charges and $100 and costs for driving without a license.

Before the administering of the fines the Chief of Police stated the facts and said that Miss Colinan was still in the hospital. J. Russell Haire, counsel for Biddle, said it was his client's first offense and asked for a fine instead of a jail sentence. He said a fine would do more good.

Two civil suits totaling $15,000 have been brought by the injured parties against Biddle and are still pending.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The case of the $1.50 meal bill of a Federal employe, to which J. R. McCarl, Controller General of the General Accounting Office, took exception, bobbed up again today when Mr. McCarl, in a letter to Attorney General Sargent, criticized the manner in which the Department of Justice handled the matter before the Court of Claims.

Declaring that the case, while involving only a meal bill, is one of great import to the United States, Controller General McCarl virtually accused the Department of Justice of "laying down" on him before the Court of Claims, which decided in favor of Herbert S. Ward, the Government employe who contracted the bill.

Despite this decision, Mr. McCarl has informed the Attorney General the $1.50 in favor of Mr. Ward will not be allowed.

Mr. Ward, who traveled to Alexandria, Va., five miles from Washington, put in an expense account for $1.50 for a meal eaten there, and when it was disallowed he took it to the Court of Claims and won a decision. Mr. McCarl contends that a vital point in the case was whether Mr. Ward had really traveled away from his station and that the Department of Justice attorney who handled the case had not used vital parts of a memorandum brief prepared for him by the office of the Controller General for use in combating Ward's claim.

"While this office is not charged with the defense of suits against the United States," Mr. McCarl wrote to the Attorney General, "it is charged with the settlement of claims and demands against the United States payable from appropriations. Such settlement must be in accordance with what it conceives to be the law and facts in each case, and, in so far as general appropriations are concerned, this office must decline to accept the memorandum opinion of the Court of Claims in this case as determinative of the question of whether a Government employe operating for short periods of a day from his permanent station is 'traveling away from his designated post of duty' within the meaning of the acts of April 6, 1914, and Aug. 1, 1914, respectively, entitling to actual expenses of subsistence, or per diem in lieu thereof.

"As stated in the report of this office dated April 8, 1925, the principle of this case is of considerable importance to the United States, and it was hoped that the matter would be vigorously contested in the Court of Claims.

"In view of the circumstances, this office has now no recommendation to make in the matter of further proceeding in the Ward case, but submits what has been said for your consideration in determining such question of further proceeding therein or in similar cases."

Controller General McCarl filed answer today to a rule recently issued against him by Chief Justice McCoy of the District Supreme Court directing him to explain why he had withheld the retired pay of Owen Donnelly, a former sergeant in the army, until Donnelly has repaid a claim against him held by the United States. Mr. McCarl asked the Court to dismiss the rule to show cause, and announced that he only filed answer "out of comity and respect for the Court, but without submitting himself to its jurisdiction."

The soldier in this case had been ordered from the Philippines to the Plattsburg barracks and had stored his household effects in the post gymnasium, with the consent of the quartermaster. During his absence the building was destroyed by fire and Congress passed an act to reimburse the soldier for the loss. An army board awarded Donnelly $316, which was paid to him.

Mr. McCarl held that this allowance was improperly made and directed Sergeant Donnelly to repay the Government. The soldier asked the court for an injunction.

MOSQUITOS INVADE CITY HALL IN SQUADS

OFFICIALS CONTINUE BATTLE

While the city health officials in the five boroughs were battling yesterday to stamp out the visitation of mosquitoes, larger and in greater numbers than New York has had in many Summers, a squad of hardy stingers invaded the City Hall itself. The pests buzzed busily about the corridors and, according to political naturalists, had their breeding place in pools splashed about the statue of Civic Virtue by boy swimmers.

The rain of Thursday night complicated the work of the pest fighters by providing additional places for the mosquito larvae. Central Park, according to persons living near it, is sending forth all sorts of pests this year. Moths of various color and size and noisy, clumsy insects of fearsome aspect and unknown species are being blamed on the park by indignant householders, who have been putting in the evenings chasing the pests about Central Park apartments.

Scores of apartments, some of them nine blocks from the park, have recently blossomed forth with window screens. The mosquitoes, however, seem to have little trouble getting through the mesh of the screens, and when they get in they rush at the tenants with redoubled zeal. In the opinion of some tenants near the park, screens are a mistake since they seem to serve only to make the pests angry and inspire in them an ugly determination to seek revenge for the effort to bar them out.

The necessity of protecting babies from the mosquitoes was emphasized yesterday by Dr. J. Allen Patton, Medical Director of the Prudential Insurance Company.

'HARD LUCK' FRAUDS LAND YOUTH IN JAIL

STUDENT LOANED HIM $400

Half a dozen young men who had evidenced sympathy in the last three months for Jose De Santos, 23 years old, when he told them that he had just been robbed, that he was stranded in this city and needed money to "cable to his wealthy father, a sugar planter, in Santo Domingo," were in General Sessions yesterday when De Santos was sentenced by Judge Collins to an indeterminate term in the penitentiary.

De Santos had been indicted for grand larceny in the first degree on complaint of Robert Hyland, a student at Columbia University, stopping at 280 St. Nicholas Avenue, that De Santos had defrauded him out of about $400. Yesterday De Santos pleaded guilty to attempted grand larceny.

Young Hyland's story of the manner in which De Santos had defrauded him was similar to that of more than a dozen others who had complained to the police. Hyland said that De Santos approached him on the street, March 18, and, after winning his friendship with his evident education and fluent knowledge of English, Spanish, German and French, told him he had just been swindled out of $900 by a woman. De Santos said that the money had been given to him by his father in Santo Domingo for a tour of America after his graduation from a university in Europe. Hyland gave De Santos $15, with which a cable message was sent to Santo Domingo, and later De Santos succeeded in getting the Columbia student to part with the larger sum.

When De Santos was arrested he said his home was at 448 Manhattan Avenue. Investigation revealed that all of the cable messages sent by De Santos had been returned from Santo Domingo with the statement that no person of the name was known there.

ALIENISTS TO EXAMINE GIRL.

Father, Seeking to Take Her From Convent, Says She Had Mania.

Appointment of a commission of four alienists to determine the status of the mentality of Miss Geraldine Riche, whose father, John, has asked the Chancery Court in Jersey City for a writ of habeas corpus to take her out of the Convent of St. John the Baptist in Newark, was ordered by Vice Chancellor Bentley in Jersey City yesterday.

Riche, in applying for the writ on Aug. 3, named Sister Illuminita, Mother Superior at the convent, as the respondent, and charged that his daughter was being kept their under duress. At the first hearing a week ago the girl denied this, saying she was happy in the convent and did not wish to return home because of the alleged cruelty with which her father treated her. After the hearing, Riche was arrested on a charge of deserting his wife and other five children in Hackensack.

The father contended his daughter had been seized with a religious mania. She denied this, as she did his assertion that she was only 16 years old, maintaining that she was 19.

Pantano Barred From Funeral.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Aug. 21.—Anthony Pantano received from his brother-in-law, Matthew La Pélusa, who visited him in the death house at Sing Sing today, the news of his mother's death. He was visibly affected by the announcement of prison authorities that he would not be permitted to attend the funeral. "I had trouble enough, and this only adds to it," said Pantano.

dium height, but they could add little to that.

The President of the trust company, Isaac Alpern, said that Gallagher had been employed there for five years and had previously been a private detective for the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Mr. Alpern said his bank was heavily insured against robbery with the American Surety Company. Governor Silzer of New Jersey is Chairman of the trust company's Board of Directors.

News of Gallagher's death was withheld from his wife for two hours following the robbery. When she heard the story she collapsed. Gallagher lived at 107 Commerce Street, Perth Amboy.

SUAVE THIEVES ROB CIGAR STORE OF $130

Bearing the air of prosperous business men and looking the part in their well-tailored, freshly pressed clothing, two robbers, one of them armed, held up the clerk of a United Cigar store at 1,388 Third Avenue yesterday morning and escaped with $130.

The pair sauntered into the store and one of the men asked the clerk, Lester Fine, of 21 East 104th Street, for a certain brand of cigars. Fine reached into the case to comply with the request and then looked up and into the muzzle of an automatic pistol. He was warned to make no outcry as the robber with the pistol marched him into the stock room and then stood guard over him while his companion rifled the safe and cash register.

Still covering Fine with his pistol, the thief backed out of the room and slammed the door. The two then barricaded the door with a large ladder used to reach merchandise on high shelves. Fine raised a window leading into Third Avenue and shouted to passersby, who went into the store and liberated him. By that time the thieves had fled.

COUNTRY CLUB LOOTED.

Golf Trophies Stolen by Burglars in Upper Montclair.

Thieves broke into the Upper Montclair Country Club last Wednesday night and removed cups and trophies valued at $2,500, it was made known yesterday by J. J. Schuman, a member of the club, with offices at 224 West Fifty-seventh Street. The New Jersey State Golf Association Cup, valued at $500, and a cup offered by the Arcola Country Club for competition in Northern New Jersey, valued at $1,500, were stolen.

The thieves entered through a small screen in the rear of the clubhouse and ransacked the ground floor without disturbing persons sleeping on the upper floors. Mr. Schuman said that the robbers apparently were familiar with the club and the habits of its members. None of the furniture was disturbed, and the cabinets were opened with keys which were replaced after the loot had been removed.

SHOE CLERK HALTS HOLD-UP

An attempt to rob the Beck Hazzard Shoe Store at 971 Third Avenue was frustrated last night when the clerk, Louis Margolis, of 731 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, struggled with the intruder, who was captured when he ran into Patrolman George Hartwell's arms.

The prisoner said he was Theodore Clark, 21 years old, a railroad fireman, of New Durham, N. J.

Margolis had been forced into a back room. Suspicious that the "revolver" flourished by Clark was a toy one he seized the stranger by the throat and a long struggle ensued.

Rob Dress Shop Despite Alarm.

A burglar alarm at 6 o'clock this morning sent detectives of the Gates Avenue Station, Brooklyn, to 371-A Franklin Avenue, but they arrived too late. Burglars had forced their way into the Evelyn Dress Shop, property of Mrs. Abraham Newman, stolen clothes worth at least $100, and escaped.

INDICT SIX FOR PLOT TO DRIVE OUT NEGRO

as a matter of principle. Further offers were refused at once.

In September, 1924, another raiding party made an attack. This attack followed the delivery to Brown of a note marked K. K. K., threatening him with violence if he did not move out. A number of windows were broken by stones and sticks on that occasion.

The Brown family experienced minor troubles with the other residents of the section, including, as he testified before the Grand Jury, cancellation of three insurance policies, until last month, and when on that occasion there was considerable damage done, the letter carrier called on District Attorney Albert C. Fach to take action.

Nearly seventy witnesses were called before the Grand Jury during the period of the consideration of the case. Many of them were neighbors of Brown. Among the others were representatives of the building and loan association and of the fire insurance companies from which Brown had taken policies, which were later canceled.

The failure of the Grand Jury to return early indictments caused most of the residents of the Castleton Hill district to believe that criminal prosecution would not be started. The indictment of Robertson was a shock to them and there was much speculation over the identity of the five men mentioned in the true bill as "John Does."

District Attorney Fach said that he had evidence on hand which gave him a good indication as to who the men were. He said he might not have them arrested until the trial of Robertson was held.

In the statement issued after his arraignment Robertson asserted that he felt confident that he would be able to prove his innocence. He pointed to the naming of the five "John Does" as tending to show that the conspiracy charge could not be supported.

Since the attack last month Brown's house has been constantly guarded by a policeman.

PLASTERERS' CHIEF CALLS A NEW STRIKE

NEWARK DISPUTE ENDS

New Jersey Carpenters Will Return to Work—Lynbrook Bricklayers Are Back.

A strike of 180 members of the Operative Plasterers and Cement Finishers' International Association on the new building for the Palmer House being erected in Chicago by the Thompson-Starrett Company of New York went into effect yesterday, according to orders issued by Edward J. McGivern, President of the plasterers' union.

Mr. McGivern said yesterday that the strike was called in retaliation for the employment of plasterers with cards in the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union on the Industrial Building, Newark, which is being erected by the Thompson-Starrett Company.

Developments in the feud between the operative plasterers and the bricklayers as to which union's plasterers were entitled to plastering work in certain localities had impelled some general contractors in New York to sign an agreement on July 9 to give their plastering work all over the United States to members of the McGivern organization.

According to Mr. McGivern, the low bidder on the plastering contract for the Industrial Building was P. J. Durkin, a plastering employer, of New York. Two weeks ago the bricklayers on the building walked out on learning that the plastering was to be done by a man employing members of the operative plasterers' union. Subsequently the owner of the building objected to having operative plasterers do the work and insisted that the plastering be done by a newly organized company known as the Essex Plastering Company, which, according to McGivern, was formed by business agents of the bricklayers' union.

Say They Obeyed Request.

For the Thompson-Starrett Company it was said that the owner of the building insisted that the plastering sub-contractor be one employing men in the bricklayers' union the request had to be carried out. McGivern insisted that the elimination of Durkin by the building owner was a subterfuge to give the work to the rival union.

"The Thompson-Starrett Company has not kept its agreement with us," McGivern said. He declared there were other instances in which plastering work rightfully belong to his union but was awarded to the bricklayers by the Thompson-Starrett Company. One job, he said, was the Miami-Biltmore Hotel, where the bidding for the plastering work ranged from $400,000 to $500,000 by contractors using McGivern's men. The lowest bid was one for $314,000 by an employer engaging members of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union. Mr. McGivern said he waived making an issue of that job.

Prior to the agreement of July 9 signed by Thompson-Starrett Company, said McGivern, the contractors promised that they would use operative plasterers on the Baptist Temple in Rochester and on the Penn Athletic Club, but bricklayers' members were put to work on those buildings. For the Thompson-Starrett Company it was said that the Building Committee of the Baptist Temple insisted on bricklayers' members doing the work.

Mr. McGivern received a telegram yesterday from International President W. L. Hutcheson of the Carpenters Union saying he had instructed a representative to visit Paterson, Passaic and Kearney, N. J., and instruct carpenters who walked out in sympathy with the bricklayers to return to work.

William J. Lyons, President of the Essex County Building Trades Council, announced yesterday that the inter-union dispute in Newark had been settled and that construction would be resumed Tuesday on three large buildings there. The return of about 500 ironworkers, masons and bricklayers ends the difficulties which have held up work on the new Prudential building, the new Plaut department store structure and the Goerke department store building.

Prior to the settlement it was announce that the plastering problem, which threatened to tie up work on the new Salaam Temple, had been solved. Fred Kilgus, Inc., general contractors, announced they would go ahead with the work, employing Newark plasterers to complete the job.

The Joint Trade Board of the Mason Builders Association and the Hoisting Engineers Union had no word yesterday as to the result of the action of the local on the order from International Union President Arthur M. Huddell, who ordered those engineers who struck in sympathy with the bricklayers to return to work.

Bricklayers who went on strike on the school in Lynbrook being erected by the Neinken-Mertz Company of Brooklyn have returned to work on order of the business agent, John Bartley. It was reported on Thursday that a business agent ordered the bricklayers off the job when he could not obtain assurance that the work of plastering would be done by men in the bricklayers' union. M. L. Neinken said yesterday that the bricklayers quit of their own accord when they saw operative plasterers ready to work on the building and could not obtain a promise that plasterers in their union would do the work.

Settlement of the jurisdictional conflict between the plasterers and bricklayers will be the most serious problem before the American Federation of Labor in the convention in Atlantic City next October, according to William Green, President of the federation, now in Atlantic City.

"The dispute is strictly a family affair," he said, "and involves no contractors. For that reason it will be particularly difficult to settle. If both sides would agree to mediation services of the Executive Council of the federation, the difficulty might be easily disposed of."

LONDON, Aug. 21.—United States liners leaving European ports between now and Sept. 15 will carry home in time for the Autumn opening of schools and colleges over 4,000 American students who have been studying in England and on the Continent since June. More than 2,100 are leaving next week alone.

SEAGIRT RECEPTION MARRED BY RAIN

SENATOR WHITNEY CALLS

Chats With Silzer, Whom He Aspires to Succeed, Before Leaving for Swampscott.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP SILZER, SEAGIRT, N. J., Aug. 21.—Plenty of rain and very little of the usual political chatter marked the third Governor's Day of the season, which was celebrated here this afternoon. Friends of Governor and Mrs. George S. Silzer from nine counties had been invited to the Little White House for their annual visit, and despite the downpour which continued all day a few from each of the counties came by train and in automobiles.

The largest delegation was from Middlesex County, the home of the Governor. About four hundred from Perth Amboy, led by John White, Chairman of the City Democratic Committee, and James Mullin, Treasurer, were the first to arrive. They were led by a band. Another in the party was J. Lyle Kinmonth, publisher of The Asbury Park Press, who is seeking election to Congress from the Third District, which comprises Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean Counties.

State Senator Arthur Whitney of Mendham, candidate for the Governorship on the Republican ticket, came down for about an hour's visit with the man whom he hopes to succeed. After a chat with the Governor, Senator Whitney left for Swampscott, where he is to meet President Coolidge.

Before he left, Senator Whitney gave out the following statement:

"Senator Edge, Governor Stokes and I have arranged to meet the President at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at Swampscott. I am very pleased that Senator Edge made arrangements for the trip, and it was very gracious of President Coolidge to receive us informally. I met the President when he was Vice President and made a speech at Morristown. I entertained him at dinner at my home in Mendham.

"I am a firm believer in the President's policies, and New Jersey should follow his doctrine of economy for the good of the people."

Late in the afternoon about 2,000 shore residents came to watch the military manoeuvres of the 104th Engineers and the 119th Medical Regiment. The parade of the troops before Governor Silzer and his staff was omitted because of the weather.

TO CONVINCE PUBLIC AVIATION IS SAFE

Colonel Foulois, New Commandant at Mitchel Field, Speaks at Luncheon in His Honor.

Fifty members of the Aeronautical Executives' Association attended a luncheon given yesterday in the Café Boulevard, Broadway and Forty-first Street, to Lieut. Col. Benjamin Foulois, who recently succeeded Major W. N. Hensley Jr. as commanding officer at Mitchel Field.

Richard R. Blythe, Chairman of the association, who presided, introduced the guest of honor as a man who had been interested in aviation since its inception in the United States and told the members that he had planned the laying out of Mitchel Field in 1917. Colonel Foulois, who had charge of the organization of army aviation during the war, made a short address in which he said:

"The problem we face here at this time is the problem of convincing the public that aviation is a safe proposition, for there are still many persons who are afraid to trust themselves in an airplane. We intend to show these persons that ships can be flown safely, and the Pulitzer air races, which come in October, will afford us an excellent opportunity to demonstrate that a large meet of that sort can be held without a single accident. Exhibitions of this kind are increasing in their popularity, and our plans are already well organized to afford both fliers and spectators complete safety.

OFFER OLD BATTLESHIP TO PUBLIC FOR DANCES

The Former Illinois for Rent at $225 an Evening—Proceeds to Go to City.

The former United States battleship Illinois, presented to the State of New York after the Disarmament Conference as a training ship for the First Battalion, New York Naval Militia, has been offered for rent to the public for conventions, dances and other gatherings at $225 an evening.

The ship is now in the same classification as State armories, which are also rented, and money received from rentals, it was said last night by Allen Walz, superintendent of the vessel, will be turned over to the City Chamberlain for use later in extra-regulation expenditures.

The Illinois drill deck is 300 feet long, 72½ feet wide and 26 feet high, having 17,000 square feet of clear deck space, which is well-lighted, heated and convenient to the public, because she is moored off the foot of West Ninety-sixth Street. The circular announcing she is for rent said there are ample seating, check room and other facilities to make her attractive for large gatherings.

Mr. Walz said that responses to the circulars already had been received and that it was expected to rent the ship often, although he would not state whether it had already been rented and to whom.

MACKINAC ORPHANS RED CROSS WARDS

Organization Will Also Insure Support of Widows and Vocational Teaching.

DEATH LIST REACHES 46

Second Engineer of the Explosion Craft Admits He Failed to Report Leaky Boiler.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The American Red Cross today announced plans for the permanent rehabilitation of every family affected by the Mackinac steamboat disaster. The permanent relief work will be under the supervision of the Red Cross Chapters of Pawtucket and Central Falls, R. I., where most of the survivors live.

A relief fund will be established by the Red Cross from which appropriations will be made to sufferers needing financial assistance. A preliminary survery indicates that there are a number of widows and orphans who will need help.

The relief work probably will involve the establishing of trust funds for the maintenance of orphans and providing for widows vocational training by which they will be equipped to make a living.

The usual Red Cross procedure will be followed. Every case will be thoroughly investigated and the resources, liabilities and needs of the family tabulated, after which awards will be made, based on actual needs as disclosed by the investigation.

Death List Now Forty-six.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, Aug. 21.—The death list resulting from the boiler explosion on the steamer Mackinac last Tuesday was increased to forty-six today when three more of the injured succumbed to their injuries in hospitals here.

They were Peter Borsay, a Pawtucket policeman and Edward Donovan, William Robinson and Miss Bessie Mullin, all of Pawtucket.

Plans were begun today for the holding of a subscription dance at the Clambake Club on the night of Aug. 29 for the benefit of the Mackinac sufferers. Robert Walton Goelet, through J. K. Sullivan, has given $1,000 to the Red Cross for their work in aiding the sufferers, and Mrs. T. Shaw Safe added $500 to the relief fund.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 21 (AP).—The hearing before Inspector General Uhler of the Federal Steamboat Inspection Service to determine the cause of the Mackinac disaster was adjourned this afternoon to permit further investigation.

The hearing will be resumed when George C. Mullen, second engineer of the Mackinac, who is suffering from burns at the Newport Naval Hospital, has sufficiently recovered to testify.

Chief Engineer John Grant testified that the boiler had been leaking Monday and that welding was done on it before the vessel left Pawtucket.

He said he had failed to report this condition to the inspectors here, in accordance with the regulations of the Department of Commerce, as he had considered the repairs of a minor nature. He had intended to report them on his return to Pawtucket that night. New welding had been made over an old welding that had become weak, he explained.

He further asserted that investigation had revealed that the boiler wall was only one-sixteenth of an inch thick in places, while it was one-fourth of an inch thick in others.

Captain McVay declared that certain housing which inspectors had required placed around the boiler room when the boat was remodeled some years ago prevented scores more from having been killed or permanently injured by the scalding steam, mixed soot and ashes which enveloped the decks when the boiler exploded.

Funerals for sixteen victims of the disaster were held in Pawtucket and Central Falls today. The fund for the relief of victims and their families, turned into the Disaster Relief Committee appointed by Mayor Dolan of Central Falls, had reached $7,675 this afternoon.

COURT SCORES POLICEMAN.

Holds Special Service Man on Felonious Assault Charge.

Characterizing his action as one of the saddest duties he had ever performed on the bench, Magistrate Max S. Levine in West Side Court yesterday held Patrolman Michael Byrnes, 36 years old, of 327 Beach Eighty-seventh Street, Rockaway, Queens, in $3,500 bail for the Grand Jury on a charge of felonious assault. Byrnes is attached to the Special Service Squad. Magistrate Levine paid a tribute to the Police Department and described Byrnes as a misfit.

According to the testimony, Byrnes forced his way into the apartment of Shannon Cormack, a newspaper man, of 102 West Forty-third Street, on the evening of Aug. 14, while Mr. and Mrs. Cormack, Walter Gilbert, an actor, and his wife, and Charles G. Kaufman, a reporter, were at dinner. It was alleged that Byrnes assaulted the men with a blackjack and threatened all with his pistol. Mrs. Cormack hurried to the street and called Patrolman Block of Traffic B, who arrested Byrnes. Later, at the West Forty-seventh Street Station, a police surgeon found that Byrnes was intoxicated.

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, August 22—Like bores and boarding-house dishes, fashion repeats itself. Or, as with politics, fashion is a never-ending struggle of the "outs" against the "ins". After a long eclipse, brown again twinkles in the sky of fashion both in New York and London. Worn with shoes of mahogany tint, the suits come in dark, rich shades. Shirts and cravats should be in a smartly contrasting color, as green or purple. Exclusive, but not expensive.

DEFEND OUR POLICY ON WORLD AFFAIRS

Blakeslee and Jenks Declare That America Has Been Fair and Consistent.

RAPPARD UPHOLDS LEAGUE

In Final Politics Institute Session He Pleads That This Nation Join.

ADMIRAL HUSE DISAGREES

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 21.—The attitude of the United States toward the League of Nations, China, and Latin-America was debated today at the open conference on "Recent Foreign Policy of the United States," at the Institute of Politics. Today marked the last meetings of the fifth annual session of the institute, after a month's discussion of international affairs.

Professor George H. Blakeslee of Clark University, the open conference leader, questioned two statements made about American foreign policy at previous meetings. As to charges that the United States showed a reluctance to define its foreign policies, he pointed out that the Monroe Doctrine and the open door principle had both been officially defined during the life of the present Administration. He also challenged the statement that this country had been inconsistent in its foreign policy, citing our unchanging support of the Monroe Doctrine.

Commenting on the trend of events that bring America into European problems, Professor Blakeslee pointed out that the agreement this country signed in Paris last January gave it a "stake" of $600,000,000 in the success of the Dawes plan, and might tempt the United States in the future to use its political and economic influence to see that the plan succeeds.

He defined the general foreign policy of this country as "regional." It was held, he went on, that the League of Nations is primarily a European political organization, which was called upon, except for the mandates, almost exclusively to deal with local European issues, and that the United States ought not to participate with the League in such matters.

Arbitration, limitation of armament, the holding of special conferences and the dealing with specific controversies as they arise, he went on, was America's official formula for promoting the peace of the world.

Suggest "Associate" Membership.

Suggesting that the United States might solve its problem of dealing with world affairs by becoming an "associate" member of the League, Professor Blakeslee said:

"There must be a grouping of nations to serve at least as a forum to discuss international problems before they cause war. Such is the belief of the majority of the world, and the only existing international organization is the League. The United States, because of its policy of political isolation toward Europe, cannot join the League. The opinion is held by some that the United States should become an associate member of the League, avoiding issues local to Europe and dealing only with problems that threaten a world war."

Professor Blakeslee pointed out that a serious problem arose from the membership of eighteen of the twenty Latin-American republics in the League, while the United States remained outside.

"If Latin America," he said, "should have its disputes dealt with regularly at Geneva, and its common interests passed upon there, it would largely destroy the leadership of the United States in the Western Hemisphere. It is also possible that irritating international difficulties may develop if the League attempted to enforce Articles X and XVI of the covenant in the case of war between two Carribean American republics.

"Should the League attempt to boycott a Central American republic or to induce European and Asiatic warships and troops to come to the protection of a Latin American republic near the United States, it might not be a violation of the Monroe Doctrine, but it would doubtless be strongly resented by the Government and people of the United States."

Professor Blakeslee hoped that the League and the Pan American Union would supplement each other instead of coming into conflict, and suggested that the League give an elastic interpretation to the Monroe Doctrine as a means to this end.

McLaren Supports China's Demands.

Professor W. W. McLaren of Williams College discussed American policy toward China in the light of the rising Chinese nationalist demand for freedom of foreign control of Chinese courts and customs. He said he did not believe the United States policy toward China, depending on the open door and the integrity of China, would be fundamentally changed by acceptance of the Chinese demands.

If the Chinese obtained control of their customs, he said, they probably would erect a tariff wall, but it would not be high enough to affect the open door policy and deny American traders equal opportunity with others, because it would apply equally to all nations. The elimination of extraterritoriality privileges, he went on, would merely be an extension of the American policy of maintaining the integrity of China.

The history of the Japanese question from 1894 to 1899, he pointed out, would throw light on what the powers could and could not safely do in handling the Chinese demands at the international conference to be held soon.

Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks, who recently returned from Nicaragua, defended the policy of the Administration and the conduct of the United States Marines in the occupation of Hayti, San Domingo and Nicaragua. Denying that the marines were sent to Hayti to enforce the collection of foreign debts, he said they were sent solely to protect American lives and property.

Americans must realize, said Professor Jenks, that the Government in dealing with Hayti and Central American countries was dealing with countries where illiteracy was exceedingly high, where there were no free elections, and where general conditions were far different from those in this country.

"Marines are very necessary if we are going to have Americans living in those countries at all," he asserted. "The better classes want them there. Twenty or thirty prominent business men in Nicaragua told me while I was there that they hoped the United States would keep the marines there, and that it was only the opposition parties and press that demanded their removal. Yet we withdrew them."

Dr. Leo S. Rowe, Director General of the Pan American Union, declared that he wished to dissent vigorously from the implications in Professor Jenks's remarks that the United States should interfere in Latin American affairs because of the situation with respect to elections there.

"This is a very dangerous doctrine," he said, "and its enforcement would carry us to lengths that we can not foresee."

Professor Jenks then disavowed the implications read into his remarks by Dr. Rowe, saying that he had merely been calling attention to the difficult task imposed upon the Marines.

Huse Opposes Our Joining League.

Rear Admiral Harry M. P. Huse, retired, read a paper arguing against the United States joining the League of Nations. When he said that the majority of Americans do not favor joining the League, some one in the audience called, "Question."

"No" replied Admiral Huse. "It was settled pretty well at the last election, when we had the biggest majority in history, I believe."

"Let old Europe and Young America keep separate households," he went on. "Let us cooperate heartily with the League in ways consistent with our foreign policy and let us keep out of it."

Admiral Huse favored our adherence to the World Court as a step that would go a long way toward keeping us out of war.

"Our Governmental policy," he added, "is safe, progressive and admirable, and needs no apology. The people of the United States are behind it."

Miss Mary L. Hinsdale of Grand Rapids, Mich., a school teacher, took issue with Admiral Huse on the relation of the 1924 election to American public opinion on the League, arguing that domestic issues were responsible for the large Republican majority.

Rear Admiral W. W. Phelps made a statement to prove that American foreign policy was not inconsistent. He asserted that the principle of the open door did not originate with John Hay, but was older than the Monroe Doctrine and, in fact went back to the Constitution of the United States.

Professor Charles K. Leith of the University of Wisconsin urged the appointment of fact-finding commissions by the League or by some other international organization, and later an international conference, leading up to an international policy for preventing war between nations over mineral resources and to a program of world conservation of minerals.

Dr. Harry A. Garfield, Chairman of the institute and President of Williams College, closed the meeting by pointing out that, regardless of whether or not the United States should enter the League, the machinery at Geneva for the recording of treaties and agreements between nations was indispensable to world peace, and that if the League were abolished some other agency would have to be established for fact-finding of this nature.

Rappard Urges American Entry.

In his final lecture before the institute tonight Dr. William E. Rappard, Vice Rector of the University of Geneva and Swiss member of the Permanent Mandates Commission, made a plea for American entry into the League.

"You are welcome, needed and wanted in Geneva," he said. "The friends and the members of the League in Europe want your cooperation because they want the League to be strong and effective.

"We Swiss believe, as our experience of European affairs has taught us, that wars are always born of violence, intolerance, partiality and injustice. Every act of violence, intolerance, partiality and injustice which the League commits or allows, ultimately makes for war, and every such act which the League prevents certainly makes for peace.

"We know, on the other hand, that a war in Europe may, and probably will, again mean a world war. Our interest and our hope, as that of all the other States which place justice first on their international program, is that by avoiding and peacefully redressing injustice in Europe the League may save the world another such cataclysm. That is why our interest and our hope is that the one great power, not only as an ideal in itself, but as a necessary condition of peace, whose geographical position renders impartiality comparatively easy may soon come and assume the world leadership which awaits it in Geneva.

"If, as is obvious, the worst entanglement in foreign affairs is war, and if, as history shows, injustice breeds war, then the only safe way of avoiding entanglements is to avoid injustice. That the United States, without sacrificing either its full liberty or endangering its internal peace, could prevent injustice and thereby war, merely by taking its place at the League table, is, to my mind, an indisputable fact.

Attacks French Rule in Sarre.

"If it is ever possible to surmise with assurance what might have been in the course of human events, one can in this case assert that it is primarily, if not exclusively, due to the abstention of the United States from participation in the League to execute the peace treaties that the Sarre, for the last five years has been governed by a partial French, instead of by an impartial international commission.

"No single fact has caused more bitterness in Germany, none has done more to retard the re-establishment of good understanding between France and her former enemy, none is more unjust, nor more dangerous for peace; and yet here is a typical instance in which a word from the United States, or, indeed, the simple presence of an American on the Council, would have sufficed, without creating any entanglement, to prevent acute injustice and to forestall war.

"This one example will explain why the group of States, including all the Latin Americans, which look upon justice as the prerequisite to peace, are so particularly anxious to see America assume in Geneva the world leadership which awaits her.

"The original covenant of the League of Nations was an attempt to substitute international force at the service of international justice for international anarchy. You objected to the force, although, or rather because, you worshipped justice. The covenant, as it now stands, deprecates the use of all force, and the League as it now is tends, through the jurisdiction of the Court and the progress of arbitration, to establish justice. Without America it can be done but imperfectly. With America the great ideal of a peaceful and just world can be realized."

Dr. Rappard attacked the Mussolini Government in Italy, saying that neither security, peace nor justice characterized its foreign policy, and that nothing could be further removed than Fascism from "Wilsonian democratic liberalism." He called Russia "the present scourge of Europe and the world."

France Changing Her Stamps As a Measure of Economy

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Stamp collectors should prepare a fresh page in their albums for the change that is to take place in six weeks in the color scheme and denominations of French stamps. The following are the principal transformations which the Government announced today: The green 15-centime stamp will become brown, the sherry-colored 20-centime will become green, the blue 25-centime will be changed to red, the 45-centime to violet, the mauve 60-centime to red and the blue 75-centime to red.

Stamps of 30 centimes and 85 centimes will be suppressed. New stamps, on the other hand, will be placed in circulation, such as a stamp for 80 centimes in orange and azure and a special-delivery stamp costing 1 franc 5 centimes, red in color.

The color scheme of the new stamps is not determined by esthetic considerations so much as by necessity for economy, cheaper dyes being employed throughout.

ZIONISTS ATTACK BRITISH METHODS

DEFENSE FORCE DEMANDED

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 21.—Today's session of the Zionist Congress developed the note of anti-British sentiment struck yesterday. Chief Rabbi Landau of South Africa was especially bitter in denouncing the British Government for giving land free to Arabs, while Jews must buy the land with money raised by great sacrifices. "The British Government treats the Balfour declaration as a scrap of paper," Landau exclaimed, "yet we cannot expect our leaders to run head foremost into the iron wall of the British Government. We must proclaim before the whole world that the mandate is not being executed as we could expect." Rabbi Landau declared that the Zionists want to build up the Jewish land for Jewish people, but also the Jewish people for Jewish land.

Jean Fischer, Antwerp delegate, declared Sir Herbert Samuels's definition of Balfour's declaration, Winston Churchill's statement and Lord Plumer's appointment prove that the Zionists do not tread solid ground.

A speech by Vladimir Jabotinsky, one of the Extreme Nationalists, roused a violent scene. He began by saying that the Zionist aim is the creation of a Jewish majority in Palestine. This necessitates an immigration of 40,000 yearly, he said. He went on explaining the economic needs of Palestine and pointing out that the business world would not consider granting the loan under the guaranties of the League of Nations, as outlined in the Ruppin resolution of Tuesday. There is only one real security for the loan, he said; that is the Palestine land reserves. He continued: "There is a so-called California system of loan over a three-year term, secured by the uncultivated land, which will be improved by the loan itself in order to attract settlers. The loan is to be repaid in instalments by settlers. This problem of Zionism must be considered from the viewpoint of land reserves."

Jabotinsky went on with a strong sally against the British Government administration of Palestine, which had been penetrated by a hostile spirit, he said.

A sensation was aroused at today's session by a message from the Russian Zionist youth organization, read by Rabbi Meyer Berlin of New York. "From the darkness of prison cells and crushed by disappointment over the kind of liberty and equality prevailing in Soviet Russia, from the ice fields of remote Siberia we send our greetings to our Zionist brethren," the message began. It continued, that the Zionist movement in Soviet Russia is shattered and that Zionists must take refuge in dark cellars to escape persecution The Zionist workers in Russia undergo martyrdom in Siberian prisons. The message ended: "Down with the persecutors of our people in Russia; down with the criminal persecution of Hebraic speech and culture!"

The third conference of the world organization of Zionist women opened today. The program included discussion of educational and social work for women, girls and children in Palestine.

Request Jewish Defense Force.

VIENNA, Aug. 21 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Tumultuous scenes occurred at the Zionist Congress when Vladimir Jabotinsky, founder of the Jewish Legion, which fought together with the British Army in Palestine during the war, took the floor. When the majority gave Jabotinsky permission to continue his speech after his time limit had expired, the Labor groups renewed their protest. When the vote was again taken, all delegates including Dr. Weizmann, voted in favor with the exception of four. Quiet was restored only with great difficulty after the Mizrachi, the Right Orthodox wing of the congress, together with the Centrum, threatened to exclude the Labor members from the session if they continued their interruptions. The most striking point in Mr. Jabotinsky's speech was his demand that the Zionists establish a special Jewish self-defense corps in Palestine. He claimed that the British garrison in Palestine was too small to insure Jewish safety in that country.

Mr. Jabotinsky further demand that the Jewish Agency, which under the Palestine mandate is to act as an advisory body to the Palestine administration, be furnished with consultation rights before the appointment of the High Commissioner and other high officials in the Palestine Government, for the prupose of preventing the possibility that officials who are hostile to the Zionist conception be appointed.

The Federation of German Anti-Semitic and Monarchistic Organizations has assured the authorities that they will guarantee order during the huge "people's convention" which will take place Saturday afternoon. They promise that the mass meeting will be concluded at 7 o'clock, after which hour the entire meeting will march to the Karlsplatz, which is in the neighborhood of the Congress Building. This makes it obvious that the mass meeting is directed against the Zionist Congress.

Reich Not Resigned.

WARSAW, Aug. 21 (Jewish Telegraph Agency).—Reports of the press to the effect that Dr. Leon Reich, President of the Club of Jewish Deputies in the Polish Sejm, has resigned from his position before leaving for the United States of America are not in conformity to fact, according to a report published here today.

French Protest Deforesting of Country By Americans Buying Up Timber Regions

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Organizations interested in the preservation of French forests have sent a protest to the Ministry of Agriculture against the deforestation of the timber regions by American woodcutters.

The protest calls attention to the fact that the American companies, which are restrained from destroying forests in their own country, are buying up French forests and devastating them at will.

The Paris newspaper, the Oquvre, joining the protest, pictures the American woodcutter as a sort of marauder, saying:

"With an ear-to-ear grin on his face and his hands chuck full of dollars, which he has caged from the benefits of exchange, he scours the forests of Creuse and Correze and buys up almost for nothing all the beautiful chestnut trees of the region.

"It is impossible to recall how Americans during the war cut down the woods of Dijonnais without feeling a cold chill run down the spine in learning that the forests of several French Provinces are soon to fall under their axes."

DIFFER ON COAL MINE MOVE.

Company and Union Apart on Result of Attempt at Open Shop.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21.—Contradictory reports dealing with the success of the Pittsburgh Coal Company's attempt yesterday to reopen its Banning No. 2 mine near Whitsett Junction on an open-shop basis under the 1917 wage scale were made here today.

At the office of the coal company it was stated today that fifty-two men were working in the mine cleaning out the débris and getting the workings in shape for the miners.

From the headquarters of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, came the report that only eleven men had entered the mine and that none were union members. This report came from the union pickets stationed about the mine.

According to officials of the coal company most of the miners formerly employed in the mine requested that it be put in operation under the 1917 scale. Union officials scout this story.

FRENCH NOW DOUBT THEY CAN PAY US

will be presented at London and Washington by M. Caillaux as follows: The annual sum France will agree to pay Great Britain, added to that she will later on agree to pay to the United States, must not exceed France's capacity for payment. M. Caillaux will argue that if the burden should prove too heavy France could not pay her debt and if her currency depreciates she cannot buy her creditors' products.

"Regarding a moratorium, M. Caillaux will urge that the French budget be not too heavily burdened before France's internal debt is consolidated and before reconstruction is completed.

"Concerning the transfer of the annuities agreed upon, it is believed M. Caillaux will ask the appointment of an impartial body to consider the situation from time to time, on the ground that no settlement for such a long period could hope to escape all uncertainties.

"M. Caillaux will bring the argument that engagements made by President Wilson retain their moral value despite the rejection of the Treaty of Versailles and will take for granted that France will be as well treated as Belgium.

"The Finance Minister will also call attention to France's effort in repairing the common war damage which it was agreed Germany should do. He also will point out heavy loans France made to her war allies, which amount to 46 per cent. of her debt to England and America."

BELGIAN TERMS CRITICIZED.

The Economist Doubts France and Italy Can Pay 3½ Per Cent.

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP).—Considerable space is given over by the British weekly newspapers to Belgian debt settlement with the United States. The New Statesman regards it as important because, it says, it may be taken for granted that the terms represent the most lenient terms the United States is prepared to grant to any of her European debtors. The paper believes that they therefore represent also the minimum standard which the British Treasury may be expected to adopt in the forthcoming negotiations with France and Italy.

The Economist is inclined to doubt whether such long-term arrangements will still be in force in the next generation. It welcomes the settlement, however, as removal of a serious source of international friction. Discussing the effect on coming settlements and remarking that Great Britain is not in a mood to see the United States paid on a more liberal scale than herself, The Economist asks: "Are to be pushed by the United States into driving an unreasonably hard bargain with France and Italy?"

The article contends it is impossible for Italy to pay 3½ per cent. interest, for, it points out, Italy's wealth per head is estimated at less than half that of Belgium.

"We see no way out of this difficulty," The Economist says, "unless the United States is prepared to concede a lower rate of interest to France and Italy than she conceded Great Britain. * * * If the United States succeeded in making France and Italy pay 3½ per cent. she would receive from her former associates about 90,000,000 sterling yearly for more than half a century. This represents three-quarters of the maximum German reparation payments and probably more than will be possible in practice to secure from Germany."

HOW THE $246,000,000 TOTAL WAS FIGURED

Capital Sums, Interest Due and Payments by Belgium—Interest for First Ten Years.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Additional facts regarding the settlement of Belgium's debts to the United States were ascertained today in an authoritative quarter. The information included the manner in which the post-armistice debt was placed at the figure of $246,000,000. This calculation was made in the following manner:

The principal of obligations for cash advanced was $175,430,808.68 and to this was added $26,314,491.66 for accrued and unpaid interest at 4¼ per cent. to Dec. 15, 1922, making a total of $201,745,300.34. The principal of obligations for war material sold on credit was $29,818,933.39 and to this was added $491,359.24 for accrued and unpaid interest at 4¼ per cent. to Dec. 15, 1922, making a total of $30,310,292.63. Addition of these totals—$201,745,300.34 and $30,310,292.63—brought the total indebtedness up to Dec. 15, 1922, to $232,055,592.97, and to this was added $17,404,169.47 for accrued and unpaid interest between Dec. 15, 1922, and June 15, 1925, making the total debt at the last date $249,459,762.44.

From this $249,459,762.44 a deduction of $3,442,527.78 was made, including payment of interest between Dec. 15, 1922, and June 15, 1925, on obligations for war material, $3,442,346.20, and a principal payment of $172.01 on Aug. 7, 1923, with interest at 3 per cent. to June 15, 1925, which brought this to $181.58. Subtraction of the deduction of $3,442,527.78 from the total indebtedness of $249,459,762.44 left a balance of $246,017,234.66, but, in order to bring the debt to round figures for the purpose of funding, the Belgians are to pay the $17,234.66 in cash on the execution of the agreement.

Bonds will be used by Belgium for both her pre-armistice and post-armistice debts, maturing serially on June 15 for sixty-two years at the figures given at the time the agreement was announced last Tuesday afternoon.

Under the agreement, it is now learned, Belgium on ninety days' notice may exercise an option to postpone for two years principal payments falling due after June 15, 1935, but only on condition that if this option is availed of, the payment falling due in the next succeeding year cannot be postponed for more than one year unless the previously postponed payment has been made. Under this option the payment which would fall due in the second succeeding year may not be postponed at all unless the first option has been paid.

Through the agreement Belgium will not be forced to pay the 3½ per cent. on the retirement of her post-armistice debt until after ten years have elapsed, the debt commission prescribing arbitrary sums to be paid in the ten-year period.

The interest for this period will be paid as follows:

Date.	Amount.	Date.	Amount.
Dec. 15, '25.	$870,000	Dec. 15, '30.	$1,625,000
June 15, '26.	870,000	June 15, '31.	1,625,000
June 15, '27.	1,000,000	June 15, '32.	1,875,000
Dec. 15, '27.	1,125,000	Dec. 15, '32.	2,125,000
June 15, '28.	1,125,000	June 15, '33.	2,125,000
June 15, '29.	1,250,000	June 15, '34.	2,375,000
Dec. 15, '29.	1,375,000	Dec. 15, '34.	2,625,000
June 15, '30.	1,375,000	June 15, '35.	2,625,000

NEW ENGLAND PLANS FOR COAL SHORTAGE

MOVE IN DEADLOCK SEEN

Absence of Operators' and Miners' Chiefs Leads to Hope for Developments.

BOSTON, Aug. 21 (AP).—The Governors of the New England States and their representatives who met here today to discuss the coal situation as it affects New England agreed that the best method of combating hardship, should an anthracite shortage develop, would be to educate New England in the use of substitute fules and to see to it that such substitutes were supplied.

It was voted to continue the conference as a permanent body, with John Hayes Hammond as Chairman and Henry L. Shattuck of Boston Secretary.

Chairman Hammond, who stated that he was not present as representative of President Coolidge, declared that he had no fear of an anthracite strike this year. The operators realize, he said, that they are losing their markets because of increasing prices and the public's fear of a shortage, and the miners were "in the same boat."

Even should a strike develop, he said, New England could easily make use of substitutes such as soft coal and throw off the fetch of anthracite, which, although regarded as a necessity to this section, is now considered almost a luxury in other parts of the country.

Plenty of bituminous coal will be available this year, Mr. Hammond declared, because of the lack of any danger of a strike in the soft coal fields. Union soft coal miners dare not strike, he said, because the men of the non-union fields, who now produce 60 per cent of the total output, are giving them too strong competition.

Governors Fuller of Massachusetts and Brewster of Maine attended the conference in person. John W. Storrs, New Hampshire State Fuel Administrator, represented Governor Winant, and Ernest L. Sprague, Secretary of State, represented Governor Pothier of Rhode Island. John D. Sherburne represented Governor Billings of Vermont and Edward W. Goss appeared for Governor Trumbull of Connecticut.

Coal Region Appeals to Fuller

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP).—Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, who has called a conference of Governors of the New England States to take action to relieve that section of its dependence on anthracite, was appealed to today by citizens of the anthracite region for suggestions to break the deadlock between the coal operators and the miners and to restore lasting peace in the region.

Speculation Over Lewis's Absence.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21 (AP).—When John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, failed to return today to his temporary hotel headquarters here after his departure yesterday speculation developed as to the possibility of developments soon in the anthracite wage situation. Mr. Lewis's whereabouts were not disclosed by his staff.

Nothing was looked for, however, much before next Monday, when the present anthracite wage contract enters its final full week.

United States Senator George Wharton Pepper, who has been mentioned as an eligible mediator in the present deadlock between the operators and the miners, is said to be in England. His office does not expect him here until after Labor Day.

Silence shrouds the offices of the Anthracite Operators' Conference in the Lafayette Building in the continued absence of Samuel D. Warriner, Chairman of the conference.

Special to The New York Times.

ALANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 21.—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, at the Hotel Ambassador here today said he hoped there would not be a strike in the anthracite mines. Mr. Green, who was formerly Secretary-Treasurer of the United Mine Workers, said: "Both the United Mine Workers and the operators will have to thrash the matter out themselves unless they agree to call in the Executive Council to aid in reaching an agreement." Mr. Green will return to Washington tomorrow.

Operators Hold Conference.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP).—Samuel D. Warriner, Chairman of the Anthracite Operators' Conference and W. J. Richards, Charles F. Huber, W. W. Inglis and other operators gathered in an informal meeting here today to discuss developments in the hard coal situation. The meeting was held in Mr. Inglis's office in the Glen Alden Coal Company's building.

When interviewed following the meeting Mr. Inglis stated, "We simply discussed various phases of the situation."

In a statement today Mr. Inglis, as Chairman of the Anthracite Operators' Scale Committee, welcomed the efforts of public bodies in Northeastern Pennsylvania to prevent a shut-down of the mines when the present wage agreement expires on Aug. 31.

His statement was in answer to a communication from John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, in which he advised business men to keep their hands off the hard coal situation.

Mr. Inglis characterized a suspension of operations as "indefensible," declaring "a suspension would mean business disaster. It is more inexcusable if it comes about, because our industry is made the 'goat' of bituminous difficulties."

Railroad Prepares for Coal Strike.

SWIFT FRENCH DRIVE SPLITS FOE AT TAZA

had toppled down, dragging and killing one horse, whose feet were sticking pitifully out from a narrow gulch. It had been necessary to pull up the cannon with two ropes, fifty sweating men strung out on each, a literal tug of war, of which we saw other examples today.

The column had gone a mile further, but had encountered severe resistance, especially from the Branes on the right, and had retired to this line for the night. Even greater difficulty was caused by the heat and lack of water on the advanced position. In order to move faster the column had reduced equipment and rations to a minimum, not expecting to entertain visitors. Fortunately we had carried blankets, some water, a loaf of bread, two cans of sardines and some cheese from Taza, upon which we lived a day and a half.

An airplane swooping a hundred feet overhead at sunset dropped orders for the next day and continued circling above the camp until a signal was flashed to him that the orders were received and understood; then he dropped a rocket bursting in six stars—meaning acknowledgment of receipt of the Colonel's answer. The Colonel, after giving orders to flash the report of the day's losses back to headquarters at Jebel Halfa and for the column to prepare to move to attack Msila at 4 o'clock in the morning, went to bed at 9. He and other officers had not got a wink of sleep in the past two nights, having been kept constantly alert by enemy firing.

A Quiet Night at the Front.

Another such night was expected, especially since we were exposed from every angle. Everything was quiet, however, and, walking along the firing line, I found the soldiers sleeping in rifle pits, while sentries, posted twenty feet ahead at regular three-yard intervals, stood silhouetted against the starry sky like a line of black statues, necks craning forward, rifles in hand. When we rolled into our blankets and stretched out on the ground at a 35-degree slope, there was not a light in the camp, not a sound, save the distant howling of jackals and the steady munching of horses and mules tethered just below, with the occasional thud of a boulder accidentally dislodged by some one above us. Then suddenly a rifle flashed from the opposite hillside to which we were exposed. The outpost there answered, the intermittent fusillade continuing a couple of hours. One bullet whistled into the camp, and, as if it set it off, a fuse flare suddenly lighted for a brilliant moment on the ridge above us. No enemy was revealed in that direction, however, and after midnight the camp was no longer troubled.

Awakened at 4 o'clock for a cup of cold coffee—no fires or cigarettes were allowed—we found most colonels of the three battalions already moving forward through the dim light toward Msila. They reached and recaptured the southernmost four forts of Msila, two miles distant, hardly having to fire a shot. Then the fusillade began. We could see the Riffian sentinels perched on the rocky butte above the main fort of Msila, a mile north, who quickly disappeared as high explosives and shrapnel from 75s started bursting around them.

Meanwhile ten tanks came lumbering up the road along the valley separating the Tsouls from the Branes. Three of them started up the mountainside behind the infantry but found the slope too steep and climbed too slowly to be of any aid here. It was curious to see these huge monsters with invulnerable hide docilely trying to follow an unarmed officer who was preceding them trying to pick out the best route.

The other seven tanks led by two armored cars continued up the valley road firing a constant barrage with their machine guns and inch-and-a-half cannon against the Branes in their rocky recesses, who were being bombarded at the same time by the 155s and a battery of 75s until the air quivered. The tank officer had asked to be accompanied by infantry, and nine lonely Senegalese—the only ones who could be spared—marched up the road behind the tanks. They had not gone a mile when the dust began to jump up around their feet and they scattered like a flock of partridges for cover in the bushes. Though the tanks redoubled their fire they could not silence the Branes, who kept up a volley on the nine men, forcing them up the mountain. We could follow every movement with glasses and anxiously kept counting them. It seemed incredible that any should escape, there was so little protection, but all did.

Civilian Visitors in Danger.

They had no sooner escaped and the guns momentarily were silent when we were amazed to see two civilians come up the road in an automobile. They left the car at the foot of our night camp and started up the road to join the tanks as unconcernedly as if on Fifth Avenue. We learned afterward they were a local photographer and his chauffeur who, as we yesterday, thought the front much further ahead. It was impossible to signal them and we could only keep our glasses glued on them, feeling certain they were walking blithely into the rifles' mouth. We were not mistaken, for when they got within 100 feet of the tanks bullets began spattering around their feet. Without a moment's hesitation they made for the rear on the run, jumped in their car and sped toward Taza, while troops on the hilltops laughed at the show.

The Branes kept that road unsafe all morning, firing a heavy volley at the artillerymen bringing up 75s, who, hanging low on their horses, galloped by in a cloud of dust.

The day's "baroud," as the soldiers call a battle here, using the native name, ended about noon. I learned it had been decided not to march further than the first Msila fort, though from all indications it could have been done easily. The deciding reason was that the first fort had a spring, while the others lacked water, which made it difficult to garrison a battalion there. We then returned on foot, no transportation being available until we reached the hospital, five miles down the valley. We found from other reports that Colonel Poulet's column, being the most exposed, had encountered the heaviest resistance today.

PETAIN AND PRIMO MEET AT ALGECIRAS

French and Spanish Troops Continue Joint Operations—Alhucemas Island Bombarded.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Today's Algeciras conference was of less importance than that of 1907, although it also took place in the Hotel Maria Cristina. Marshal Petain and General Primo de Rivera spent an hour in the hotel, then took a walk along the beach, lunched, and boarded the Cruiser Jaime I.

Marshal Petain told the journalists he was satisfied with results of the conversation and sure the Moroccan problem would be settled by Franco-Spanish cooperation.

The official Spanish communiqué says the interview had been prepared by the Governments and that the meeting of commanders-in-chief was merely to exchange impressions and discussion of application of points previously decided at the Madrid conference.

EL ARAISH, Spanish Morocco, Aug. 21 (AP).—Thre columns commanded by the French Colonel Freydenburg and Generals Garcia and Boloix of the Spanish Army, respectively, executed further military operations in the Loukkus River region at dawn today, with a view to closing in on the rebellious Moroccans.

Colonel Freydenburg established a new advance post within the limits of the Spanish zone, without meeting resistance, while the Spanish columns set up three new posts between Corra and Ain-Hayel. All of the posts were well fortified and garrisoned after their occupants were dislodged.

TETUAN, Morocco, Aug. 21 (AP).—The rebellious Moroccan tribesmen are again filtering through the French lines in the Ouezzan region, northwest of Fez. These infiltrations, described in messages from the French zone of operations, have been noted following the capture of the Sarsar plateau by the French and Spanish forces.

Several tribes have been observed attempting to cross the frontier in the Ouergha region, but they were detected by the French and interned.

Riffian residents of Tangier are counseling the war loard, Abd-el-Krim, to make peace with the French and Spaniards. Several tribal chiefs have written him not to continue the fight because the tribes appear tired and the Jebala tribesmen already are awaiting an opportune moment to ask for just surrender.

MADRID, Aug. 21 (AP).—A resumption by the Moors of their bombardment of the Island of Alhucemas on the coast of Morocco was announced tonight by General Jordana. He declared the Government had not yet received exact figures as to the Spanish casualties through the bombardment, but among them is Colonel Monasterio, commander of the forces on the island, who was seriously wounded.

The Spanish casualties yesterday are given as twenty. The Directorate says Spanish warships have been dispatched to the scene.

SULTAN RECEIVES AMERICANS IN POMP

RABAT, Morocco, Aug. 21.—His Majesty Mulay Yussef received today in solemn audience thirteen American aviators, accepting their services as the first aerial squadron ever on the staff of the Cherifian army. As they stepped from automobiles at 11 o'clock they were met by detachments of cavalry, artillery and infantry and a mounted drum corps, all black as night, dressed in red, green and gold bloomers, bagging to the ankles, and turbans embroidered according to the branch of the service. Through lanes of crimson cavalry, flying green fanions on their lances, they approached in the glare of the sun the white palace walls and parked in terraces behind the court.

There came Marshal Lyautey and led the airmen through the inner court, through sold infantry, still in crimson, green and gold. A band of toy clarinets shrieked the "Marseillaise." A green velvet flag centred with a gold star dipped and a new band in blue, purple, yellow and pink cassocks whined the disturbing music of the Arab. Ministers came out to meet the airmen.

During the introduction to the Sultan the airmen saw the blurred faces of women crowding the filigree windows of the upper balcony.

In the audience room his Majesty was on a couch—a great white bundle, his feet bare save for yellow sandals. His face was hooded and his beard cut even all around—a black beard of two weeks' length.

Marshal Lyautey led the Americans forward. Lieut. Col. Parker was first to bow over the Sultan's hand—Colonel Sweeney was absent on the Taza front—and all followed as their names were called. They were followed by the French Captains Sadi Lecointe Ducas and Haegelen, the first French volunteers.

"We receive you with great thanks; you see how cordially we want you here," said the Sultan.

The meeting then turned into a mutual admiration society.

The airmen left the palace through the same crimson glow of a fairy world by which they entered. Following in pomp, the Sultan went to the mosque, hailed in unison by his chamberlains, and as the Americans rode away they saw his lonely figure in the tower calling out a prayer to Allah for the faithful.

DANCE EXPERTS FACE A FIGHT ON CHARLESTON

Move to Bar It Will Be Made at Convention Here—London Delighted by the New Step.

The art of dancing, from the classic interpretation of the ancient Greeks to the Charleston of ultra-modern youth, will pass in annual review before members of the American Society of Teachers of Dancing at the Waldorf-Astoria, beginning on Monday. It is said that instructors have enjoyed an unusually prosperous year, and a large attendance is expected at the convention, according to Louis H. Chalif, President of the society.

Considerable controversy probably will revolve about the Charleston, Mr. Chalif said. A large New England delegation will fight against the possible approval and adoption of this dance by the convention. They say that the recent Pickwick Club disaster in Boston, when a building collapsed with several hundred dancers, was caused by the pounding vibration of the Charleston, which most of the victims were dancing at the time. Some of the society's New York members, however, are planning to introduce a modified Charleston which they say will be appropriate, socially and structurally, to any ballroom.

Benjamin B. Lovett, of Hudson, Mass., personal instructor of Henry Ford and members of his family, will be a delegate to the convention. Plans recently announced for the promotion of dancing among employes of the Ford industries are credited to Mr. Lovett's influence. Major R. W. Vizay, for more than thirty years instructor in dancing and deportment at West Point, is Chairman of the convention's Program Committee and will have associated with him William Pitt Rivers, a Brooklyn dancing master.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The Charleston, the latest jazz dance importation from the United States, has been taken up in a serious way by London's dancing professors, with the idea of making it the smart ballroom dance of the approaching Autumn and Winter season. Those who have already tried it call it "topping."

All the Charleston now needs, according to the professors, is royal approval from the Prince of Wales when he returns home from South America, and those who claim to know the Prince's taste in dancing are confident he will approve it.

"Teasing, compelling, audacious and imperious," was the way one well-known West End professor of the art of terpsichore described the Charleston.

CHINA WOULD ADOPT MODERN COURT PLAN

FAVORS GRADUAL REFORM

NO HARM TO CONCESSIONS

By THOMAS F. MILLARD

Special Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, July 25—One would think from listening to much of the talk among foreigners here about the abolition of extraterritoriality (which all but the densest now begin to realize suddenly has come within the bounds of possibility) that the idea is new. The truth, as any student of international law knows, is that extraterritoriality never has had more than a temporary status in China or anywhere, and in the nature of things it must terminate in time.

"I suppose you are right. But extraterritoriality will not be given up in our time."

And until very recently they have been quite sure. Now they are not. My opinion is that the days of extraterritoriality in China are numbered; and it is high time to begin to consider, not as an academic question of the future, but as an entirely practical and imminent one, ways and means whereby the transition can be made as easy as possible for all concerned.

Chinese are not involved with extraterritoriality except as here and there in the foreign concessions some Chinese property and business interests get into the foreign courts and, presumably, Chinese gain by the application of "the white man's justice." The mixed courts do not depend on extraterritoriality for their mandates and existence; they take their charters from the existence and evolution of the concessions municipalities, and the rendition to China of the concessions is a question apart from the abolition of extraterritoriality. In forthcoming argument about these issues an effort will be made, I do not doubt, to confuse matters by jumbling them together. But they should be kept distinct.

Estimated roughly, it is not likely that more than perhaps 3,000,000 of Chinese live in and are directly connected with all the foreign residential concessions in China. That is an insignificant proportion of the population of the whole country. Yet one constantly hears talk among foreigners here to the effect that the Chinese do not want extraterritoriality ended, because they profit more from its existence than foreigners do, and would suffer more from a change than foreigners would. Those ideas spring partly from failure to comprehend what extraterritoriality really is and what functions it performs (the average of foreigners in China could not give a correct definition of those points), but more because effects of giving up extraterritoriality are confused with effects which might follow rendition of the residential concessions.

Chinese Now Demand Speedy Reform.

The method of dealing with extraterritoriality adopted at Washington was a graduated process of extinction. First, the foreign powers were to send a special commission to China to study conditions and to make recommendations. (It will be noted how the foreign powers, and not China, retained a kind of control and supervision even of the approaches to abolition.) Then, with the presumed consent of China, a plan would be adopted and put into effect. It was assumed, by that process, that perhaps twenty or thirty years would be required to complete the change.

It cannot be too often emphasized that the general course marked out at Washington (it was severely criticized then by British and other foreigners in China as going much too far and promising China altogether too much) will not content the Chinese nationalists now. Especially they will be reluctant to agree to permitting a foreign commission to seem to take charge and direct the matter.

New China wants to abolish extraterritoriality without delay. Its leaders still are willing to do that decently and in order by talking things over with the foreign Governments and trying to meet their views in some way; but it must be China that decides what is done. Furthermore, it is an error to assume that this idea of New China runs contrary to the more mature opinion of the Chinese. In so far as I am able to sound it, Chinese mature opinion is entirely in sympathy with Young China as to broad grounds; however, it might be willing to take a more moderate course.

That depends on whether action by the powers quickly catches up with events and gets in touch with Chinese moderate thought before it is swung over completely to the radical program.

An Outline of the Denby Plan.

Many times in the last twenty years I have discussed with able men the question of extraterritoriality and the means eventually to end it here. It is a subject that at various times has occupied the minds of statesmen and philosophers who have studied this old nation and who have come into direct contact with it.

I recall some ten years ago the plan of Charles Denby (son of Charles Denby, who for thirteen years was American Minister to China). He served with his father at the legation in Peking, later as American Consul General in Shanghai and at times acted as a Magistrate on special mixed courts in China. He prepared a plan for a graduated termination of extraterritoriality, which he allowed me to read. I have not that plan here now, but I remember its outlines.

Briefly, it was—first to codify the laws of China with the help of foreign lawyers; then (or simultaneously) create a good college of law in China with a number of foreign professors and lecturers; then create a number of special courts on which both Chinese and foreign judges would sit and where all cases involving foreigners would be tried.

What impressed me about Mr. Denby's plan was its simplicity. In later years I talked about it with many Chinese, particularly with Dr. Wang Chung-hui, sometime Chief Justice of China and now a Justice of the International Court at The Hague. Almost all of those Chinese found little to criticize in the broader aspects of the plan.

Foreigners here have the idea now that there is danger of extraterritoriality being given up suddenly and that such action would have a disastrous effect both on foreigners and Chinese. The likelihood of a sudden ending of extraterritoriality lies with a failure or refusal of the powers to do anything to meet modern Chinese opinion on the question.

A condition may be brought about when the Chinese radical party will swing the nation, including the principal militarists, to a policy of quick recovery of China's complete sovereignty by ultimatum, as Turkey did. But it still is possible, I believe, to use a gradual and safe process in ending extraterritoriality provided the opportunity is not permitted to slip by.

Suggests New Legal System.

1. A codification of the laws of China and their publication in foreign languages.
2. China to create a number of special courts, where all cases involving the persons and interests of foreigners will be tried.
3. China to appoint (under her own authority and to be paid by her) some foreign Judges to sit with Chinese Magistrates on those special courts.
4. Those special courts and the foreign Judges to be terminated in a stated time (say in twenty years, in case China then wanted to dispense with them).
5. China to have free latitude in selecting and appointing and dismissing (but not in the life of the treaty dispensing with) the foreign Judges in her employ.
6. China to create a Court of Appeals, on which some foreign Judges would sit with Chinese Magistrates and before which court cases involving the persons and interests of foreigners would go. That court to be subject to the same conditions as the special courts previously mentioned. (During the life of the treaty an appeal in such cases might be taken to the International Court at The Hague.)
7. China to organize a college of law according to international standards for the purpose of educating Chinese in the theory and practice of modern statutory law and to fit them to be lawyers and Judges.

From talks I have had with eminent and foreign-educated Chinese I believe that the Chinese entirely on their own motion before very long (they would have done it already but for the World War and the internal turmoil here) will adopt a formula something like the foregoing.

Chinese Cannot Be Bullied.

I always have found among intelligent Chinese a feeling that they do not want too quickly to take over the full responsibility of dealing with foreigners in China. They feel that it may be better for China that in the period of transition there will be no just cause for complaint about the juridical treatment of foreigners here. It also is felt by that class of Chinese that for many years to come China needs the services of foreign Judges and lawyers in reorganizing her jurisprudence. If foreign Judges are not thrust upon China (as foreign advisers in the past have been more or less forced upon Oriental Governments), the Chinese willingly enough may employ them of their own volition.

Beyond doubt Chinese thought on this subject of juridical practice has been deeply influenced by the foreign courts in China and by all foreign activities here. "The white man's justice" has left its mark which never will be rubbed out.

But that is not to say, as many foreigners in China do, that rightly the white man's justice should be forced upon the Chinese, even though from the viewpoint of the West it may be better for the Chinese.

If not too much bullied and interfered with, and if the transition from old China's custom and tradition is not given a complexion of being forced on the Chinese against their will, they probably will fall into step with the remainder of the modern world and as rapidly as they can will apply here the forms of Western justice and the tenets of international law.

350 Police Recruits to Learn Swimming Under New Schedule

Some time in the future the Police Academy may have its water team competing in water polo matches and swimming races with leading colleges of the East, for Commissioner Enright has issued an order that every rookie policeman in the academy must learn to swim.

Under the tutelage of Captain Charles B. Scully, swimming instructor of the American Red Cross Society, 235 recruits, now training at the Police Academy, took their first swimming lessons at Sheepshead Bay on Thursday afternoon. A regular swimming schedule has been mapped out and next week 350 men who have passed the civil service examination for patrolmen will enter the academy and each week thereafter will be taken to various beaches for swimming lessons.

50,000 TO RESUME WORK IN SHANGHAI MILLS

Workers Reported to Have Won Most Points of Contention Against Japanese Owners.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Details of the settlement of the strike in the Japanese cotton mills in Shanghai are contained in a cable report to the Department of Commerce today from Peking. About 50,000 strikers are expected to resume work. The chief points in the settlement were:

(1) Recognition of the labor union when a labor code is promulgated by the Peking Government.

(2) All future payments to workmen to be in big money, i. e., silver dollars or their equivalent.

(3) No contributions to strikers, but the mill owners will give financial aid to needy workers.

(4) No workers to be dismissed without cause.

(5) Mill foremen not to be armed under ordinary circumstances.

(6) Ten thousand silver dollars to be paid by the Naiwata Kaisha mill, in which the initial trouble took place, to the strikers injured and the families of those killed in the initial disturbance.

The wharf and shipping workers have returned to work irregularly, and cargo movements from British wharves are increasing.

HELD AS INSURANCE THIEF.

Gerald Walker, 29 years old, was arraigned in Flatbush Court yesterday before Magistrate McCloskey, on a charge of forgery. Walker's wife, Anna, died on July 3 at the age of 26. From her early girlhood her mother, Mrs. Margaret Ryan, of 240 East Ninth Street, Brooklyn, had carried a five-cent insurance policy on her life. Mrs. Ryan is a scrubwoman, employed in a downtown office building, and, besides Anna, she had three younger children to support. With her meagre wages she found it difficult to pay even five cents a week on the insurance policy.

Soon after the death of his wife Walker went to the insurance company, it is alleged, said he represented his mother-in-law, who was beneficiary, and obtained $218.42 due on the policy. The police charge that he forged the endorsement of Mrs. Ryan to the check and deposited it to his own credit in a Brooklyn bank.

The undertaker's bill for Mrs. Walker's funeral was sent to her mother. She went to collect the insurance and found, she said, that it already had been paid to her son-in-law.

Walker was held without bail for a hearing Monday. He is an automobile salesman in Brooklyn, and he lives at 1,720 Nostrand Avenue.

AVOIDS USING FORCE AGAINST CANTONESE

SEEKS PEACEFUL ISSUE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—British merchants trading in China are now putting strong pressure upon the Government to adopt as quickly as possible a firm stand in regard to the embargo laid upon British and Japanese shipping by the Canton authorities, but the Government has not yet cleared up the situation sufficiently to declare its policy or even to communicate with the other powers.

One certainty is that there will be no appeal to force. Merchants as well as diplomats realize that the days when orders can be given to China as an inferior are over and that an attempt to drive the Chinese by threat of military and naval action would only result in angering all parts of the country and endangering the lives of Westerners living there.

The aspirations of the Chinese for their own national life are understood thoroughly in commercial circles and the desire of these merchants is that the Government should find a means of satisfying China's reasonable aspirations and thus to restore order by a sympathetic attitude toward her desire for self-government.

Canton's embargo does not, on the face of it, put any ban upon American shipping, but it is thought in commercial circles here that it will be almost as badly hit as British mercantile interests. Any American vessel can go direct to Canton as long as it does not touch at Hongkong. But for years Hongkong has been the great transshipment port of Southern China, and trade has been organized in that way. Tramp steamers of 4,000 or 5,000 tons might get up the river to Canton with a certain amount of difficulty from the bar and the tides. But if they did do so they would be throwing away long-established trade machinery.

The Standard Oil Company, for instance, has large tanks in Hongkong for the storage of oil, and other firms have been accustomed to unload their goods there, to be carried in junks into the interior.

It is thought here that it will take some time, at any rate, to reorganize American trade so as to cut out Hongkong. And if the Canton Government embargo is effective, it supposedly must have a serious effect upon American enterprise, even though American shipping is not involved.

Think Canton Will Suffer Most.

Persons here who know China well think the Canton Government has cut off its nose to spite its face. The radical rulers of that inland city at the moment are causing the Hongkong firms losses to be reckoned in billions of pounds, but these persons believe they cannot escape involving their own citizens in the same loss.

For years there has been the closest commercial relations through Shameen (the European settlement at Canton) with Hongkong, and if these are severed by banning British and Japanese vessels, the Canton merchants must suffer severely. Moreover, Canton with its 1,250,000 inhabitants depends upon a quantity of goods such as oil, dry goods and machinery, all products of America and Europe.

It is quite impossible suddenly to break the course of trade without inflicting damage upon Chinese importers as well as upon the Hongkong middlemen.

Some weeks ago the Canton Bolsheviki began to attack Hongkong by organizing a strike of all forms of Chinese labor. The strike was then enforced by threats of maltreating any relatives found in the Canton territory of those who persisted in working in Hongkong.

The strike was severe at first, but it had been petering out through the sheer impossibility of the unfortunate Chinese giving up their Hongkong jobs in order to protect their relatives. Faced with starvation, they have been dribbling back to work, even if thereby they exposed their families in Canton to persecution. So the Hongkong authorities believed the worst inconvenience of the strike was already over.

In the same way they hope that the Chinese merchants in Canton, as soon as they discover the effect of their local Government's ban on their own pockets, will exert pressure to have the ban amended, or perhaps even to overthrow the alleged Bolshevist tyranny.

Britons Are Ready to Compromise.

British merchants trading in China are counting a good deal upon the effect this practical course of events will have upon Chinese public opinion. At the same time they are urging the British Government to act energetically on the larger questions of the tariff conference with the Peking Government and the extraterritoriality dispute.

They are quite prepared for some concessions to the growing national feeling in China. They realize that Great Britain must embark upon a new policy toward that country.

At the same time, a note of warning is struck tonight by The London Star. It acknowledges that it is natural for the Chinese Republic, while it is crystallizing into shape, to seek rights as complete as those of Japan, but it points out that "when the late Lord Salisbury abolished the capitulations with regard to Japan there was a settled and powerful Government in Tokio, while in China there is nothing of the sort."

The Peking Government, it points out, can do nothing to prevent a radical province like Kwangtung from issuing shipping decrees like those which strike at the root of treaties with Peking, and says it is impossible to make concessions which would simply hand over a rich province to some mandarin to loot. It adds:

"British trade in China is deeply concerned with British employment here, and we certainly cannot submit to have our ships cleared off the China seas while those of our rivals continue to trade. The situation will need courage and caution."

Official Caution Is Urged.

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP).—The paralysis of trade in Hongkong, with daily losses estimated at several hundred thousands of pounds sterling, due to the Cantonese coastal regulations discriminating against British and Japanese shipping, continues to agitate the press and to engross the attention of the Foreign Office.

Austen Chamberlain, the Foreign Secretary, has interrupted his vacation in the country and returned to London to deal with the situation.

The London Times editorially describes conditions in Hongkong as "only too distressing" and says that "the effrontery of the Red Government in Canton is hardly to be borne." But it contends that for that very reason great circumspection is necessary and that "this typically Bolshevist challenge must be countered warily."

Boycott Hits Canadian Trade.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 21 (AP).—The Chinese boycott of British goods and British ships constitutes a menace to Canadian trade with the Far East through this port, business men here declare, and the Merchants' Exchange yesterday telegraphed to Premier King at Ottawa, urging him to advise the British Government of the "inevitable very serious result to Canadian export trade and shipping."

The message also stated that all Chinese business houses importing Canadian goods through Vancouver are demanding that Canadian labels and all indication of British origin and manufacture be erased and that the products be shipped on United States vessels.

United States Invites Forty-two Nations To Radio-Telegraph Conference Next Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Invitations have been sent out by the United States Government to forty-two nations to participate in a radio-telegraph conference to be held at Washington in the Spring of 1926.

At the close of the international radio-telegraph conference at London in 1912 the American delegates extended an invitation to hold the next conference at Washington in 1917. Later proposals were made, with a view to holding a joint conference of parties to the International Telegraph Convention and of parties to the International Radio-Telegraph Convention.

An unanimity could not be obtained for these proposals, the French Government has proceeded to hold the International Telegraph Conference at Paris, beginning Sept. 1, 1925, and the United States has taken the necessary steps to hold the International Radio-Telegraph Conference in Washington in the Spring of 1926. Congressional authorization for the holding of the radio-telegraph conference in Washington was contained in the second deficiency act approved by the President on March 4, 1925, and the sum of $92,000 was appropriated by Congress to defray the expenses of the conference.

The subjects to be discussed at the conference will include the revision of the international radio-telegraph convention and regulations, signed at London July 5, 1912, and the discussion of measures for the international supervision of communication by radio between the large fixed stations; broadcasting, including the handling of press messages; radio telephony; measures for the elimination of interference; distress messages, so far as to take cognizance of increased uses and classes of service; radio aids to navigation, and other purposes for which radio has been used as a result of the development of the art since 1912.

REDS AROUSED OVER CANTON.

By WALTER DURANTY.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 21.—The Soviet press today is making a great outcry over the "projected English intervention in China" and the English "preparations to seize Canton," which is expected here to be in consequence of the announcement that the Canton Government refuses to admit British and Japanese vessels.

Simultaneously there is a vigorous denial of the authenticity of documents alleged to implicate the Soviet Union in the anti-British movement in China.

Whatever may be the true attitude of the Soviet Union toward Chinese affairs—one is tempted to believe that it is more opportunist and less deliberately planned than the Soviet Foreign Office cares to admit—the fact remains that as far as Russia is concerned the real importance of the Chinese imbroglio lies in its having given birth to a conscious and interested body of public opinion here.

Ever since the revolution the Soviet leaders have been careful to insist that they and their policies represented, and were supported by, mass public opinion.

Until the Curzon ultimatum of two years ago foreign observers could not help but feel that the Russian public was too war weary and indifferent for this to be true, except in particular cases like the Polish war. The Curzon ultimatum may be said to mark the beginning of the general mass public sentiment which now undoubtedly exists.

Its existence and growth is one of the most striking factors in the development that has occurred during the past year.

Whereas formerly interest in foreign affairs—unless as above mentioned—was confined to the press and a comparatively small and well informed element of the Communist Party, the Chinese situation now is a matter of genuine interest to all sorts of people. They talk about it in restaurants, trains, street cars, and ask foreigners eagerly for further information.

Just as Bismarck used the Franco-Prussian War of 1870—that is, the mass sentiment against the French enemy—to unify Germany, so the Soviet Government has used "English imperialism" to crystalize the vague and fluid Russian nationalism aroused by foreign intervention and the Polish war into a concrete body of public opinion.

With the hammer of "English imperialism"—England is Russia's traditional foe—they have forged that instrument of an interested public opinion to support their policies, the public opinion which they claimed long ago to possess and which foreigners refused to believe they possessed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Disapproving acquittal by a court-martial of two women nurses accused of bringing liquor into the United States on the naval transport Kittery, Secretary Wilbur at the same time today announced his approval of sentences imposed on two officers, a chief pay clerk and a machinist of the transport Beaufort, found guilty of a like offense by a court-martial.

Secretary Wilbur's disapproval of the verdict in the case of the nurses will have no punitive effect, as there can be no new trial under the navy regulations when a court-martial has acquitted the accused person.

Commander D. W. Fuller, who was in command of the Beaufort at the time the liquor was found aboard her, and Lieutenant Clarence W. Baker of the Naval Supply Corps were acquitted by the court-martial and Secretary Wilbur approved that finding. He also approved the following sentences in the Beaufort case:

Lieutenant Fred M. Rohow, Naval Medical Corps, loss of five numbers in line of promotion. Found guilty on one charge.

Lieutenant Roland D. Hill, loss of fifty numbers in line of promotion. Found guilty on two charges.

Machinist Frank M. Hendricks, loss of twelve months' seniority and fine of $40 a month for twelve months. Found guilty on three charges.

In the case of the two nurses, Miss Ruth M. Anderson and Miss Catherine Glancy, Secretary Wilbur said that in his opinion there was "sufficient evidence to warrant conviction."

"This case, due to the acquittal by the court, is closed, and no further action can be taken," he added.

Salary Scale in New Regime.

The new organization will go into action on Sept. 1, and in the meantime the administrators will select their group heads, chemists, lawyers and also deputy administrators, but it is evident that the final visa will be given by General Andrews.

As regards the present personnel, everybody in it will be automatically dropped through the recent order effective Oct. 15, General Andrews said, but he added that in the meantime the administrators would have made selections of men they wished to retain.

Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition Commissioner, General Andrews stated, would remain in his post with his title, but it is expected in Washington that he will be virtually shelved, especially as the force here is to be materially reduced in size.

Administrators will receive as high as $6,000, but will be divided into two classes, the upper half drawing $5,200 to $6,000, the lower half $3,800 to $5,000.

Other salaries will be also in two classes, as follows: Administrative assistants, $3,800 to $5,000 and $3,300 to $3,900; attorneys on the same scale as the administrators; chemists, $3,000 to $3,300 and $2,800 to $3,000; deputy administrators, $2,700 to $5,000 and $2,700 to $2,900; inspectors in the permit division, $1,860 to $3,000.

A peculiar provision in regard to agents apparently is decided upon so as to secure the services of the highest grade detectives, for the salaries for inspectors will run from $1,860 up to $5,000.

The $6,000 limit was placed on prohibition salaries, stated General Andrews, because that is now the high salary in the Internal Revenue Bureau, under which the prohibition unit operates.

Coincident with the announcement of the appointments today, General Andrews made public a memorandum he had drawn up for the benefit of the administrators, outlining the present situation of prohibition and laying down the lines of the attack against bootlegging throughout the country and along its coasts and borders.

He said he would insist upon complete cooperation of the courts. Deploring the present congestion of the calendars, he ordered that all cases hereafter submitted be sound and worth while, in order to lessen the strain upon the courts. He required the administrators to work as closely as possible with the courts.

Andrews Outlined Plan of Attack.

"The national prohibition laws make it unlawful to supply alcoholic beverages to those who want to buy them. The big demand for these beverages creates a ready market, and under the economic law of supply and demand the business of selling to this market has been established.

"This outlaw business, in all its manifestations, is the real enemy of Government and society. Its elimination is the main objective for the Federal forces.

"This bootleg business may be eliminated by depriving it of its sources of supply, or by depriving it of its market. It may be seriously impeded by the arrest and punishment of those who direct its operations, who furnish it protection, banking facilities, technical assistance, &c., and by making its operations more expensive than the market will bear.

"The Federal forces have been reorganized for, and will be concentrated upon, the task of eliminating the bootleg industry, and their energies will be directed primarily to that end, working along these three lines of attack:

"1. Sources of supply to be reached and wiped out as rapidly as possible are importation, manufacture, diversion and transportation. The various agencies of the Government are being organized to make it possible to accomplish this end.

"2. The market is our most difficult problem, because of its indifference to consequences, ignorance and colossal gullibility. The market will pay any price and swallow any bootlegger's fairy tale as to quality.

"But one by one intelligent citizens will realize the danger to Government and society which they are creating by enriching this bootleg class of community members, and feeding fat a business which exists only through corrupting the very agents of Government and business, whose honesty is essential to the stability of society.

"One by one they will learn that their imported whiskies, &c., are being made in Canal Street from industrial alcohol and thus will refrain from buying them.

"3. The bootleg industry, in one form or another, extends over the whole country; but it operates mostly in the centres of population. Its business is collecting supplies and distributing them, and its operations vary in size from the small operator, who sells locally the product of local stills, up to the big operators whose lines extend into foreign sources of supply and into broad fields of distribution.

"None of these operations that are big enough to be more than matters for local police control can be carried on except through conspiracies to violate the laws. These conspiracies involve many persons in various walks of life. All are guilty. Among these persons the final distributer is of least importance. In fact, he is of no importance to the Federal Government except as he furnishes a line of approach to the bootleg operator whom he represents.

Warfare on Land and Sea.

"The secondary objective for the Federal forces is 'to assist and develop local law enforcement.' Our operations along this line will be matters for the exercise of judgment, initiative and resourcefulness on the part of the district administrators in meeting the problems peculiar to their respective territories.

"The Government, by treaties and negotiations, will make it more and more difficult for unscrupulous operators to take advantage of the protection of foreign flags to engage in large smuggling operations by sea; and will also make smuggling from the territory of our near neighbors both difficult and dangerous.

"Behind the Coast Guard first line on our sea fronts, and on all our borders, both sea and land, the Customs are being organized and reinforced to take the responsibility for stopping smuggling, each along his own front.

"Within this Customs line the Prohibition Unit is organized to attack domestic sources of supply. Distilleries, industries using alcohol and breweries, if proved to be sources of supply to the bootleg trade, will be proceeded against as nuisances and closed.

"This is a purely business proposition, easily understood, and should be capable of execution. Our inspectors will be trained chemists and pharmacists, and our enforcement agents trained criminal investigators and under-cover operators.

"Meantime we shall proceed vigorously toward the arrest and punishment through major conspiracy cases of those who are conducting the bootleg business. These cases will be made under legal guidance, and with the close cooperation of the Department of Justice will be given speedy court action.

"In each district counsel should give prompt attention to clearing court dockets in order that the decks may be clear for prompt action along the above lines.

"The attack on the market must be a matter of education, and can best be conducted by those organizations and individuals interested in the law observance and community welfare."

CONSUL'S BAGGAGE YIELDS MORE LIQUOR

FACES ADDITIONAL FINE

When the baggage of Eugene La Bosse, Honorary Consul for Haiti at Manchester, N. H., was searched at the Brooklyn army base by customs officials yesterday 328 more bottles of liquor were found, as well as two ten-gallon kegs of rum, 100 bottles of perfume, 4,000 cigars and 3,000 cigarettes. When the first search was made, at the time he landed on Wednesday from the steamer Nickerie, 240 bottles of whisky and other liquor were discovered.

La Bosse was arrested on Wednesday and fined $1,200 by Edward Barnes, Assistant Solicitor of Customs, despite La Bosse's plea that his baggage was immune under diplomatic privilege. As he was quite frank in admitting that he was bringing the liquor into this country for friends at Manchester, his diplomatic immunity was not recognized. The additional articles found yesterday will probably increase his fine to about $5,000, which Mr. La Bosse may have to pay on Monday when he returns to pay the original $1,200 fine.

At the Haitian Consulate it was said that Mr. La Bosse was a duly accredited Honorary Consul, although it was not known just what Haitian interests he represented at Manchester. He is the representative, it was said, of American manufacturers in Haiti.

Seize Fifty-Gallon Stills.

Three fifty-gallon stills and 2,100 gallons of alcohol were seized in a raid by Federal prohibition agents on the building at 2,165 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, yesterday. The room in which the stills were being operated was closed off from the rest of the building by barred doors.

Agents Bruno, Friedberg, Mulholland, Kurzman and Ether made the raid after their attention had been attracted several days ago to the building by a number of drums and kegs being lifted on a truck. After watching for a time one agent knocked at the entrance and asked for five gallons of alcohol. They were told to come around when "the boss" was there, but instead they obtained a search warrant from United States Commissioner Otter.

Yesterday morning they watched the building again and saw two men enter. They smashed through the outside door, but the barred door of the inside room delayed them so long that the two men inside escaped through the basement of another building. The stills were filled with mash, and the alcohol was found in kegs and cans ready for shipment.

Beer Makers Sentenced.

Four men were sentenced by Federal Judge William H. Atwell yesterday for making real beer in the old Everard brewery. Frank Thompson, who leased the place from William Jacobus last January, received sixty days in the Essex County Jail; John Neus and William Gavin, laborers, got thirty days each, and John Eppersol, brewmaster, was fined $250.

The fine and sentences were suggested by Assistant United States Attorney Bellinger, who explained that the men had pleaded guilty and had helped the Government materially. Judge Atwell accepted the suggestion, partly, he said, because they had promised never again to violate the prohibition law.

"You are all fine-looking men," said Judge Atwell. "You look like the type of men who keep their word. I will do as the United States Attorney recommends. You have offended against the law and are [illegible] to pay this penalty; but I believe you will keep the promises you have made, never again to engage in the illegal business you were in."

Applications for padlock proceedings against nine places in Brooklyn whose proprietors have been convicted of violating the prohibition law were filed with the Clerk of the Federal court in Brooklyn yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney Irwin T. Longworth Jr.

One place which he seeks to close is the drug store of Edward P. Kenny, at 17 Continental Avenue, Forest Hills; another is the Bay View Hotel and Casino, at East Thirty-eighth Street and Avenue W. The others are located at 1,320 Kings Highway, 143 Conover Street, 463 De Kalb Avenue, 1,705 Nostrand Avenue, 1,607 Nostrand Avenue, 2,509 Surf Avenue, Coney Island, and 404 Johnson Avenue.

FRENCH POSTMEN AID BANK STRIKE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—The Government's position, already menaced from a financial standpoint by the bank clerks' strike, became further complicated today when the postmen in several large cities decided to hold a sympathy strike. This is due to the fact that the banks were using postmen to collect checks and other financial paper. In Marseilles, Lyons and Nantes the postmen have decided they will not play the rôle of strikebreakers any longer, and in Lyons a strike is already effective. The Minister of Commerce sent a strong circular today to heads of the postal services in all cities asking them to act with severity after posting warnings to the personnel.

Bank directors after a talk with the Minister of Labor today agreed to discuss the claims of the striking clerks with their delegates. The conditions set for the meeting were: No pay during the strike period, but a promise to study a plan for overtime by which the employers and employes might both recover the losses due to the strike; and a 45-franc increase in monthly pay, instead of the 100 francs asked by the strikers.

LOWER TAXI FARES DEMANDED IN LONDON

8,000 Autos Waste $50,000 Worth of Gasoline a Day Hunting for Passengers, It Is Said.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—London has a taxicab war. A vigorous fight is being waged between those demanding decreased taxicab fares and the taxicab operators insisting lower fares would prevent their earning a livelihood. According to the campaigners for decreased fares, tens of thousands of Londoners refuse to use taxis simply because the fares and charges are exorbitant and thousands of taxicabs are empty simply because owners stupidly refuse to decrease the charges.

It is estimated by The Daily Express, which is leading the campaign against high fares, that nearly $50,000 worth of gasoline is wasted daily by taxis searching vainly for passengers. Thousands of idle cabs, The Express declares furthermore, contribute toward paralyzation of traffic in the main London thoroughfares, as drivers of empty taxis go slowly in hopes of attracting passengers, thus hampering the speed of other vehicles.

The examples of New York and Paris are cited as proof of the soundness of the arguments of those advocating lower fares. In those cities, it is stated, reduction of fares promptly brought increased profits to taxicab operators. It is claimed that of each 100 miles traveled by each of London's 8,000 taxis 60 are passengerless. The Daily Express reporter stationed at London's busiest traffic centres counted occupied and empty taxis passing within a given time and found that the average of empty ones ran as high as 50 per cent.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—A red hot political conflict between United States Senators Dineen and McKinley on the one hand and General Lincoln Andrews, Federal prohibition chief, came to light today when the Rev. E. E. Ewing was reappointed as Acting Administrator for the Illinois District, which includes Chicago.

The Dineen-McKinley-Andrews controversy arose when General Andrews, without consulting the Illinois Senators, decided to appoint a "high-class business man." This man is understood to be making $50,000 a year in a commercial position.

In other States the Senators receive an opportunity to pass upon the fitness of the prohibition administrators assigned to their districts. Senators Dineen and McKinley got into quick action when they learned of Mr. Andrews's intentions, and wanted to know why they should not get the Senatorial courtesy which was extended to their colleagues.

They promptly registered their protest with Mr. Andrews and with Secretary Mellon. They are also said to have carried their opposition to the $50,000-a-year man up to President Coolidge.

MERRICK LIKES NEW POST.

Head of New Upper State District Expects to Double Staff.

R. Q. Merrick, who has been head of the entire New York prohibition district for two years and a half, will have charge of the new upper New York district, comprising forty-six of the sixty-two counties in the northern and western part of the State, with headquarters at Buffalo.

Although the appointment is not effective until Sept. 1, when John A. Foster, formerly at Philadelphia, will take charge of the lower district, including New York City, Mr. Merrick will visit his new district next week.

He said he was well pleased with the new assignment, and is familiar with conditions there, because it has been under his jurisdiction. It is a large territory and at present contains forty-eight agents working under four subchiefs at Malone, Syracuse, Albany and Buffalo. Mr. Merrick said he hoped to be able to double the number of employes.

A platinum watch was presented to him yesterday by the employes of his offices. He received it first last March when orders were issued transferring him to Boston, but when the order was rescinded he had to give it back, because under Government rules he could not keep it as long as he was head of the local office. The watch was placed in a safe deposit vault, but was taken out yesterday and again presented to him.

BOY DIES, FOUR HURT IN FIRE; TWO IN JAIL

OLD MAN SAVES CHILDREN

Finds Too Late That One Had Failed to Follow and Had Been Suffocated by Smoke.

A 7-year-old, motherless boy was suffocated and four other persons were injured yesterday in a fire in a three-story tenement house at 1,865 Cropsey Avenue, Brooklyn, which was believed to have been of incendiary origin. Late last night a woman who lived in the house and her 20-year-old daughter were arrested on charges of homicide. The evidence assembled after an all-day investigation, however, caused some of those who conducted it to believe that the fire was started accidently, but the women were held because they gave evasive answers.

The dead boy, one of three boarding with Morris Planthofsky, 69 years old, who lived on the top floor, was Murray Kreiger, son of a baker living at 2,136 Cropsey Avenue. His father had placed him in the house of a stranger because there was no one to care for him while he was away to work. Leo and Morris Rayner, 3 and 5 years old respectively, also boarded with the old man and all were asleep in their beds when the blaze started.

The two women arrested were Mrs. Isabella Francolini, 51 years old and her daughter, Agnes. They were formally charged with homicide on the order of Assistant District Attorney Leo Healy and Fire Marshall Brophy, who questioned them and two younger children, Katherine, 14 years old and Joseph, 9, throughout the day.

Kerosene Can in Hallway.

Mrs. Francolini had given the alarm. The discovery of this fact and the finding of a quart can partly filled with kerosene in the hallway outside the door of her apartment on the ground floor, where the flames had their origin, first prompted the Fire Marshal to question her.

The police took her and her children to the Bath Beach Station for interrogation by the Fire Marshal and the Assistant Prosecutor. The police said that Mrs. Francolini and her two daughters denied knowing anything about the can of kerosene, but that when the young boy was questioned in another room he said that just before the fire started he had seen his mother and his older sister cleaning beds with kerosene from the can.

The kerosene took fire suddenly, the police said the boy told them, and Mrs. Francolini ran out with it. He said he did not remember any other details except that he hurried out when the flames started spreading. Despite the admission of the boy, Mrs. Francolini and her older daughter continued to deny any knowledge of the kerosene can, the police said. The older daughter was exonerated of any connection with the case.

It was believed probable that when the kerosene caught fire Mrs. Francolini tried to run to the street with it, but that it became too hot and she dropped it in the hallway.

Dense Smoke Fills Hall.

When Planthofsky, with whom the boys were boarding on the top floor, smelled smoke, he opened the door of the apartment leading into the hallway. He was driven back by the dense clouds that poured in from the burning halls.

He caught up the two smaller children and, calling to young Krieger to follow him, made for a rear fire escape. He was assisted to the ground, and then discovered that his third ward was not with him.

Fireman Charles Duggett of Hook and Ladder Company 104 climbed the fire escape and groped his way through the Planthofsky apartment to the bedroom, where he found the lad unconscious on the bed. He carried the boy out and Dr. Rosen of the Coney Island Hospital tried vainly to revive him.

Those who suffered injuries were Mrs. Minnie Plantofsky, wife of the aged man, and Solomon Morris, who also lived with them. Morris helped Mrs. Plantofsky to the roof and kicked in a skylight, thus letting much smoke out of the house. He then assisted the woman down a fire escape, but both were cut and bruised.

Fireman John Farrell of Engine Company 284, at Seventy-ninth Street and Twelfth Avenue, was treated by an ambulance surgeon for cuts and bruises, suffered while assisting tenants out of the place. He remained on duty.

Pushes Children Through Window.

Mrs. Anna Quirk, who lived on the first floor with her three children—Clara, 6 years; Gerard, 3 years, and Alice 4 years—broke the glass of a front window and pushed the children out onto the lawn. They were uninjured, but the mother was cut by the broken glass.

Battalion Chief Daniel J. Cavanaugh directed the work of the firemen, and police reserves under Inspector Byron Sackett and Acting Captain John Keyes of the Bath Beach Station regulated the large crowd that was attracted by the fire.

CHILD PERISHES IN FIRE.

Three-year-old Warren Donnelly, whose parents live at 335 West Fifteenth Street, Manhattan, was burned to death early yesterday when the bungalow his family had rented for the Summer at 293 Oceanside Avenue, Rockaway Point, Queens, was destroyed by fire.

Mrs. Abbie Cahill, grandmother of the lad, who was alone with him at the time, tried in vain to put out the flames, which started when a kerosene lamp overturned at 6 o'clock in the morning. She was severely burned on the arms and back. She is 65 years old and a resident of Rockaway Point.

BOYS' 'PIRATE LAIR' RAIDED.

Five Arrested Charged With Looting Bathers' Automobiles.

A "pirate liar" used as a rendezvous by five boys ranging in age from thirteen to fifteen, was discovered yesterday following their arrests on charges of having looted the automobiles of bathers at Booster's Beach in Whitestone, Queens. The prisoners were Stanley Konosky, 14 years old, of 142 Colden Avenue; Frederick Dugan, 13, of 10 West Bradford Avenue; Harold Carlson, 15, of 68 Burling Avenue; Frank Napoli, 15, of 180 Smart Avenue, and William Delaney, 15, of 180 Smart Avenue, all of Flushing.

Detectives said they found under Carlson's front porch a large cave in which were a rusty musket and an equally weather-beaten sabre, both apparently of Cival War vintage, which they declared had been stolen some time ago from a private home in Flushing. The cave was accessible only by a "secret" entrance known to the members of the band.

The boys were arraigned later in the Children's Court in Jamaica, and were remanded to the Children's Society in Brooklyn for one week each on charges of juvenile delinquency.

GAS COMPANY BUYS ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Consolidated Will Tear Down Historic Playhouse and Build an Addition to Its Property.

ABOUT $7,000,000 INVOLVED

The Academy of Music, on the east corner of Fourteenth Street and Irving Place, one of the most famous theatres in New York City, was finally sold yesterday by the Gilmore and Tompkins estates through Joseph P. Day to the Consolidated Gas Company.

Just what price the gas company paid for the property could not be learned yesterday, but approximately one-half of the sum will go eventually to the Perkins Blind Asylum of Boston as the beneficiary in the will of one of the former owners.

At the time of the recent publication of the news that the famous old theatre was to come down it was understood that the Consolidated Gas Company already controlled the property and had it under a lease to the moving picture corporation, which would not be renewed.

Mr. Day, in announcing the closing of the transaction, said that his negotiations with the Gilmore and Tompkins estates had been carried on for a period of more than a year and half. The Consolidated Gas owns the adjoining corner at Fifteenth Street and Irving Place, on which stands its present main office.

It is understood that the old Academy of Music will be demolished and an addition to the Consolidated Gas Company building erected. The purchase of the Academy site together with the construction of the proposed new building will involve about $7,000,000 and is one of the largest and most important transactions in the Fourteenth Street neighborhood closed in several years.

The Academy of Music, until the construction of the Metropolitan Opera House in 1883, was the centre of Italian, English and German opera and of fashion in New York. The Academy, on a plot 122.8 feet on Irving Place and 204 feet on Fourteenth Street, was erected in 1854 at a cost of $335,000. It adjoins Tammany Hall on Fourteenth Street and is close to old Steinway Hall, on Fourteenth Street, which was built by the late William Steinway, in 1872.

Coupled with the announcement that the old Academy of Music is to be torn down, William Fox, who now runs that theatre, issued a statement yesterday in which it was set forth that a new Academy of Music would be opened on March 1, 1926, the date on which the famous old theatre is to be closed. This new structure, which is well on its way toward completion, is situated on the ground occupied for years by the old Dewey Theatre, in Fourteenth Street, between Fourth and Third Avenues. It will run through the block to Thirteenth Street. It is said that it will cost more than $1,000,000 and will seat 4,000 persons. Motion pictures will be the chief attraction.

ELMAN PAYS $50,000 FOR A STRADIVARIUS

Buys Violin That Belonged to Mme. Recamier, Who Was Exiled From Paris by Napoleon.

PARIS, Aug. 21 (AP).—Mischa Elman, the violinist, has bought a Stradivarius which he says will be the finest in the United States and is equaled only by a few in Europe. It cost him $50,000, and he claims that he knows its history from the time it was manufactured in the year 1717.

According to Elman, it belonged to the collection of Mme. Récamier, a celebrated French leader of society who was exiled from Paris by Napoleon. In 1804 she is said to have sold it to Marshal Count Molitor, who distinguished himself in the Napoleonic wars. It remained in the Marshal's family until it passed to the dealer who sold it to Elman. It was Elman's third Stradivarius, and he says he will use it in his forthcoming concerts.

Negro Who Sought Funds Here Last Year Wins Production.

Garland Anderson, the negro bell boy who came here from San Francisco last year to raise money for the production of a play of his own authorship, will visit New York again, and it is said that this time his play will be produced in a Broadway theatre. Anderson originally came East at the invitation of Al Jolson, and was accordingly the subject of considerable attention. Subsequently he gave public readings of his play, and took up collections with which to assist in defraying production expenses.

It is now announced that Anderson has obtained backing in California and that he is now en route to New York by automobile. The announcement further says that he is stopping off in various cities and "holding receptions." His play, which is entitled "Appearances," will be staged here under the management of Lester W. Sagar, with John Hayden as director. The play has a negro bell boy as its hero.

Loew Buys Theatre in Reading, Pa.

READING, Pa., Aug. 21.—Following the sale last night of the Colonial Theatre, one of the largest picture houses here, to Marcus Loew of New York and associates, for a price said to be about $600,000, reports were current today of more theatre sales and changes. Paramount interests were reported to be after other theatres or sites. The Colonial Theatre, a Paramount house, will be a Metro-Goldwyn theatre, under the new owners, after Sept. 1. Carr & Schad, Inc., who sold the Colonial, operated it on a twenty-year lease of the site, having twelve years more to run. They will continue operation of six other theatres here and two in Lebanon.

Presence of mind and knowledge of her job on the part of a Jersey City telephone operator, coupled with prompt action on the part of the police early yesterday morning prevented the looting of the Kiddie Shop, 291 Jackson Avenue, Jersey City, and nearly resulted in the arrest of three men who attempted to rob the place.

Miss Rose Hulbig of 155 Virginia Avenue was at her post at the Bergen exchange switchboard, where hundreds of glass disks on the board in front of her were dark. Suddenly a light flashed in number 3334. She knew that was the number of the Kiddie Shop and she knew also that at that hour no one had any legitimate business in the shop. The light showed only for an instant. It had probably been caused by one of the robbers tripping over a telephone wire and knocking the receiver from the hook. He evidently replaced the receiver and the light died out. But Miss Hulbig knew something was amiss. She called the number and there was no reply. Then she told Miss Catherine McCarthy, the chief operator. Miss McCarthy telephoned to police headquarters. Quick action followed.

Frank Gross, telephone operator at police headquarters, flashed out an alarm to the fourth, fifth and seventh precincts, and reserves were sent to the store. At the same time Acting Captain Walter Gieciuch and Detectives Norton, Grabler, De Marco and Nagle hurried over in a department automobile.

They arrived in time to see three men running from the store. One lost his cap. The thieves left behind them a Ford automobile, and the owner is being traced.

It was discovered that the marauders had forced a rear door and had been able to gather only about $20 worth of goods before they were frightened away.

STATE VAMPS GIVE PROGRAM IN RAIN

CONVENTION ENDS TODAY

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Undiscouraged by a steady downpour of rain today, 5,000 volunteer firemen attending the annual convention of the State organization here this week continued with their program, which included special fire drills on Mamaroneck Avenue and games on the village square.

Volunteers from Nassau County, L. I., won all but one prize in the series of contests. Departments from many parts of the State were represented, but it was conceded beforehand that the Long Island entries, with specially constructed apparatus, would provide the keenest competition for the numerous cups offered as prizes.

Each event was judged on a basis of speed in bringing the apparatus from a fixed starting point and into action against an imaginary fire. Hand-drawn and motor apparatus carrying ladders, hose and chemicals participated in the tournament. The results of which were as follows:

Class A—Hook and ladder apparatus carrying 150 feet of ladders—First, Alert of Great Neck; second, Protection of Roosevelt; third, Brush Rabbit, also of Roosevelt; fourth, Baldwin.

Class B—Hook and ladder apparatus (speed wagons)—First, Protection of Roosevelt; Second, Merrick No. 1; third, Merrick No. 2; fourth, Amityville.

Motor hose companies carrying six 50-foot lengths of hose—First, Amityville; second, Glen Cove; third, Inwood; fourth, Baldwin.

Tomorrow there will be ball games, and the prizes will be awarded. The most popular fireman will get an automobile.

ETHEL BARRYMORE TO ACT IN LONDON

Wm. Foss, Who Sponsored John's "Hamlet," to Present Her in an American Play.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Encouraged by the notable revival of "Hamlet" last Spring by John Barrymore, William Foss, a young English impresario, announced today that he was negotiating for the appearance at a West End theatre of Miss Ethel Barrymore in an American play wherein she played with great success in New York.

Foss, responsible for John Barrymore's production, believes that the appearance of another member of the famous stage family would prove even a greater attraction. He has taken an option on the Lyric Theatre with the idea of opening early in October, but final arrangements with Miss Barrymore remain to be completed.

Goldman Plays Wagner and Liszt.

A fine night always bring out a large audience to hear the Goldman Band at the Campus of New York University. Last night Mr. Goldman gave them two of their favorite composers in a Wagner-Liszt program. The quality was further enhanced by Grieg's "Peer Gynt" suite and numbers by Rossini and Tchaikowsky. The applause on these occasions is always great and Mr. Goldman and his band are always ready to oblige with the encore, usually one of his own popular marches. The last Goldman concert this season will take place Sunday evening, when Mr. Goldman will say farewell until next Summer in a specially prepared program.

May Peterson Back From Europe.

May Peterson, American soprano, formerly of the Opéra Comique, Paris, returned yesterday on the Stavangerfjord of the Norwegian America Line from a tour through the Scandinavian countries with her mother. She will commence her concert season in Bowling Green, Ohio, on Oct. 4 and sing in the principal cities through to the Pacific Coast before coming to New York. Her tour will be under the management of Haensel & Jones.

Mrs. Leslie Carter in New Role.

Mrs. Leslie Carter will return to the New York stage this season as the star of a play written by John Colton, one of the authors of "Rain." The new play, which is entitled "The Shanghai Gesture," will be produced by A. H. Woods. Mrs. Carter has not acted here since the production of "The Circle," several seasons ago.

The Durrell String Quartet will give a concert of chamber music at Mariarden, Peterborough, N. H., next Tuesday afternoon. The assisting artist will be Mary Brooks Whittemore, mezzo-soprano. The members of the quartet are Beatrice Griffin, Anna Golden, Mildren Ridley and Josephine Durrell.

LADS' TOUR TO WEST IS NIPPED AT DOOR

THREE DAYS' ROVING ENDS

Hollywood and its movie studios are 3,000 miles from New York's east side, but the possession of $11 in cash and a million dollars' worth of ambition started two 13-year-old boys on their way there last Monday. They got as far as Newark in their travels, but when they retraced their steps to obtain clothes they had hidden in preparation for the great adventure their plans went astray.

They were caught Thursday, and their parents, though overjoyed at the return of the boys, showed belief in the saying "Spare the rod and spoil the child." The children were not spoiled.

On Monday afternoon Joseph Scuderi and Leonard Parenti, both of 118 Madison Street, were care-free adventurers. Today they are just two sadder, wiser, poorer and sorer boys.

Both have worked during this vacation, and Monday was their pay day. The total of both envelopes was $11, and with the money in hand the trip to California was on. They decided it should be a leisurely one, taking in such wonders of America as might be seen on the way. The first afternoon was spent at Coney Island, and the night on a bench near the zoo at Prospect Park, Brooklyn.

Tuesday was given over to an inspection of Newark, and there the explorers found attractive moving picture theatres, good eating places and happiness. Back to Prospect Park they went on Tuesday night. Then they decided to get their clothing at midnight and settle down to a little serious traveling. They overslept, and so they spent Wednesday also in the park. Shortly before Wednesday midnight they started for their homes.

Unfortunately for them, the heat of the night had brought Mrs. Parenti, mother of young Joseph, out on the steps of her home. She heard a patter of steps from the basement, and then the two boys, for whom the Missing Persons Bureau of Police Headquarters had instituted a search, tiptoed out with their bundles of clothes under their arms.

Mrs. Parenti seized the lads by their coat collars and called for Mrs. Scuderi. The journey was done.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Morris Gest, on arriving from Salzburg today, announced the engagement of Iris Tree, daughter of the late Sir Herbert Tree, to play the rôle of the nun in the American performances of "The Miracle." This will be the first appearance on the stage of the daughter of the famous English actor. She will make her début either in Cincinnati or St. Louis.

Miss Tree is of striking beauty, and at Salzburg, where Gest was attending the performances of "The Miracle," she so impressed both him and Max Reinhardt with her possibilities that Gest did not hesitate to engage her.

Gest sails for America Sept. 9. His present visit to Europe, he declared today, has convinced him that from an artistic point of view the theatre in America is substantially ahead of the Continental theatre.

"Atmospherically, Europe, of course, has the advantage of us," said Gest. "Europe offers a theatre background to draw from which we cannot equal, but the theatre, nevertheless, is completely commercialized. The whole aim is to produce only that which will pay, whereas in America today there is not a theatrical manager who is not genuinely and vigorously interested in increasing the artistic value of his product."

PLAY "NORTHERN LIGHTS."

Allan Lincoln Langley's Concert Waltz Applauded at Stadium.

The feature of the program that the Philharmonic Orchestra, under Willem van Hoogstraten, presented at the Stadium last evening was not the chilly weather, which made overcoats comfortable; not Richard Strauss's noble tone poem, "Thus Spake Zarathustra," for which Mr. van Hoogstraten took four recalls; not an intoxicating reading of Debussy's "Fêtes," but the discovery of an American waltz king in the person of Allan Lincoln Langley, whose concert waltz, "Northern Lights," Opus 44, played here for the first time, earned him two recalls and a well-deserved success.

Mr. Langley has written forty-four waltzes. This one is the last, and a most tuneful and delightful waltz it is. The chassis is borrowed from Johann Strauss, but the upper structure, the instrumental works, the original melodies, are all Mr. Langley's own. The audience would gladly have heard it a second time, so infectious and rhythmical they found it, but Mr. van Hoogstraten gave them one of those lively Irish tunes instead.

The orchestra, conducted by him, will be heard in a fine program this evening, which will include Beethoven's Sixth Symphony.

Chaplin's Mother Seeks to Remain.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP).—Arrangements were completed today by the Immigration Bureau of the Labor Department to present to Secretary Davis for final action, on his return from Europe Aug. 26, the application of Mrs. Hannah Chaplin, 60 years old, mother of Charles Chaplin, the film actor, for an extension of her temporary leave to remain in this country. Mrs. Chaplin was admitted several years ago from England to receive treatment for a mental disorder.

SYNDICATE SELLS STINNES'S PAPER

3 MILLION MARKS PAID

Salinger and Weber Named as Purchasers—Price Low, but Family Signed Away Control.

BERLIN, Aug. 21 (AP).—The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, which was controlled by the late Hugo Stinnes, has been sold by the banking syndicate which is liquidating the affairs of the Stinnes family to Walter Salinger, a well known operator in print paper, and Dr. August Weber, who has political affiliations, for 3,000,000 marks. The names of the buyers and the price were announced by the bankers tonight.

The general belief is that Dr. Weber and Herr Salinger are acting in behalf of the Prussian Government, which desires the Stinnes plant for a public printing office. It is said to be the intention of the Government to continue the newspaper as a non-political organ.

The purchase price is said to represent about one-third of the physical valuation of the entire property, including real estate, with the paper's good-will and profitable official printing contracts thrown in for good measure.

As the Stinnes family has given the banking syndicate full power of attorney it was unable to protest the sale of the newspaper for only a nominal sum in spite of the announcement made by the Stinnes family two months ago that the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung would not be sold because it constituted a heritage which the family was bound to conserve in memory of its late owner.

It now transpires that the family apparently was not consulted when the question of converting the property into ready cash became acute and was forced to look on as it went the way of other Stinnes properties since the banking syndicate enforced its rigorous liquidating measures.

Editors Were Kept in the Dark.

Throughout this liquidating process the editorial forces of the Stinnes journal have been wholly in the dark regarding developments, and it was one of the ironies of the situation that important news affecting the Stinnes family came to its own newspaper organ through outside sources and that the paper was even obliged to suffer the ignominy of being "scooped" by its competitors on Stinnes news.

The late Hugo Stinnes acquired the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung five years ago when it was an inocuous government organ without political or business prestige. He immediately proceeded to lavish money on its conversion into a modern daily, and told its editors that they would have untrammeled control of its policies. He warned them, however, to be sure that they were right before attacking him in his economic policies.

Late Owner Was Rarely Quoted.

The late financier was rarely quoted in the columns of his own organ, and only when an economic issue of national significance was under discussion could discerning readers discover an editorial in the columns of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, which had been inspired by Herr Stinnes.

As both the Prussian and the Reich Governments have been desirous for a long time of having official organs at their disposal, it is assumed in some quarters that the Prussian Government is acquiring the Stinnes newspaper for the purpose of fortifying the present Socialist-Centrist-Democratic régime in office.

If the purchase money came from the official Prussian Exchequer it is predicted that the Braun-Severing Cabinet will be confronted with violent opposition from the Nationalist parties, as the manoeuvre apparently foreshadows the determination of the present minority Cabinet to reinforce its tenure of office.

FRANKFORT, Germany, Aug. 21.—The South German edition of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung of Berlin, which the late Hugo Stinnes founded here eighteen months ago, will cease publication Sept. 1. The edition was established for the purpose of serving the Stinnes interests in this part of Germany, and with the sale of the parent organ in Berlin and the liquidation of the various holdings of the Stinnes family, it has now become superfluous.

MARY MOORE WELL, HOPES TO ACT AGAIN

Actress Whose Broken Neck Was Cured by Lorenz Treatment Here on the Berengaria.

A living example of healing skill, coupled with the determination to get well, Mary Moore, who attained prominence as leading woman with Lou Tellegen in "Don Juan" and who broke her neck three and a half years ago, returned from Europe on the Berengaria yesterday.

Just as Miss Moore was about to commence rehearsals with William Faversham in "Silver Fox," she suffered a fracture of three vertebrae, several bines in her skull and innumerable other injuries in an automobile accident. For three months she lay unconscious in the Broad Street hospital and her chances of recovery were thought to be less than one in a million.

Yesterday she sat in a chair on the deck of the liner until the rush of disembarking passengers had subsided and then walked ashore, took a cab and drove to the home of her father, "Dinty" Moore, the restaurateur, at 216 West Forty-sixth Street.

Dr. Adolph Lorenz, the famous Viennese surgeon, took a deep interest in her case and outlined a course of treatment for her. Since the accident she has remained in seclusion and for the past year has lived quietly in Europe, resting. She said yesterday that she attended the theatre almost every night and was filled with a desire to take her place on the stage once more. She had hoped to return to her profession this season but found her strength insufficient for the work. She hopes, however, to be able to appear next season.

Ada May Weeks, musical comedy actress, returned yesterday on the Berengaria from Paris with her husband, Colonel Wilson Potter, of Philadelphia. She will appear this season under the management of Henry W. Savage, Inc.

Miss Zella Russell, wife of Harry K. Morton, the comedian of "The Love Song," returned yesterday with her husband on the Berengaria. According to the cabled reports, she attracted attention on the beach at Deauville, France, this Summer by wearing a black velvet bathing costume. The crowd was so great that the young American woman had to be rescued by the police.

King's Cup Again Won by Harold S. Vanderbilt's Schooner Vagrant

SOON GOES INTO THE LEAD

MISTRAL TAKES 2 TROPHIES

By SEABURY LAWRENCE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—Vagrant, the schooner yacht owned by former Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt, won the King's Cup today in a thirty-mile race sailed in northeast weather on the ocean course off Brenton's Reef. This is the second time that the Vanderbilt schooner has captured the King's Cup, which is the blue ribbon trophy of American yacht racing, her first victory in this race being scored in 1922.

The King's Cup is a perpetual trophy donated by King George V to be sailed for annually, the name of the winning yacht and her owner being inscribed on the cup and a suitable trophy being given to the winner by the New York Yacht Club. Last year's winner was Paul L. Hammond's fifty-footer Iroquois II.

Yesterday Vagrant won the Astor Cup for schooners and today established a record by capturing the King's Cup. This is the first time that a yacht has repeated a triumph such as this, but with fresh winds blowing, as they have during the past two days, Vagrant, which can stagger along under a cloud of sail, is a very hard boat to beat.

Leads Practically All the Way.

Vagrant led practically over the entire course, which was a triangular one of thirty miles, in today's contest. There were five schooners and one sloop in the race for the King's Cup and the contest was sailed under gray skies and with cold rain showers falling at intervals on the rolling sea. Besides the race for the King's Cup, two other trophies were offered for vessels too small to be eligible for the blue ribbon event, which is restricted to schooners of not less than sixty feet water line and sloops of not less than fifty feet water line.

The other trophies raced for were the James E. Hayes Cup for the forty-footers and the Niagara IV prize for all yachts down to thirty feet water line. Mistral, owned by W. B. Bell and cleverly sailed by Corny Shields, won both of these trophies, sailing against Cockatoo, Sally Ann and Pampero. Mistral defeated Cockatoo, the second forty to finish, by almost four minutes over the thirty-mile course.

The gray Nourmahal was almost invisible at times on the gray sea-swell as she set the course signals at 11:20 o'clock off the Brenton's Reef light vessel. Many of the smaller schooners did not start, their owners very logically figuring that they had no chance in the race, so that the King's Cup field was small but select. The course laid out by the committee gave the yachts a reach southeast-by-east, one-half east, to a mark ten miles from the starting line, then a beat into the northeast breeze of ten miles, and then a broad reach of ten miles to the finish line.

Advance Over Line First.

The signal for the King's Cup start was made at 11:40, and Vice Commodore Lawrence's Advance was the first over, but just a second or two ahead of Vagrant, with Flying Cloud lapped. Then came Irolita and Wildfire, with the sloop Barbara the last to cross. In a reaching breeze, with her great spread of canvas, Vagrant quickly drew clear and stood seaward, with booms to starboard, at a fast pace, Advance vainly trying to keep close to the Vanderbilt schooner.

Flying Cloud also sailed fast on the reach and at the first mark was the second boat, Vagrant jibing around the buoy about four minutes ahead of the Aldrich schooner. Irolita was third at this mark, with Advance fourth, Wildfire and Barbara following. After rounding the first mark all the yachts flattened sheets for the long beat of ten miles in the drizzling rain to the weather mark. Once on the wind Advance began to pull upon the others and was soon in second position.

Vagrant, however, was footing fast in the fresh northeaster and had a good margin on Advance at the weather mark, with Flying Cloud two minutes astern of the Lawrence schooner, followed by Irolita, Wildfire and Barbara. In the sloop class Mistral jumped into the lead from the start and held the others safe.

Vagrant Outfoots Advance

Once around the weather mark all slackened sheets for the broad reach to the finish through the rain and mist. Fast time was made on this leg, as the sea was smoother under the shore. Advance hung on to Vagrant gamely, but the Vanderbilt two-master, when running off the wind, was too fast for the Boston schooner, which carries the new staysail rig on her foremast. This seems to be an advantage in long windward beats, but off the wind is not so good.

Vagrant finished at 3:16:30, having more than twelve minutes on Advance at the end of the thirty-mile race. As the Vanderbilt yacht had to allow Advance more than eleven minutes over the course, Vagrant actually won the race by 1 minute 4 seconds corrected time. Flying Cloud, driven hard during the race, was the third to finish, at 3:30:06, with Wildfire fourth, in a close finish with Irolita, leading the Clark schooner over the finish line by one second. Barbara was a distant fifth.

The flying Mistral was not to be caught by the other forties in the race for the sloop trophies and finished nearly four minutes ahead of Amory Coolidge's Cockatoo, the second to cross the finish line, with Sally Ann third and Pampero fourth.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—The Race Committee of the New York Yacht Club announced here today that the H. Wilmer Hanan fifty-footer Spartan, winner of the Astor Cup for sloops yesterday, had been disqualified, and Barbara, the property of I. B. Merriman, had been named the winner. Barbara's owner stated that Spartan had failed to carry a boat, a violation of the rules, and Captain Hanan told the committee today that such was the case and asked that his craft be disqualified. The Astor Cup thus goes to Barbara.

JUDGE BADLY HURT AS SENATORS LOSE

Hit by Pitched Ball and May Have Fractured Skull—Tigers Win in Eleventh, 1-0.

DETROIT, Aug. 21 (AP).—Wingo's triple off Coveleskie in the eleventh, followed by three successive bases on balls by Marberry, who relieved him, gave Detroit a 1 to 0 victory over Washington today in the series opener. Aside from a double by Bassler, the triple was the only worth-while hit Detroit got off the veteran Senator.

Joe Judge, first baseman for Washington, was hit in the head by a pitched ball in the second inning. He was taken to a hospital, where it was said tonight he was conscious and resting easily. An X-ray was made but doctors said it would be impossible to determine whether Judge's skull was fractured until tomorrow.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

The Robins were washed into a stormy sea of double-headers by the rain that fell yesterday. As it was the Brooklyn birds faced the unhappy outlook of meeting the Cubs six times in four days, but when yesterday's contest was drowned out it became necessary to add another twin bill to the program, and now the Robins and the Cubs will meet at Ebbets Field twice today, twice tomorrow and twice more on Monday.

This is the last visit of the Cubs to Ebbets Field this season and there isn't another possible date available for them to play off their scheduled games.

With the pitching staff fairly well incapacitated and ineffective anyway, Manager Robbie spent a good hour yesterday trying to figure out a way to have enough pitchers to go around in the next three days. Lefty Brown and Tiny Osborne probably will start the two battles this afternoon, with Vance and Ehrhardt working tomorrow and Grimes and Jess Petty on tap for Monday's encounters. That leaves Joe Oeschger, Wilbur Hubbell and Canonball Buy Cantrell ready for relief duty, and if the staff doesn't go any better than it has lately plenty of relief will be needed. The Robins' pitching staff isn't the thing of beauty and joy forever that it once was. As the adman says, "four out of five now lose."

Petty is certain to work in at least one game of the series with the Cubs, and it will be his first performance in many weeks, as he has been out of the game with tonsillitis since the last days of July.

However, with all his troubles, Robbie is expecting to climb back into the first division during the coming clashes with the Chicago club. The Robins have won eight and lost five games to the Cubs this season, and the invaders' pitching staff is no better off than the flingers from Flatbush. There's some consolation in that.

GIANTS AND PIRATES BEGIN SERIES TODAY

DELAY ADDS TO INTEREST

Tickets for Yesterday's Games May Be Exchanged for Unsold Seats Today or Tomorrow.

By HARRY CROSS.

The Giants' opportunity to match baseball skill with the Pittsburgh Pirates was rudely interrupted by the rain yesterday. The double-header was called off and the fans of Gotham were thrown into a state of disorder. James J. Tierney, secretary of the Giants, was very much disturbed. He announced that two games would be played today at the Polo Grounds, two games tomorrow and one game on Monday. The gates open today at 11:45.

The fans who had reserved seats for yesterday's games may exchange them for today's or tomorrow's double bill, and if there are no unsold seats to be exchanged, their money will be refunded, or they may obtain reserved seats for Monday.

It is evident that there are a limited number of reserved seats available for the double-header tomorrow from the announcement by the Giants' offices that the downtown office of the club, at 104 West Forty-second Street, would be open until 5 o'clock this afternoon.

There was no sign of regret over yesterday's postponement on the part of the Pirate club, because it gave them an extra day to rest their pitchers and also another day for Max Carey and Eddie Moore to advance nearer the margin of recovery.

So far as Manager John McGraw and his Giants are concerned, they are willing to play the Pirates in any kind of weather. They are unafraid, even if the Pirates are three games in the lead. The attitude of the Giants is that they want to be up and at them.

The postponement only intensified the interest in this all-important series between the two pennant contenders. For the past four years Pittsburgh has been barking at the heels of the Giants. On two occasions they threatened them seriously. In 1921 the Corsairs had the pennant in their grasp and they came here and blew like a whale.

As the fans will well remember, the Buccaneers came here last season with fire in their eyes and the pennant in sight. They arrived in Harlem and dropped three games.

Mind you, no one is predicting what is going to happen today. Manager McGraw, when asked about the impending series, remarked that he and his players would regard the affair as simply part of the day's work, and so far as he was concerned, he refused to get excited about it.

This series is all-important because it may decide the momentous question about the ambition of the Giants to win their fifth straight pennant. For example, if the Pirates should win three out of five in this series, the Pittsburghers would be four games in front of the Giants, which would be a tremendous handicap for the New York club on its drive during the last month of the season.

On the other hand, the Giants have always measured up well in a crisis. It is when the going is most difficult that New York has been able to show its reserve power. The Giants, under McGraw's driving, have always been dangerous. That is why there is so much interest in this series.

If the Pirates should fall down now, as they have in other years, the Giants will surely take advantage of the situation and come riding through as they have in other years.

Pirates Best on Paper.

As the two clubs stand today, the Pirates have a distinct advantage. Not only are they clubbing the ball better than the Giants, but they are also galloping the bases with far greater speed. Pittsburgh leads the National League in club batting with a mark of .307, which is unusual at this stage of the game. The Giants, in club batting, are in seventh place with a mark of only .284.

The one asset which the Giants have is fighting spirit, and as baseball history shows, this one asset has often beaten their rivals in the past. The Giants will take the Pirates series as it comes, just as so many ball games in its schedule. With the Pittsburgh players there is mental hazard. They will take the field today knowing that they have a decided advantage and yet they cannot help but recall the former years when the Giants rode over them roughshod, blasting all the pennant hopes which were slumbering in their chests.

The Pirates' line-up today is somewhat in doubt. Manager Bill McKechnie didn't know last night whether Carey would be able to take his place in centre or whether Moore would be able to get back at second. Bigbee has been playing the middle field and Johnny Rawlins, well known to New York fans, has been at second. That will probably be the layout. Manager McGraw said last night that his line-up would probably be unchanged, as Travis Jackson is not yet ready to resume duty.

As for pitchers, the Pirates are likely to use Oldham and Aldridge this afternoon and the Giants Scott and Barnes. For Sunday the Pirates have Yde and Morrison, and the Giants Greenfield and Nehf. One day, however, is apt to upset all these plans, and the lads who pitch today will be those who feel keyed up to the fray.

As the situation stands, the Giants are not too optimistic. If the Pirates travel along as they have been going they will have the upper edge, and the likelihood of a fifth pennant for John J. McGraw will not be so bright.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns defeated the Boston Red Sox today, 9 to 7, in the first game of a series. Fuhr was batted often and timely.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Commissioner of baseball, attended.

YANKS MISS CHANCE TO GAIN 6TH PLACE

BUCKEYE DAZZLES HUGMEN

Holds Them to Six Safeties and Only Two Men Reach First After Second Inning.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21.—The Yankees' well-laid plans to fit themselves snugly into sixth place by beating the Indians today were blocked by only one thing. The Indians refused to be beaten. They won a neat 2-1 victory, and that spoiled the party.

In the ninth, with two out and not a soul on the base lines, the Redskins suddenly decided to win the ball game. Without a word of warning, Charley Jamieson slapped a two-bagger to left. Also without confiding in the Yanks, Homer Summa poked a single to centre.

Naturally, Jamieson hastened over the plate, and the big crowd of almost 4,000 persons, not counting the employes, got up and went home. Miller Huggins said, "Oh, pshaw!" and Charley O'Leary exclaimed, "Oh, shoot!" Sad Sam Jones merely looked sadder than ever.

It was too bad. The Yanks had a chance to improve their social status by going into sixth place. They might even have done a little flirting with fifth place. Obviously, it was a crucial game, and our boys would have been wise to grab it, but there is nothing to be done about it now.

Despite the rotund gambolings of Garland Buckeye, the roly-poly southpaw who was once a bank cashier but reformed and became a pitcher, and the batting feats of Messrs. Jamieson and Summa, it was a wooden game. Cleveland is slumbering gently through the pennant race, and quite a lot of the sleeping must have been done at the park this afternoon.

Jamieson-Summa Shine.

The firm of Jamieson and Summa just about threw the Yanks into bankruptcy. With two out in the seventh, Jamieson walked, and stole second because Benny Bengough fumbled too long with the ball. From second Jamieson went dashing for the plate when Summa planted a carefully timed single in right.

This tied the game up, and in the ninth the same pair got busy again. Jamieson had the rare distinction of scoring both runs and Summa enjoyed the rare honor of driving him across each time.

Summa had no business being in the game at all. He is just a substitute and is not supposed to be as good as the other Cleveland players. However, in yesterday's game Tris Speaker had his left elbow attacked and bruised by an infuriated ball, and Summa was sent to centre field, with great qualms on the part of the Cleveland management.

The Yanks scored their only run in the first few minutes, while the announcer was still bellowing. They had a man on third and another on first, with one out, in the second and didn't score, and after that Mr. Buckeye took good care to see that no New Yorker advanced further than first.

Buckeye is the sturdy lad of 240 pounds who left a cashier's cage in Chicago to become a baseball pitcher. He has the same slim, willowy lines that Big Bill Edwards has, and when Garland runs to first base the concussions are those of a five-ton truck.

Yet while all the Yanks were snickering at him, Garland was laughing out of the other corner of his mouth. He knew what he was doing when he left the gilded cage and began life anew throwing curve balls. One more like Buckeye, and the eagle-eyed scouts will be making Wall Street a regular beat.

Buckeye Stops a Liner.

The Yanks tapped Garland for only six hits, and five of them were bunched in the first two innings. After the second only two Yanks reached first—Shanks with a single in the fifth and the same player with a walk in the eighth. The only time Buckeye was in danger was when a line drive by Combs hit him above the heart and on his pitching shoulder in the eighth. A little higher or lower, and there might have been trouble. As it was, only the ball was damaged.

Combs, Shanks and Ruth rattled off singles at the start of the game and Combs scored, although Shanks, trying for third, was nailed. Meusel walked, but the jollification ended when Gehrig forced Ruth and Dugan popped to Hodapp.

WAVERING MACKMEN DROP FIFTH IN ROW

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (AP).—The Chicago White Sox handed the Philadelphia Athletics another jolt in their pennant aspirations today by defeating them 8 to 2 in the first game of the series. It was the fifth successive defeat for the Mackmen, represented by three straight at the hand of the Browns and the last game of the double header against the Red Sox in Boston last Saturday.

Ed Rommel, star of the Philadelphia twirling staff, was wild and ineffective when the White Sox had men on the bases. He gave way to a pinch hitter and Lefty Baumgartner was likewise unable to check the hitting of the Sox.

Groves succeeded Baumgartner and checked the scoring in the eighth. The Athletic defense, apparently working under a strain, contributed three errors, all of which figured in the scoring in the Chicago Club.

Sheely and Mostil led the attack, Sheely having a perfect day at bat with four hits, one of which was a double, and a sacrifice in five trips to the plate. Mostil's hits included a double and a triple.

Faber pitched a pretty game for Chicago and received perfect support, the work of Mostil, Hooper, Davis, Kamm and Sheely being especially noteworthy.

SWEETSER'S 69 TOPS GOLD MASHIE FIELD

Star's Score for First 18 Holes Sets Tailer Course Mark—Ouimet Has a 71.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—With four former national titleholders sprinkled through the ten competitors, the annual gold mashie championship on T. Suffern Tailer's Ocean Links opened in a drizzling rain this afternoon with the first eighteen of the seventy-two-hole medal play competition.

Jess W. Sweetser broke the course record for eighteen holes when he shot a 69, and his closest competitor was Francis Ouimet, another of the former champions, with a 71.

In his first time around Sweetser made the course in 36, or one stroke better than par. On his second round he covered the course in 33, equaling a record that he made last season, and, had he not missed an eighteen-inch putt on the eighth hole he would have broken a second record that he and D. Clark Cockran, winner of the gold mashie last year, now hold.

Max Marston and Jesse Guilford were the next pair to follow in today's rounds. A stroke behind came Dexter Cummings, the Yale title-holder, and Fred Wright, a member of the Walter Cup team for two years, was next in the line with 77. Cockran did not seem to be up to his usual game and took 68 on the eighteenth and the Florida champion, Chris Dunphy, was a stroke behind.

Every one of the players, because of the weather, was inclined to play safe on his first trip about the course. The play of the day as a whole appeared to be better than on the opening days in previous years.

For the second day's play tomorrow Marston will face Sweetser, Cockran will pair with Ouimet, Dunphy pairs with Guilford, Jones with Wright, and Anderson with Cummings.

The competition is particularly keen this year because both Guilford and Corkran have a leg on the mashie, and if either win this year he becomes permanent possessor.

GLENDON TO COACH COLUMBIA OARSMEN

HAS AN ENVIABLE RECORD

Richard J. Glendon Jr. is to coach Columbia's crews. This became known yesterday when Maxwell Stevenson, Chairman of the Columbia Rowing Committee, announced that the former coach at the United States Naval Academy had signed a one-year contract and would begin work at Morningside Heights on Sept. 23.

The appointment was made after considerable correspondence between Stevenson and Glendon, and followed the appearance last Wednesday of Glendon before the Columbia Rowing Committee and several of the alumni actively interested in rowing. The meeting was held in Stevenson's office and was attended, in addition to the Chairman and Glendon, by A. J. Fraser, Charles Sinclair, Morton Bogue and Gale Carter.

In making the announcement Stevenson said that Glendon had made a very favorable impression on the committee and that his coming to Columbia would result in slight changes in the rigging and stroking of the Blue and White boats. He was also very well pleased with the outlook for Columbia on the water this year.

The definite announcement of the signing of a coach to succeed Fred Miller follows closely the announcement that Robert S. Butler, freshman coach at the University of Washington, had been named coach at Annapolis, and together they settle rumors surrounding two of the several coaching positions that have been vacant in the East. There were reports that Rusty Callow, varsity coach at Washington, or Jim Rice, former Columbia coach, and more recently coach at Pennsylvania, would take in hand the rowing situation at Columbia.

Took Father's Place in 1922.

Glendon's record at Annapolis, where he succeeded his father in 1922, has been an enviable one. Although comparatively young, Glendon is old in experience and has scored many notable triumphs, perhaps the greatest being the victory of the Navy crew last year in the Poughkeepsie regatta. In this event the Navy rowed a superb race and defeated the best Eastern and Western eights, including the Washington University crew. In this race Columbia's varsity finished last. In 1923 the Navy finished second to Washington in the Poughkeepsie regatta and in 1924 was not entered.

Columbia's new coach received his knowledge of rowing from his father, who coached many Navy crews for twenty-one years and produced the eight in 1920 that cleaned up everything in sight on this side of the water and then went to the Olympic games at Antwerp, from whence it returned champion of Europe's best.

The Columbia rowing situation reached its lowest level in 1924, when the Blue and White varsity finished last in all of its starts. This was under the tutelage of Fred Miller, an alumnus, who tried desperately to produce a winning Columbia crew and resigned when his efforts failed to bring out an eight that could show its wake to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in their race on the Harlem. Miller's resignation became effective just before the Poughkeepsie regatta, and the Columbia Rowing Committee retained Bill Haines, Mass Tech coach, to look out for the Blue and White eight in that race.

This arrangement was temporary although Haines later received an offer of a permanent berth at Columbia, which he refused. Despite the efforts of Haines the varsity again came in last although the freshman crew managed to take third place in its race.

Failed to Reach Agreement.

Glendon's resignation at the end of the season as coach at the Naval Academy followed a long controversy between him and the authorities at Annapolis. After many statements that differences had been made up and denials that this was so Glendon definitely stated that he was through at Annapolis. It is understood that the main difference was the insistence on the part of the authorities that he give more time to his classes in physical education and the desire on the part of Glendon to get his men out on the water earlier in the afternoon.

Glendon has enjoyed many personal triumphs as he was a star athlete before taking up his coaching duties. At various times he played baseball, football and basketball, was a member of track and swimming teams and was generally an all around athlete. He hails from Boston, Mass. His work as an oarsman, however, has brought him greatest laurels. Developing the knowledge imparted by his father, Glendon has taught one of the soundest strokes seen in America. It is understood that largely due to his own study he has elaborated his father's principles until the present Glendon system is well nigh flawless.

MAC SMITH HAS A 141

Ties With Klein and Shute for Second—Farrell Next With 142—Hagen Has 146, Sarazen 147.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Aug. 21 (AP).—Breaking all records for qualifying rounds, 65 golfers today won their way into the final 36-hole play of the Western open golf championship at the Youngstown Country Club with scores of 151 or better, the maximum score of admission being several strokes lower than ever before known.

In the van of these players was Al Watrous of Grand Rapids, whose fine pair of 70s made him medalist of the qualifiers, but his score of four under par for the double circuit of the 6,577-yard links gave him a lead of only one stroke over three other competitors. Densmore Shute, amateur champion of West Virginia; Macdonald Smith and William Klein of New York scored 141 each to tie for second place.

Individual honors of the day went to Johnny Farrell of New York, whose 68 was the only score to break 70 today. This with his 74 of yesterday put him in third place with 142. Larry Nabholtz of Cleveland, who led the field yesterday with a 67, today required 76 strokes in the high wind, but tied for fourth at 143 with Francis Gallett of Milwaukee and Emmett French of the home club.

Donald Carrick of Toronto, Canadian amateur champion, who tied with French in the first round for second place with 69, had a bad second round and his putter ran up a score of 80. His total of 149 tied him with Eddie Held of St. Louis. These two with S. E. Foster of Jacksonville, Shute and Joe Wells of East Liverpool, who scored 144, were the only amateurs to qualify.

Out ....3 5 3 4 4 3 3 5 5—35
In ....4 3 4 4 4 4 3 3 3—33—68

Carter Fails to Get In

Keefe Carter of Oklahoma City, Western amateur title holder, failed by one stroke to get into the finals. His putter failed him yesterday in spite of a good game through the green giving him 78, and he did no better than 74 today. While the low qualifying scores put a number of good golfers out of the race, there were no startling upsets.

A few who had made fine scores yesterday slipped today. Probably the best known golfer who failed to survive the elimination rounds was Bob MacDonald of Chicago, who scored 79, 75—154.

Bill Mehlhorn of Chicago did not show promising signs of retaining the title, as he was nine strokes behind the leader tonight, with 149. A couple of spectacular rounds tomorrow might put him to the front, however, as the totals for the elimination rounds will count with the two rounds tomorrow in determining the championship.

Walter Hagen, formerly national and British open champion, has a fair chance to win the Western crown for a third time, as his score of 146, while nineteenth in the list, was still only six strokes back of the leader. He got 71 yesterday and was even par on the outward nine today, but he slipped on the homeward trip, taking 39. He might have holed a twelve-foot putt for a two on the eighteenth green if it had not been for the fluttering shadow of a large American flag over the cup.

The flickering of the American colors in the line of his putt caused Hagen to hesitate, but there was no way to lower the Stars and Stripes for the man who lowered the British colors twice and made them dip once, so he putted through the shade of Old Glory—and missed.

Sarazen Gets a 72.

Gene Sarazen, Metropolitan champion, played better today, scoring par 72, but his total of 147 was fairly well up in the list. George Sargent, who won the national open many years ago, showed his old-time skill today by scoring a 74 for a total of 150, which tied him with Bobby Cruickshank of Oklahoma City, who was runner-up to Bobby Jones in the national open three years ago.

The day was none too good for golf. A cold wind swept the course after rain had fallen during the night. The weather did not dampen the ardor of Youngstown golfers, who turned out by hundreds to follow the most famous pairs. With the field reduced to sixty-five, tomorrow, play will be less tedious.

Among the New York golfers who failed to qualify for the 36-hole title play tomorrow were Tom Kerrigan, who had a 156, S. M. Newton and Walter Bourne.

TODD HART TAKES THE CENTURY STAKE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21 (AP).—Todd Hart administered his fourth defeat of the year to Tommy Murphy's Trumpet today when he annexed the Century, $3,000 stake for 2:09 trotters, the feature of the Grand Circuit races at North Randall. It was the second stake victory in a week for the gelding.

Each of the last quarters of the three heats were trotted in 29 seconds or better, the first in 28 3-5 and the second one-fifth of a second faster.

Todd Hart took the first and third heats, but went into a break rounding the first turn in the second. He made up about eight lengths before turning into the stretch and was leading when, thinking he had the heat won, Putnam quit driving and was beaten in the closest finish of the year.

After winning twelve consecutive heats, Norman Grattan, Sep Patin's good pacer, suffered his first defeat of the season today when Miss Czar Moko, making her first start for James P. Berry, Hartford, Conn., won the 2:12 pace. Norman Grattan led all the way in the first heat, which he won from Jean Grattan, pacing the first half in 59 1-5 seconds. Miss Czar Moko won the next two pulled up, equaling the world's record for seven-eighths of a mile in the second.

The three-year-old pace was a straight-heat victory for Bob Seymore. Southward won the 2:16 trot.

MISS GANTT TAKES WOMEN'S CITY TITLE

Playing in her first tournament of note Miss Ariel Gantt of the New York Golf Club won the women's municipal championship yesterday by defeating her more experienced clubmate, Miss Virginia Weltman, 1 up in the final round of the 1925 event at Mosholu Park. The winner piled up a good lead during the early stages of the match when Miss Weltman, champion two years ago, had a spell of poor putting, and it was sufficient to tide her over until she had gained her victory. In addition to the gold medal, Miss Gantt became the first holder of the championship cup presented by the Gun Hill Golf Club.

The match was played under adverse weather conditions, rain falling throughout the round, making the greens and fairways soft and soggy and interfering especially with the putting. During the first half of the match Miss Gantt, who is only a youngster with two or three years' experience, was playing her chip shots well and also putting far better than her opponent, and at the turn she was 3 up. Her game fell off a trifle on the incoming half of the round and Miss Weltman succeeded in getting back all but one hole with two to play. Two halves, however, left Miss Gantt 1 up and gave her the title.

Miss Weltman won the first hole with a 6, Miss Gantt playing it badly and taking an 8. The latter squared the match by winning the second hole, 5 to 6, sinking a putt of fifty feet. She became 1 up by winning the fourth hole, 5 to 6, and then she got 4s at the eighth and ninth to make her 3 up. She also won the tenth, 5 to 6, but at that point she began to waver and Miss Weltman won the twelfth, thirteenth and sixteenth, the first two with 5s and the last with a 4. She made a hard fight to square the match, but Miss Gantt succeeded in getting halves on the last two. Each had medal scores of 96, Miss Gantt going out in 48 to her opponent's 50 and Miss Weltman playing the last nine holes in 46 to Miss Gantt's 48.

The cards:

Out—
Miss Gantt ....8 5 7 5 4 6 5 4 4—48
Miss Weltman ....6 6 7 6 4 6 5 5 5—50
In—
Miss Gantt ....5 5 6 6 6 5 5 5 5—48-96
Miss Weltman ....6 5 5 5 6 5 4 5 5—46-96

In the beaten eight Mrs. Mella McDade of the New York Golf Club defeated Miss Maud Martens of the Olinville Golf Club, 5 and 3, in the final round.

SILVER FOX TAKES THE SALES STAKES

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Silver Fox, the Rancocas Stable's gray three-year-old and winner of two Derbys, earned $3,200 for Harry F. Sinclair this afternoon and brought his total winnings up to about $60,000, when he carried off the Saratoga Sales Stakes over the mile course, running the distance in 1:39. Mark Fator had the leg up and only three ran, carrying level weights of 120 pounds. The son of Grey Fox II and Mary Queen of Scots was the 1 to 3 favorite, winning with the greatest ease.

Rain fell heavily during the early morning hours, but a stiff and raw northeast wind dried off the surface of the course so that it was good, if far from fast, when the first bugle call sounded. Overcoats and furs were very much in evidence and those not thus fortified shivered. Unpleasant conditions, however, did not serve to decimate the ranks of the faithful and grand stand, club house and lawn again were crowded. Only two favorites came home in front.

There was nothing in the running of the Saratoga Sales Stakes to provide a thrill, Silver Fox being so far superior to his meagre opposition. He broke on top and was never extended and galloped home the easiest kind of winner, being a length and a half in front of Frederick Johnson's Quatrain, another Derby winner, he having taken the Louisiana last Winter.

P. F. Joyce's Sun Star colt, Harry Baker, which has been campaigning on the Canadian circuit, was the third starter and was never a factor after the rise of the barrier. Quatrain drew the inside position, with Silver Fox on the outside. There was no delay at the post and they were sent away to a good start.

Silver Fox Takes Lead.

Silver Fox immediately took the lead and opened a length on the turn into the backstretch. On the run down the backstretch he added another half length, although Fator had him under wraps. On the far turn Sande made a move with Quatrain and the latter cut half a length from Silver Fox's lead. But the gray easily drew away again. Harry Baker was outrun throughout and finished ten lengths back.

Silver Fox opened at 1 to 3 and went to 2 to 5 and closed at the opening figure. Quatrain was held at 3 to 1 and Harry Baker closed at 15 to 1. The fractional times were: 0:25, 0:48 4-5, 1:13 1-5, 1:39.

The Senator Kavanaugh Handicap at a mile and a furlong provided a much more interesting contest than did the stake feature. Four ran, with J. B. Smith's King Solomon's Seal, Sande up, the 6-to-5 favorite. Bud Fisher's Man o' War gelding Flagship, La Brea Stable's Sunspero and F. E. Brown's King Jimmy were the other starters.

They ran in pairs in the first part of the journey, Flagship and Sunspero out in front. The latter had up top weight of 126 pounds and handled his impost in first-class shape. Andy Schuttinger sent him into the lead on the stretch turn, but he had a great battle for the money and trophy. In the stretch drive Sande brought up King Solomon's Seal, who closed with a fine rush, but could not quite get up. Sunspero, conceding eleven pounds, beat him by a head. Flagship was four lengths back, while King Jimmy was out of his class. Sunspero was held at 3 to 1 and had a good following.

Sunspero earned $1,145 for his owner and in addition received a cup of the value of $250, presented by State Senator Frederick W. Kavanaugh.

Eight good platers faced the barrier in the chute for the seven-furlong dash of the Altamont Handicap, J. E. Davis's Storm King and F. M. Kelly's Opperman being the equal first choices at 5 to 2. Neither figured in the money, however. The winner was the Rancocas Stable's old Vulcain gelding Thunderclap, with Mark Fator up and in well under 112 pounds.

Storm King to Fore.

Storm King was away with a rush and appeared likely to make a runaway race of it, as he gained a lead of five lengths in the run down the backstretch. He quit in the stretch, however, to finish fifth. Fator hed Thunderclap under wraps to the middle of the turn, where he began to make up ground. He came with a fine rush in the stretch and won in a gallop, two lengths in front of C. H. Thieriot's Prince James, the latter under top weight of 123 pounds. He came from last position, getting up to take the place by half a length from W. A. Ross's King Colin.

Bar Gold, which came to this country two years ago as a traveling companion of Papyrus, and now six years old, led the field to the winning post in the two-mile steeplechase for non-winners of the meeting. He was well ridden by Newton in the silks of the Somerset Stable. Cavendish and Knight of Greename led the procession until the latter lost his rider on the backstretch. Bar Gold was rated off the pace for a mile and three-quarters, then came up to take the lead, and won easily by eight lengths from the Brookmeade Stable's Gravity II. J. H. Lewis's Crest Hill took third.

Post and Paddock

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 21.—It is not often that an American breeder will admit that he got all that his offerings were worth in the sales ring, but the members of the syndicate composing the Laurel Park Stud which sold the English yearlings on Wednesday evening have expressed themselves as being perfectly satisfied with the returns.

The Rancocas Stable, Sam Hildreth and Mark Fator, scored a double when Silver Fox captured the stake and Thunderclap won the opening handicap.

Earle Sande had three mounts and landed one winner. In the last he beat the gate with Joseph E. Widener's two-year-old filly Ruthenia about a length and he earned the money by the nod of her nose.

There were twenty-nine entries in the Glens Falls Purse for tomorrow and the race has been split, making a seven race card for the half holiday.

Entry blanks were distributed here today for the Pimlico Futurity of 1928. Entries will close with the Maryland Jockey Club on Monday, Nov. 9.

L. Newton, who rode Bar Gold to win the steeplechase, was suspended by the stewards for the rest of the meeting for reckless riding.

James Butler lost his Vulcain colt Tempest out of the third race. He was claimed by G. E. Phillips for $3,300.

Among the visitors in the clubhouse this afternoon was Frank Hitchcock, one of the stewards of the Jockey Club, who has been on a fishing trip to Quebec. He has some good horses racing here and in France.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The twelfth and final night of the yearling sales in the paddock of the Fasig-Tipton Company developed one of the most remarkable dispersals in the history of blood stock breeding in the United States. The offerings tonight were confined to the Himyar Stud of Philip T. Chinn of Lexington, Ky., and fifty-three head came under the hammer for the unprecedented total of $351,200. The average was $6,645, the greatest in the annals of American sales and surpassed that of the night of Aug. 10, on which Admiral Grayson's filly was sold for $50,500.

Top price of the evening was $25,000, which Dr. McCully bid for a brown colt by John P. Grier out of Recline, this being a half brother to The Belzoni and Bench Manager.

The Log Cabin Stable was next to the top, paying $15,600 for a bay colt by Imp. Sweeper out of Turban. The Glen Riddle Farm of Samuel D. Riddle was next with a bid of $15,500 for a chestnut colt by Imp. North Star II out of Early Morning.

The bid of $8,600 from the Shoshone Stable bought a bay colt by Peter Pan out of La Montague. A bay colt by The Finn out of Joan of Arc II was purchased by the Rancocas Stable for $8,100.

J. B. McDaniel paid $7,500 for a bay colt by High Time—Lady of Quality, which is a brother of McCullough. To the bid of Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt of $7,100 fell a bay colt by Imp. Polymelian, out of Joan of Arc.

Marshall Field paid $7,000 for a bay colt by High Time, out of Imp. Harvest Moon II, and bid the same amount for a brown colt by Imp. Light Brigade, out of Cynthia.

The Rancocas Stable came into the market again, buying a bay colt by Wildair, out of Myonnis, for $13,700. Frederick Burton went to $12,400 for a chestnut colt by Imp. Polymelian, out of Dustpan II., this being a brother to the stake winner Elvina.

A black colt by the same sire, out of Disturbance, went to the bid of the Shoshone Stable of William R. Coe for $12,000. For a bay or brown colt by Sweep, out of Imp. Lady Winsome, Gifford A. Cochran paid $10,000. The same amount was paid by L. T. Cooper for a bay colt by Sweep, out of Imp. Sournaise.

Marshall Field came back into the active bidding and paid $9,500 for a chestnut colt by Imp. Polymelian, out of La Grande Armee, this youngster being a brother to Lady Belle. L. T. Cooper came back with a bid of $9,000, which bought a bay colt by Imp. Polymelian, out of Imp. Free Love, this being a half-brother to Winner Take All. Mr. Cooper also took a brown colt, a half-brother to Poland, by Eternal, out of I. May, for $8,500.

WOMEN'S TENNIS SET OVER UNTIL TODAY

TODAY'S SEMI-FINAL MATCHES.

Doubles.

5 P. M.—Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, California, vs. Miss Goss and Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, Wilmington, Del.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

For the first time in years the final round of the women's national tennis championship has been postponed. In spite of the protection of tarpaulin covers, the courts of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills were in no condition for championship play yesterday after the heavy rainfall, and the semi-final round of the singles and doubles was put over until today. The title round in both events will be played on Monday.

The same schedule arranged for yesterday will be gone through this afternoon, with Miss Helen Wills, the champion, meeting Miss Eleanor Goss of New York at 2 o'clock and Miss Kathleen McKane of England facing Mrs. Molla Mallory of New York at 3. Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Miss E. H. Harvey of the English team will face Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica and Miss Wills at 4 in the lower semi-final doubles match and Miss Goss and Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, who gained an unexpected victory over Miss McKane and Mrs. Colyer on Thursday, will play Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California at 5.

Miss Wills and Miss McKane are favored to reach the final of the singles and meet for the sixth time. Both, however, face no easy task this afternoon. Miss Goss and Mrs. Mallory have been playing their best tennis this week, showing to much better advantage than they did in the Wightman Cup series.

A victory by Miss McKane this afternoon and in the final on Monday would mark the first passing of the women's title to a foreign player. Miss McKane and Mrs. B. C. Covell won the doubles championship in 1923, but the singles title has never left the country. The heavy rainfall of yesterday is looked upon as favoring the English girl's chances today, for she is more accustomed to playing on heavy turf than is Mrs. Mallory.

Miss Goss's victory over Mrs. Chambers, who defeated her in the international play, makes it evident that Miss Wills cannot afford to take any chances with the New York girl. Never before has Miss Goss shown such indomitable fighting spirit as she did in overcoming the English woman in the second set of their match on Thursday. Mrs. Chambers was not only playing with her usual strategy but was driving with powerful strokes and getting back smashes that would have taken many players off their feet.

Victory for Miss Wills in the final would give her a third leg on the championship cup and permanent possession of it. Mrs. Mallory won the old one outright in 1922, the second trophy now in her possession.

RACES ARE TO BE SPLIT.

Belmont Handicaps of 20 or More Entries to Be Run in Sections.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Owners and trainers of the Westchester Racing Association were notified today that during the Autumn meeting at Belmont Park, which will open on Tuesday, Sept. 1, all overnight handicaps in which there are twenty or more entries will be divided into two sections. The higher weighted horses will be placed in the first section and the lower weighted ones in the second section. In the event of such division the added money will be as follows: In races at one mile or over, $2,000 to the first division and $1,500 to the second division; in races under a mile $1,500 to the first division and $1,200 to the second; otherwise the added money will remain as stated in the race.

AUSTRALIAN TEAM ELIMINATES JAPAN

SCORES ARE 6-1, 6-2, 9-7

Victors Now Will Face French Stars for Right to Challenge U. S. for Davis Cup.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 21 (AP).—It will be Australia against France in the final interzone Davis Cup play to decide the nation whose tennis team will challenge the United States this year for international honors. This was decided on the Longwood Cricket Club centre court late today when Australia's doubles aces, John B. Hawkes and Gerald Patterson, routed Zenzo Shimizu and Takeichi Harada of Japan, 6—1, 6—2, 9—7.

It was a decisive conclusion to the work of Patterson and James O. Anderson, who started Japan on the way to defeat in the final of the American zone competition yesterday by victories over Shimizu and Harada in singles. The margin of superiority established in the singles yesterday was maintained by the Antipodean pair today by their overwhelming victory.

In the first two sets the little Nipponese pair strove desperately and unsuccessfully to stem the Australian attack. They were driven into retreat by the barrage laid down by their opponents, the booming service of Patterson, Hawkes's deceptive, twisting lefthand service, hard hit drives by both opponents and Hawkes's effective volleying. Uselessly they tried to lob over the heads of their opponents and force the ever-present menace of both Hawkes and Patterson into the back court. The Antipodeans ran over Japan roughshod, dropping only three games in two sets—these chiefly through errors.

Last Set Hard Fought.

The last set was different, but the result was the same in the end. Playing their hardest, the Japanese postponed defeat through fourteen games until a final burst by the Australians brought victory in, set, match and zone final with a score of 9—7.

Patterson and Hawkes earned 43 points against 23 for the Japanese. The Australians were credited with 57 errors and Harada and Shimizu 62.

Throughout Hawkes was the steadier and surer of the Australians. Patterson was erratic. Harada was Japan's mainstay.

Tomorrow in the last two singles, which now amount to little more than exhibitions, Hawkes will play Masanosuke Fukuda and Harada will meet Patterson.

Fail to Break Through.

In the first two sets the Japanese failed to break through service once. They struggled vainly with the left-handed, twisting service of Hawkes and Patterson's hard hit offering. Hawkes played a clever game at the net, smashing over frequent placement aces. The court covering, strategy and hitting of the Australians gave the Japanese little chance to display more than occasional flashes.

Japan put up a harder struggle in the third set. The little men from Japan solved both Hawkes's and Patterson's services to break through twice and won game for game until the set score was deuce in games at six-all. Games then went with service until the sixteenth, when the Australians broke through Shimizu to win the set.

NEWPORT PLAY POSTPONED.

Semi-Finals Will Be Played Today and the Finals Tomorrow.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21 (AP).—Semi-final matches in the Newport invitation tennis tournament were postponed today by rain. Matches scheduled for today will be played tomorrow and tomorrow's matches put over until Sunday, when the finals in both singles and doubles will be played.

The semi-finals tomorrow morning at 10 and 11 o'clock will bring together William M. Johnston of San Francisco, Cal., and Manuel Alonso, captain of the Spanish Davis Cup team, in the upper half of the bracket, while in the lower half Clarence J. Griffin of San Francisco, Cal., faces B. I. C. Norton of St. Louis, Mo.

Johnston and Griffin are favored to reach the final round in the singles. One match still remains to bring the doubles up to the semi-final round. This will be played tomorrow afternoon before the semi-finals start.

CLEVELAND RACES STOPPED

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21 (AP).—There will be no more running races in Cleveland for the remainder of this year. Following the action yesterday of the Ohio State Jockey Club in canceling its Fall meeting of the Maple Heights Track, John A. King, General Manager of the Brooklyn half-mile track, today announced that the running meeting scheduled at that track for Sept. 21 to Oct. 10 had been canceled.

He said the action was taken for the best interest of the sport, declaring Cleveland has had too much racing this year. Thistledowne, Cleveland's third running track, will not hold a Fall meeting.

Midget Smith Loses to Williams.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP).—Kid Williams, bantamweight, defeated Midget Smith of New York in a close twelve-round bout here tonight. Williams's aggressiveness and work at close range won him the decision. There were no knockdowns.

Tiger Flowers Beats Gans.

Fugazy Negotiating Match With Goodrich—Objective Said to Be Walker Bout.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Benny Leonard, lightweight champion who retired earlier this year saying he did so at the request of his mother, will return to the ring.

"Benny Leonard has taken his boxing gloves down off the wall and dusted them off," said his statement. "The announcement of his permanent retirement last March 15 doesn't go any longer. He is planning to re-enter the ring immediately and defend his world's lightweight championship before the end of the current season. He made this known definitely and positively yesterday after a conference with his old manager, Billy Gibson."

Quoting Leonard, the statement went on:

"I wish it broadcast that matchmakers desiring my services are advised to communicate with my manager, Billy Gibson. For the last three weeks I have been receiving tempting offers to return to the ring. I have turned all these offers over to Gibson for consideration.

Will Be Ready in September.

"I will be ready to box in September. I have been doing light but regular training for the last six weeks. I am now going to the country, probably to Tannersville, and buckle down to hard work now that I have definitely decided to fight again.

"I haven't any definite matches on as yet. That is all up to Gibson. All I will require are a couple of weeks more work, and then I will be ready for any opponent with whom Gibson may sign me."

Leonard did not state what prompted him to reconsider his decision of six months ago to retire from the game," the statement concludes. "Nor did he explain how he overcame the objections of Ma Leonard, at whose behest he announced his retirement."

The announcement from Gibson confirms reports circulated for some time. These reports began soon after Leonard announced his retirement. However, because of Leonard's insistence that he has plenty of money and that his mother's life would be in danger if he entered the ring again, little credence was attached to them.

Promoter Humbert Fugazy, who has the boxing privileges at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, was in conference yesterday with Billy Gibson on the question of inducing Leonard to make Ebbets Field the scene of his return. Fugazy is angling for a match between Leonard and Jimmy Goodrich, winner of the State Athletic Commission's lightweight championship tournament, for a date next month. Nothing definite was accomplished yesterday, but it is expected a decision will be reached Monday afternoon.

Walker Match His Objective.

The opinion is prevalent that Leonard is returning principally for a match with Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion. This match may be one of the outstanding attractions at the New Madison Square Garden this Winter. It is the bout which would give Leonard his biggest money reward. Some obstacles might be thrown up, however, by Jimmy Johnston, who had the match signed last Summer, when Leonard suffered an injury which prevented the match under Johnston's direction.

Another turn may develop through Dave Shade, who is scheduled to battle Walker for the welterweight title on Sept. 21. Should Shade win the title, a Shade-Leonard match would be the attraction. A Leonard-Walker bout without welterweight championship significance would not be as profitable.

That Leonard is returning to defend his lightweight title is doubtful. Followers of boxing doubted for more than a year before Leonard quit whether he could make the weight of 135 pounds eight hours before ring time and be at his fighting best. This doubt is even stronger now.

It is recalled that when Leonard clashed with Lew Tendler two years ago the champion and challenger were to have weighed publicly, but the weighing was done behind closed doors.

New Weighing Rule Results.

The hue and cry set up as a consequence was directly responsible for the adoption by the State Athletic Commission of the rule that all champions must weigh publicly at the commission offices, under the supervision of the commissioners and on tested scales.

When he retired Leonard stressed that he was wealthy enough to forsake the ring, and said he intended to devote his time to the stage. Subsequently Leonard repeated his announcement of retiring when he launched a physical culture correspondence course. The State Athletic Commission, as a consequence, began a lightweight championship elimination tournament. This tournament was won by Jimmy Goodrich, who will be Leonard's first opponent if Benny can make the light class weight.

Leonard is 29 years old, having been born on April 7, 1896. He started his boxing career thirteen years ago. Five years later he won the title by knocking out Freddie Welsh in nine rounds of a scheduled ten-round bout. Leonard was one of the most popular champions ever known to the ring, and was one of the greatest lightweights who ever held the title.

Gus Wilson, trainer of Georges Carpentier, arrived in this country yesterday on the Rochambeau in response to a cablegram from Jack Dempsey, and plans to leave for the coast today or tomorrow. Wilson declared he did not know whether he had been engaged to train the heavyweight champion for a title bout or for picture work. He said he would make his permanent home in California, and become an American citizen. According to Wilson, Francois Descamps and Carpentier plan to come to this country before the end of the year. Descamps will bring several boxers, among them Bartholomew Molinero and Paolino, heavyweights, and Paul Fritsh, lightweight. Carpentier is coming over for moving picture work.

CONEY ISLAND BOUT OFF UNTIL TONIGHT

The downpour of yesterday caused Matchmaker John Leon to postpone his bouts scheduled for the Coney Island Stadium last night. The show is scheduled to take place tonight. Mike McTigue, former world's light-heavyweight champion, is to tackle Tony Marullo of New Orleans in the principal twelve-round bout. In another twelve-round contest Bob Lawson, Alabama negro heavyweight, will engage Jack De Mave. Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo's promising young middleweight, will attempt to re-establish himself in a special six-round bout, in which he is to face Maxey Rosenbloom, east side youngster. This contest will witness Slattery's first ring attempt since his recent knockout at the hands of Dave Shade.

The bouts scheduled for last night at the Golden City Arena, Canarsie, likewise were postponed because of the rain. Matchmaker Jess McMahon announced this show would be held Monday night.

Bantamweights will furnish the action tonight in two of the principal bouts at the Commonwealth Sporting Club. Three ten-round matches are to be held. The principals will be Al Brown versus Eddie Flank, Black Bill versus Battling Murray and Cirolin Olano versus Bobby Slater.

A twelve-round bout between Irish Tommy Jordan and Georgie Levine, welterweights, will be the stellar attraction tonight at the Ridgewood Grove S. C., Brooklyn. In six-round bouts the principals will be Tony Allicino versus Jimmy Russo, Billy Kelly versus Nat Savitsky and Henry Usse versus Tony Canzerneri.

GREB MUST REMAIN IN HOSPITAL 3 WEEKS

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21 (AP).—Harry Greb, world's middleweight boxing champion, will not be able to leave the hospital, where he was taken last night following an automobile accident near here in which he sustained a fractured rib and other injuries, for two or three weeks, his manager, James Mason, said tonight. This means, Mason asserted, that Greb will have to forego a fight with Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, set for Sept. 18. The bout was to have been the feature of a benefit show for the Jewish Maternity Hospital and was to have been staged at the Polo Grounds, New York.

Greb spent a comparatively restful period propped up in bed at the hospital today. He was visited by his manager, who spent most of the day with him, and his mother and sister.

THUNDER WINS BLUE IN RAIN AT RUMSON

Takes Prize After Four Jump-Offs in Horse Show—Silver Crest Scores Twice.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Aug. 21.—Despite a heavy downpour which continued throughout most of the second day of the Monmouth County Horse Show in progress at the Rumson Country Club, a large gallery turned out here today to watch the showing of breeding, hunting and jumping classes and to see Rufus Finch's Thunder win the blue in the class for middleweight jumpers after four jump-offs. Finch, master of the Monmouth County Hunt, brought his horse through from among thirty-five others to defeat Emory L. Haskell's Jim Cheese, which took second prize.

The day opened with many of the boxes filled with fanciers anxious to see the showing of the breeding classes. Major Gen. Howard S. Borden's stallion, Lord Rock Sand, and three of his get were shown to excellent advantage and carried off first prize.

Sally Lanier's Silver Crest took two blues in the hunter classes. The first came in the lightweight group and in it Silver Crest defeated Rufus Finch's Fernbrook. In the class for ladies' hunters, Silver Crest fought off the challenge of Miss Michell Newborg's Woodcock and emerged with the blue.

The victory of Thunder was a topic of conversation tonight at the club, as so keenly contested a class seldom has been seen. When the eliminations had narrowed the number of possible winners to four animals, the difficulties of the judges could easily be appreciated when the qualities of the horses shown were considered, but the eventual victory of Finch's Thunder met with general satisfaction.

MILTON ARRIVES IN ITALY.

MILAN, Italy, Aug. 21 (AP).—Tommy Milton, American automobile race driver, and Peter De Paolo, who won the 500-mile race at Indianapolis last May and the 250-mile inaugural race at Laurel, Md., last month, have arrived here to participate in the Bonza Grand Prix race. On their arrival they went to the cemetery and placed a wreath on the grave of Ascari, the Italian driver, who was killed recently on the Montlhery track near Paris.

KEARNS-RICKARD PACT DISAPPROVED

TO AMEND THE CONTRACT

Board to Insist Kearns's $25,000 Forfeit Go to Mullins If Champion Fails to Fight.

The Dempsey-Kearns-Wills-Mullins-Rickard situation is not yet disposed of, so far as the State Athletic Commission is concerned. This was made patent yesterday following the meeting of the board by Chairman James A. Farley, who announced that there still is the little matter of revising the famous agreement entered into by Promoter Tex Rickard and Jack Kearns to be attended to. This agreement, involving the posting of forfeits of $25,000 each by Kearns and Rickard, binds Dempsey to fight Harry Wills under Rickard's direction on or before July 4 next year and was the instrument through which Kearns regained his eligibility here.

The agreement, as it is at present worded, however, does not satisfactorily protect the interests of Wills or his manager, Paddy Mullins. It is this fact that necessitates the revision which Chairman Farley intends to demand, possibly at Tuesday's meeting of the commission. It was the intention of the commission when the signed agreement was accepted that Kearns's $25,000 forfeit should be turned over to Mullins in the event that Kearns failed to produce Dempsey for the bout. The check of Kearns, however, is made payable to Promoter Rickard and the agreement contains no clause which provides for the transfer of Kearns's money to Mullins should the champion default the match.

Chairman Farley said yesterday that the commission has not had much time as yet to discuss the subject of protecting the interests of Wills and Mullins, but asserted he intended to have the agreement amended to provide for the money transfer as the commission intends it should be made in the event Dempsey defaults.

Mullins's Forfeit Expected.

This revision, Chairman Farley expects, will induce Mullins to reconsider his announced attitude, and post a forfeit similar to that posted by Kearns and Rickard. Incidentally, Mullins may today receive an important visit. Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons, who claims to have Dempsey sewed up, is understood to be on the way to this city with the $100,000 which, it is said, he plans to present to Mullins for Wills's signature to a contract for a Dempsey bout.

At its meeting the Commission approved the Paul Berlenbach-Jack Delaney world's light-heavyweight championship battle at the Yankee Stadium, Sept. 11, under the direction of Promoter Rickard. The Commission's approval came after Dr. William H. Walker, Commission physician, had examined Berlenbach's injured left hand and submitted the following report:

"I have this date examined Paul Berlenbach at the office of the State Athletic Commission. I examined both of Berlenbach's hands and I find no functional defect or any active inflammatory process at this date. He has in each hand old deformities received some time ago. These conditions are fully healed and leave no effect at this time that would incapacitate Mr. Berlenbach. I believe that he is fully able to engage at this time in a boxing contest."

Berlenbach Resumes Work.

Berlenbach returned yesterday to his training quarters at Southampton prepared to resume work for the defense of his title against Delaney. The fact that this match is being held on Sept. 11, however, together with the unexpected injury which sent Harry Greb, middleweight champion, to a hospital, has resulted in a change of date for the proposed Jewish Maternity Hospital benefit fund show, which was to have been held at the Polo Grounds on Sept. 9. Matchmaker Jimmy Johnston notified the commission of his intention to change the date of the benefit and was requested to appear before the commission meeting Tuesday with an application for a new date.

The business of transferring the bond filed on behalf of Mickey Walker prior to the welterweight champion's recent bout with Harry Greb, was effected to the satisfaction of the commission. The bond, filed by Humbert Fugazy, was released when Promoter Rickard posted a check as a forfeit for Walker. Chairman Farley announced that the commission had extended the time limit for Walker to fight Dave Shade for the welterweight title from Aug. 15 to Sept. 21, when the pair are signed to clash at the Yankee Stadium.

Erich Hagenlacher, German billiard champion, succeeded in passing Willie Hoppe, former world's champion, in their 3,600-point match at 18.2 balkline at the Fourteenth Street Academy yesterday, and as the two players prepare for the final two blocks today only three points separate them. The point score at the close of the tenth block last night was 3,000 to 2,997, with the German star holding the lead.

Hagenlacher made his big gain on the champion in the afternoon block, when he defeated Hoppe 577 to 208, the feature of his play being a run of 314 from the spot after winning the lag. The end of the block saw Hoppe trailing by 92 points, but he got all but three of these back when he captured the evening block, 389 to 300. Hoppe's best effort for the day was a run of 162.

N. Y. A. C. IS FAVORED TO WIN MET. HONORS

Boasting one of the strongest teams ever to wear the Mercur Foot, even though lacking the presence of the great Alan Helffrich, the New York A. C. this afternoon will take the field at Ashland Stadium, East Orange, N. J., favored to carry off the team title in the Metropolitan A. A. U.'s senior track and field championships.

To the Travers Islanders is conceded the bulk of the individual titles. Major P. J. Walsh, Chairman of the Metropolitan A. A. U. Championship Committee, yesterday predicted that the Mercury Foot wearers would account for eleven of the nineteen individual titles to be decided. He expects the Newark A. C. to emerge with four championships, and the others to go to the Finnish-American A. C., Bloomfield Catholic Lyceum, Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A. and the Harlem Evening H. S. At least four championship records, the marks for the half-mile run, mile run, javelin throw and the pole vault, are in danger of being eclipsed in the struggles this afternoon.

100-yard dash and 220-yard dash, Jackson V. Scholz, New York A. C.; 440-yard dash, Joseph Tierney, New York A. C.; 880-yard run, George Marsters, New York A. C.; one-mile run, Willie Goodwin, New York A. C.; six-mile run, Willie Kyronen, Finnish-American A. C.; three-mile walk, Harry Hinkle, Harlem Evening H. S.; 120-yard high hurdles, Carl Christiernson, Newark A. C.

Eric L. Pedley, young California polo star, and considered one of the ten best players in the United States, has been invited by the United States Polo Association to play in the open championship which begins at Meadow Brook on Sept. 17. Should Pedley accept he will come East with the Midwick team, which will play in the intercircuit tournament at Philadelphia on Sept. 12.

Special to The New York Times.

ROME, N. Y., Aug. 21.—After four days of competition, most of the honors of the forty-fifth annual tournament of the National Archery Association, which closed here today, went to New England. Besides winning the men's and women's national championships, competitors from Massachusetts carried off half of the special awards and trophies.

W. H. Palmer Jr. of St. Davids, Pa., today won the Robin Hood contest, thirty-six arrows at 100 yards, open to both men and women. Twice he struck the narrow wooden shaft used as a target. Several others hit once.

The flight shoot for men was won by G. A. Mang of Buffalo, 259 yards; for women, by Mrs. H. W. Frentz, Melrose, Mass., 239 yards 5 inches. Miss Dorothy D. Smith, Newton Centre, Mass., won the women's clout, 32—134. The men's clout was won by Dr. Paul W. Crouch of Boston, 36—134. Using both hands and feet to control the bow, Dr. Crouch also won the "free style" flight shoot, 311 yards 6 inches.

WORLD TITLE GOLF DATES ARE SHIFTED

Macfarlane and Barnes Will Meet in Philadelphia on Sept. 11 and 12.

Instead of playing the first thirty-six holes of their seventy-two-hole match for the unofficial "world's championship" at Philadelphia on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 12 and 13, Willie Macfarlane and Jim Barnes, respective holders of the American and British open golf crowns, will have their first meeting on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 11 and 12, it was decided yesterday. The first eighteen holes will be played at the Philmont Club, Philadelphia, on Friday and the second eighteen holes at the Whitemarsh Valley Club, Barnes's old stamping ground, on the following day. The concluding thirty-six holes will be played in Washington during the following week.

The shift in dates was necessitated by Barnes's reluctance to play a match of this importance on a Sunday. "Long Jim" is opposed to playing big tournaments and championships on the Sabbath. Barnes was in the Far West at the time that the dates were fixed and upon his return he balked.

HORATIUS AT THE BRIDGE.

It is with the fine air of an ancient Roman that Mr. McCOOEY of Brooklyn declares that Tammany "shall not cross the bridge." This is certainly ancient enough, almost older than HORATIUS. Times and circumstances have greatly changed since the Hon. HUGH McLAUGHLIN and the not less honorable PATRICK McCARREN used to stand heroically on the Brooklyn shore and defy the Tiger to lay a single paw upon the City of Churches. Instead of one bridge yielding access to the isolated and sacred Brooklyn soil, there are now several. Moreover, the Brooklyn boss says nothing about preventing Tammany from sneaking unseen through one of the tunnels into his borough. While he is nobly standing guard at the end of the original Brooklyn Bridge, the Manhattan cohorts may secretly emerge behind him and cut off his retreat.

Dropping historical precedents and figures of speech, the attentive observer must be persuaded that this hostility between Brooklyn and Manhattan is suddenly mustered up and manifestly insincere. Mr. McCOOEY has hitherto found no difficulty in working harmoniously with Tammany Hall. He calls the Tammany leader by his first name, and amicably plays golf with him. He cannot live in such mortal terror as he now pretends of what would happen should his friend and fellow-boss "GEORGE" make an appearance in Brooklyn. Moreover, there is a perfect "gentlemen's understanding" between the two. For all the public knows, it may extend to something more than an agreement not to interfere with each other's county and borough ticket. Sad to say, there are cynical people who believe that in the midst of all the preliminary flourishes of seeming animosity one gentleman is giving the other a broad wink.

In any case, it is late in the day for Brooklyn, or any other borough of Greater New York, to assume that it has such interests separate and apart that it does not feel itself wrapped up in the common concerns of the metropolis. Not in vain are bridges built and tunnels dug and the facilities of rapid communication and exchange multiplied. Not even is the population fixed. There are annually and continuously great shifts of the residents of one borough to another. Brooklyn boasts that it has been getting the larger accretions of newcomers, but they cannot feel much of the old local identity, and must be ready to break away to join in large movements comprehending the entire municipality. It is true also that the very growth of Brooklyn and the immense and expanding area of that part of the city make it conscious of its relations to the State and to legislation passed at Albany. Mayor HYLAN forgot this when he blunderingly came out against Governor SMITH's plan to abolish grade crossings. There are many grade crossings within Kings County, and it has a keen desire to see them removed. This was evidenced by the promptness with which four Democratic State Senators in Brooklyn, all followers of McCOOEY, protested that they would not for a moment stand by Mayor HYLAN on that issue.

This lends fresh significance to the announcement that Governor SMITH is to open his campaign for Senator WALKER in Brooklyn. Even the dubiously belligerent Mr. McCOOEY will not undertake to say that "AL" SMITH ought to be kept from crossing the bridge. He is Governor of the State and has a great multitude of admirers in Brooklyn who will hear him gladly. He is also a citizen of Greater New York and is entitled to speak in behalf of the dignity and development of the city. They reckon ill, in Brooklyn or any other part of New York, who leave out Governor SMITH in this municipal election. It is really his fight more than that of any other person. After he has addressed himself with his frankness of expression and persuasive utterance to the great problems of the New York Mayoralty there can be little doubt that the present odds against the success of Mayor HYLAN in the Democratic primary will be much increased.

THE PRIMARY AND TALENT.

While New York City is facing a direct primary, with justified doubts whether the best men will emerge from it triumphant, some Western States are finding a certain relief in going back to older methods of making nominations. In Idaho, for example, a State campaign is just now getting under way, and it is noted with surprise and gratification that an unusual number of young men are taking interest in politics. It is not expected that many of them will come to the front at once, but the public is awake to the fact that there seems to be opening in the State a new career for talent. Commenting on this development, The Idaho Statesman philosophizes as follows:

> Idaho is beginning to feel the sad effect of her years of direct primary. They were years in which young men had no opportunity to develop themselves for political service. Under the direct primary old stagers fought each other on the hustings for the votes of the people, but there was no place for the young aspirant to get into the political business.

This is a severe indictment of the direct primary. But it is founded on experience. And who can deny that in other communities the direct primary has often been accompanied by the same unhappy effect? It is true that powerful party organizations have sometimes been able to bring forward young men and put them through the primary with the endorsement of "regularity," but there has usually been some special reason for this, and the rule has been of quite another sort. It has almost become proverbial that the direct primary puts the poor man and the unknown man at a great disadvantage, and has become the happy hunting ground of men with plenty of money which they are willing to spend lavishly in order to carry the primary. The large sum which Governor PINCHOT laid out to make sure of his success in the Pennsylvania primary is called to mind by the recent expenditure, large but on a smaller scale, of the present Republican candidate for Governor of New Jersey. Such a generous outlay has doubtless never been known in Idaho, but it is instructive to see that, in spite of Senator BORAH's indignant but futile efforts to restore the direct primary in his own State, the hope of better things politically lies there in a return to the convention system.

THE GARMENT WORKERS.

Press estimates of the attendance at Thursday's protest meetings organized by the minority within the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union agree closely with those made public by its officers. President SIGMAN places the dissidents at 11,000. The newspaper men make it 12,000. Since it seems to be agreed that not all of those participating in the meetings were bona fide members of the organization, it would appear that the officers of the three opposition "locals" succeeded in mobilizing about one-seventh of the 70,000 members of the International Union in Greater New York. Locals 9 and 22, according to the figures in LOUIS LEVINE's "The Women's Garment Workers," had at the beginning of 1924 a membership of nearly 20,000. Thus considerably less than one-half of the membership of the three recently disciplined local organizations seems to have taken part in the show of strength invited by their leaders.

The outcome offers still less comfort to the leaders of the opposition, if the total strength of the International throughout the country is taken into account. The national membership falls just short of 90,000. The union members outside of New York may be assumed to back up President SIGMAN, for the reason that they have previously stood with the international officers against the one specific demand brought forward by the opposition leaders. The latter have urged the abolition of the present system of representation on the joint boards under which all locals, irrespective of the size of their membership, have the same number of delegates. The motion to substitute "proportional representation" was overwhelmingly defeated at the Boston convention of the International Union in 1924, partly by the vote of the unions outside of New York.

The present strife was precipitated two months ago by the officers of the international organization who summoned to trial, and subsequently ousted, the officers of the three New York locals for participating in Communist activities, of which no small part consists in violent criticism of the spirit and methods of the international organization. The disciplined leaders have retorted with charges of bossism and betrayal, charges not at all unfamiliar in the history of labor unions and of this particular trade. But what the radical leaders call machine rule and betrayal is regarded by others as the growing sense of responsibility which has manifested itself in the International with its growth in numbers and influence. Dr. LEVINE speaks of this struggle between "revolutionary" and "realistic" unionism as running throughout the entire history of the International, without affecting its steady transformation in the direction of sober, constructive effort:

> For this transformation is the result of the daily adjustments which the International is forced to make in order to achieve the main end for which it exists, namely, the advancement of the standards of living of the workers in the industry, and reflects the new realities which have brought the industry and its workers within the ken of American traditions and American ways of thinking and acting.

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENTS.

It is gratifying to note that two of the great universities, Michigan and Chicago, have chosen as Presidents men of exact scholarship—one a man of proved administrative ability also, and the other of a turn for practical affairs, but primarily a scientist of the purest type. The former, Dr. CLARENCE C. LITTLE, the new President of the University of Michigan, a graduate of Harvard and a postgraduate student in science, conducted researches in genetics for many years, and became the assistant director of the Carnegie Institution for Experimental Evolution before he accepted the Presidency of the University of Maine. His success there gives promise that the University of Michigan will have not only a competent administrator but a scholar who has gone out to the verge of human knowledge in at least one sector of the great field, and is able to appreciate the problems in every other sector, for the method of advance must be the same whether one use a microscope, a telescope, a retort, a syllogism or an algebraic equation.

The University of Chicago has gone for its new President, Dr. MAX MASON, to the University of Wisconsin. He is also pre-eminently a man of research, with a varied experience as a teacher, both in Eastern institutions and in the Middle West. His going to Chicago gives new emphasis to the purpose which has guided its development since its renaissance under that great scholar and teacher, Dr. WILLIAM R. HARPER, a purpose which has expressed itself in the motto "Let "knowledge grow that life may be "enriched," and has exemplified itself in practice by calling to university professorships such men as CHAMBERLIN, MICHELSON, HALE and MILLIKAN.

The Faculties of the first of all American universities of the purest type were gathered about a teacher of mathematics, a teacher of Greek and a teacher of chemistry who were the first of scholars in their respective fields. And the University of Chicago owes its swift rise to its policy of gathering men of first-rate scholarship as its master teachers. This precedent has been followed in selecting the new leader. He is a mathematician, and if he needs defense in these days when all scientists are under Fundamentalist suspicion, it may be found in an admirable address delivered by DAVID EUGENE SMITH before the Mathematical Association of America some years ago, entitled "Religio Mathematici." According to him, mathematics but increases the faith of a man who has faith, and while it shows him his finite nature with respect to the Infinite (for example, shows him that he cannot construct a seven-edged polyhedron and is only combating the everlasting truth in trying to do so), it puts him in touch with immortality in the form of mathematical laws that are eternal.

In the midst of all the changes in things thought to be unchangeable it has been true, it is true and will be true throughout the universe and forever that $(a+b)^2=a^2+2ab+b^2$. This is but one illustration of the immortality of law. A great mathematician, other things being equal, ought to be best prepared from facts compared the laws to trace

Where long procession leads to Deity, and so best prepared to lead on in further quest of truth.

SINGAPORE AND THE PACIFIC.

The reverse of conventional is the treatment of present-day naval problems by GERARD FIENNES, an authority on sea power, in the July Nineteenth Century. He maintains that the creation of a naval base at Singapore by Great Britain should prevent war, not cause it. As Great Britain, with her colonies all over the world, is more dependent than any other nation upon sea communication, he contends that if another limitation conference is called Great Britain may reasonably ask for a preponderance in cruisers. "Any further convention to which we could set our hand," he says, "must recognize our special need." Mr. FIENNES lays down this rule of policy:

> If you are to have a navy at all, you must consider all the purposes for which it may be required, and make it, in strength and equipment, adequate for those purposes.

This, he grants, is a rule of policy for any nation. He argues for the closest cooperation between Great Britain and the United States. "On this probably hangs," he observes, "the future of the white races." What would be the position of the British Dominions should a conflict occur between Japan and the United States? The capture of the Philippines by the Japanese would be certain, he assumes. In that event the Australians, "deeply concerned at the near approach of the yellow men to their "shores," would not hesitate to open their ports to the American Navy. Such an act would meet with the approval of the New Zealanders and Canadians. The hand of the mother country would be forced. This British writer argues that the picture of the United States heading a white man's confederation in the Pacific is not fanciful. As surely as Great Britain fails to construct an advance base at Singapore there will be danger of a conflict between Japan and the United States:

> So far from the proposed reconstruction of the naval base at Singapore being a herald of war, it is rather a guarantee of peace. Only when our power and will to defend the Dominions against aggression is demonstrated can we enter upon the task of statesmanship in seeking a permanent and acceptable solution of the Pacific problem. * * * The cooperation between the British Empire and the United States, which is essential for the peace of the world and the future of the white races, demands that British sea power should be effective in the Pacific.

We are told by this student of naval problems, who is not afraid to grapple with the "brutal truth," that as Great Britain has no naval base in the Western Atlantic capable of supplying the needs of a modern fleet, the idea of a war between the United States and his country must be dismissed. The realization of this makes easier cooperation to keep the peace elsewhere in the world. He is very plain-spoken about the needs of Japan. He points out that Japan "has at her back "no great undeveloped empire suit"able for settlement by her people." In Korea and Manchuria they cannot compete with cheaper native labor. Nor can the Japanese flourish in the tropics. "The commonplace and the sore spot of Pacific politics" is that the only outlet for the Japanese is "in "lands where the white man has al"ready 'pegged out his claim.'" In some way or other this problem must be solved. Mr. FIENNES offers no solution, but he takes his stand on Anglo-American cooperation to prevent at some not distant time a collision of far-reaching consequences.

WHISTLING IN BOSTON.

Is the Hon. WILLIAM MORGAN BUTLER, Senator from Massachusetts, writing editorials for The Boston Transcript? Or is that ministering angel of protection trying to cheer up a good man threatened with adversity? We learn that since the election of 1916, so marred by Republican "mistakes," the "West has gone solidly protection"ist, while Eastern sentiment may be "gauged by the experience of a former "Governor of Massachusetts, who, "running for Congress in an industrial "centre, raised the low-tariff cry and "was beaten more than two to one." We knew that Mrs. ROGERS defeated Mr. FOSS, though the deep national symbolism and prophecy of that election had escaped us; but just when, since 1916, did the West go "solidly protectionist"? Was protection the "paramount" or any other kind of issue in 1920 or in 1924? How solidly protectionist is the West or the Republican Party of the West at this moment? But what's the use? Our venerable friend is seeking to keep up its spirits and Mr. BUTLER's. Forget "DAVE" WALSH!

It is wiser and better
Goin' by the Old Granary Buryin' Ground

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Investigators on a Wrong Track.

A New York humorist, showing something of the wisdom that ought to underlie humor, suggested in a radio speech the other day that, instead of investigating "psychics"—mediums, fortune tellers, clairvoyants and the like—time and money would be better employed in investigating the people who believe in folk of that sort.

The results of such a diversion of scientific attention not only might be highly interesting, but easily might yield a good deal of information in regard to the mental operations of what must be a distinct human group or class. It would be found, presumably, that they all are illustrations of arrested racial development. What they are now, everybody was not many hundreds of years ago. Even at present they are peculiar in their credulity only in the more advanced centres of civilization. In the hinterlands of all countries they still are well up to the average.

It is when a man of real scientific knowledge and training wanders off into these vagaries that the case becomes serious. This is what gives weight to the humorist's suggestion. A promising beginning might be made if some real psychologists started a quiet investigation of the Professor of Neurology and Psychiatry in the University of Milan, Dr. FERDINANDO CAZZAMALI. For he, on the assumption that there is such a thing as telepathy, announces that he has found its explanation in the throwing off of actual radio waves by the human brain when it is in a state of activity—waves that can be amplified to the audibility frequency, and which he has so amplified.

His experiments have been with persons susceptible to hypnosis—neurotics, that is—but this does not seem to have aroused his curiosity. That he can read or interpret the "signals" he "gets" is not stated in the dispatch proclaiming his triumph.

It has been known for years, of course, that every activity of muscle, nerve and brain results in the production of minute but measureable currents of electricity or changes in electric tensions. The brain, however, does this no more than the stomach or liver, and one cannot help wondering how the professor knows from what organ he is getting his messages.

Let Courts Now Do Their Duty.

By what seems to have been notably good work on the part of the police, all of the men and women who are known or suspected as having been implicated in the recent murder of the two street railway employes near Mount Vernon have been arrested. It took persistence and intelligence to do that, and, by showing both, the police have solved, or with entire plausibility say they have solved, a crime that at first was deeply mysterious and bristling with difficulties.

The spur to action was in part the unusual atrocity of these murders and in part the large rewards that at once were offered by the railway officials and the Westchester County authorities. Too much dependence, of course, must not be placed on the confessions which the three men are said to have made. Such confessions are almost sure to be retracted and seldom stand up well in court.

There is more and better evidence than confessions, however, in this case, for the crime was committed in the presence of several people in the car, and all of them are available as witnesses.

It is to be hoped—not too confidently—that this achievement of the police will be equaled by the later operations of the law. To have the greatest and best effect, the trials of all of the accused, including the accomplices, must be prompt, and there is no reason why they should not be short. And conviction should be followed by punishment with like promptitude. Lamentable indeed will it be if endless appeals from court to court in this case should bring the administration of justice into further disrespect.

One of the accused is quoted as saying, "What could I do but shoot? They didn't stick 'em up when I told 'em to!" Probably he sincerely thinks that, if not a defense, at least a palliation of his crime.

Conditions and Theories Are at Odds.

A New York landlord has been taken to court this week because he was injudicious enough to say frankly to a woman who applied to him for an apartment that he wouldn't let her in because she had three small children. Another landlord to whom she previously applied had been cautious enough to remember, as soon as he learned about the children, that he already had promised the rooms she wanted to somebody else.

Probably the second man is safe, but the other is in for trouble, if the woman can prove to the court's satisfaction that her children caused her exclusion, for discrimination against tenants on that account is against an explicit law.

The chances are that the endangered landlord does not hate children any more than other people do. Perhaps he does not hate them at all. The conditions of apartment house life, however, are such that children really are more or less of an annoyance and nuisance to everybody except their own parents, and childless tenants do bring on a landlord pressure to protect them from virtuous but noisy neighbors. If he obeys the law he gets one tenant and loses several. So he may find it expedient to pay a fine on the few occasions when an indignant father or mother forces its imposition, and by one device or another drive away the tenants to whom the law commands him to give a welcome especially warm.

It is a trying situation for both landlords and parents, and there seems to be no help for it as long as city folk will or must live in huge hives instead of separate houses. Obviously it is against public policy to penalize parenthood; as obviously a flat house is not a good place for the bringing up of children.

They Don't Expect All That.

Not content with promising five-cent fares forever, Senator WALKER starts his campaign with the assurance that he is for a five-cent fare and with it a seat for every traveler on our trains.

It takes a tremendous optimist to see that among the New York possibilities—seats for all within any period of personal interest to anybody now alive. This city's transit facilities, though they have increased vastly with the passage of the years, never have kept up with the demand even for standing room and the prospect of their ever doing so is of the dimmest.

The best we can reasonably expect, if the town continues to grow, is that the crowding in our cars some day will not be quite so bad as it is now, and it takes a Mark Tapley to look even for that.

Says Stewards Welcome Tourists.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An article in a New York newspaper casts aspersions on the attitude of steamship stewards toward third-class tourists. After the manner in which the American tourists have treated us we feel that the least we can do is to contradict such erroneous statements. Speaking on behalf of the third-class stewards, I can say that we have received every consideration from American tourists, who have appreciated our efforts to serve them, both by their consideration and unequaled generosity, and even in some cases to the extent of private invitations to their own homes.

We on our part are only too pleased to know that we are going to have tourists, as we fare better in every way, and they reward service, not with quarter dollars and half dollars, which we consider an unfair remark, but with a lavishness which has not been witnessed during the last five years.

J. W. DE MATOSE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES seems to consider that nineteen actual hits out of 16,000 shots fired from machine guns at a target considerably smaller than an airplane is very bad shooting. I wonder.

The normal rate of fire of the type of machine gun used in the Fort Tilden tests is about 400 shots per minute. As these guns are grouped in batteries of twelve, the normal rate of fire of a battery would be 4,800 shots per minute, or 16,000 shots in 200 seconds.

Just how long do you think an airplane would stay around and try to accomplish its mission if it were being hit approximately once every ten seconds?

As a matter of cold fact, that is far above the general average of marksmanship in war, where experience has shown, as you doubtless know, that it takes a man's weight in lead to kill him.

C. B. ROSS,

New York, Aug. 20, 1925.

A TENNESSEE ACHIEVEMENT.

Woman Suffrage Cited as a Gift by Her to Progress.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As Tennessee is in the searchlight just now, as a native-born Tennessean I would like to recall to patriotic Americans that today commemorates an epoch anniversary in the history of America.

On Aug. 18, 1920, the first step in the great victory for the ratification of the woman's suffrage amendment was won in Tennessee under conditions that made history. After two weeks of solemn conflict against forces determined to kill the final effort for the liberation of woman, the legislative vote stood 48 to 48. It was at this tense moment that a young pioneer of the Southern Appalachians, Harry Burn, whose twenty-third birthday found him an active Republican member of the Tennessee Legislature representing an East Tennessee constituency which was a battle ground in itself—it was at this moment that Harry Burn, undisturbed by threats and persecutions of his opponents, with the prospect of ending his political career, stood unflinchingly for his convictions, gave the forty-ninth decisive vote and the battle was won. One week later, on Aug. 26, the ratification of the woman's suffrage amendment was signed.

In a recent trip abroad I found it difficult to explain the type of Americans who are concerned in the evolutionary agitation in Tennessee today, one eminent divine declaring that "the natives of Tennessee are old-fashioned farmers stranded in an intellectual backwater."

It was my privilege, through the courtesy of the English press, to clarify some of these false impressions: to recall that America, and the world, owes a debt of gratitude to Tennessee, for the pure democracy of America had its first formulated expression (in 1775) by natives in the articles of the Watauga Settlement, drawn up in Tennessee by the Ulster-Scot, James Robertson, and the Huguenot, John Sevier.

"They formed a written constitution, the first ever adopted west of the mountains. It is this fact of the early independence and self-government of the settlers along the headwaters of the Tennessee that gives to their history its peculiar importance. They were the first men of American birth to establish a free and independent community on the continent."

The Ulstermen's standard of liberty and religious independence was their standard, and their Bibles were their governmental guides. They were the pioneer preceders of the authors of the Declaration of Independence.

Thinking Americans are not disturbed, but rejoice at the agitation in Tennessee. They know that it is an imperative sign of the time, a divine command for spiritual interpretation of the Bible.

KITTY CHEATHAM.

Cites Adoption Laws.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The writer has no wish to agitate unduly further discussion of a recent adoption case. A considerable number of your readers, however, are anxious to know how the provisions of the existing Adoption law of New York affected the situation, and to what extent certain amendments which went into effect in July, 1924, accomplished in this case the purpose for which they were intended.

It is my understanding that the Adoption law requires that a child shall remain in a foster home for at least six months, unless special reasons are presented why the adoption should be perfected before the expiration of that period. The law also requires a written report of an investigator, which must be filed with the court.

It would be enlightening to know whether the adoption record discloses any reasons why the six months' residence period was waived in this case, and, whether there was available to the Court an adequate investigation of the facts surrounding the whole matter.

Whether the facts of the case warrant it or not, an opinion prevails among many that the mere fact that the petitioner in this case was a man of wealth completely obscured all other questions and made possible a premature decree of adoption.

HOMEWARD HE COMES.

(In memory of Edgar A. Bancroft, United States Ambassador to Japan, whose body the Japanese Government is bringing back to America on a warship due in San Francisco today).

Homeward he comes across three thousand leagues
Of Summer sea. Homeward he comes again
Whose heart was wide with dream, who saw all men
Going a common road, speaking a common tongue.
Now from the Sunset Land he is to come, one
With the seas' wide knowing, with the waters' calm,
One with the wind's lone soundings—one with all
That goes unhindered on eternal ways.

Lone cruiser on an endless voyage bent,
Still prophet of the larger loves of men
Whose voice like flame is on us, bright with death,
Still bind our continents, till East is West
And West is East again.

Silent Ambassador to silent other hearts,
What quest on what new embassy is yours,
To other Easts or other Wests than ours?
What voices call you to what distant shores?
What people cry in never alien tongue?

Home are you come with cranes still flying over
And sword-bright gulls. . . . Home are you come
That need not any home now you fare free,
Even as of old, on eagle-ways alone . . .
Home are you come with tall informing winds
And girth of skies. Tama that carries you
Knows well the heart she bears, while tender hands
Softly convey that still mortality
Back to the valley in the cup of hills
That first saluted you, and deep and still,
From coast to coast, rhythmic from sea to sea,
A hush falls on the watch towers of the world.

Go back, proud Tama, and tell our brothers there
Go back and tell them that we keep anew
The watch with them, our brothers—say to them

Homeward he comes across three thousand leagues
Of Summer sea. Homeward he comes again! . . .

CALL MONEY-MAKING CURSE.

Universal Christian Conference Is Told the Church Must Act.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 21 (AP).—Today's session of the Universal Christian Conference, presided over by Dr. Arthur Judson Brown of New York, dealt with the subject "Industrial Life and Christianity." The topic was introduced by Bishop Billings of Vesteras, Sweden, and Dr. W. M. Tippy, of New York.

A deep impression was caused by the address of Dr. Tippy, who said in the course of his remarks:

"The curse of industry is its controlling motive of money-making. Our strong men are given power by God to be unselfish leaders of the people, but they are not doing so, except here and there. Labor sees this and uses its mass power in defense, and a class struggle arises.

"The Church must give industry new heart and a new motive, a motive of more abundant life for the people in its economic aspects; otherwise capitalistic industry will go to the dogs.

"Industry must cease to be exploitation of the workers, consumers and natural resources, and must come under social control, because it is a cooperative affair. The Church cannot dictate, but must devote itself to educating and inspiring the masses with new intelligent energy."

The report of the Commission on Education appeared today, comprising about 2,000 words. It was signed by Dr. William Adams Brown, of New York as Chairman and the Rev. Graham Chambers Hunter and Bishop James Henry Darlington, representing the United States, and delegates of Denmark, Germany, China, Japan, Rumania and Yugoslavia.

After throwing light on the difficult task of the Church in exercising Christian influence among all nations, the commission suggests recommending to the proper authorities the creation of an international bureau and research organization to serve as a clearing house of information for various Christian communions on moral and religious matters in which they have common concern.

The Blasieholmen Church was crowded last night when Bishop Brent of New York delivered a sermon on "The Church and Nationalism." The Bishop declared the churches were suffering from provincialism and sectarianism; they had become nationalized, instead of the nations becoming Christianized.

All the delegates to the Congress were invited to an excursion this afternoon to the Château of Drottningholm, the King's Summer residence, where dinner was served.

CADETS END MIMIC WAR.

PEEKSKILL, Aug. 21.—Trudging through drizzling rain, the 410 cadets of the fourth class of the United States Military Academy at West Point marched through Peekskill today on the last lap of their five days' hike and mimic warfare in northern Westchester County.

They had spent the night in camp at Lake Oscawanna, near Peekskill. They marched by way of the new Peekskill-Bear Mountain bridge over the Hudson River and through Fort Montgomery village and Highland Falls back to barracks at the Academy.

Major Horace Spurgeon was in charge of the hike, which covered about twenty-five miles.

The artillery practice at West Point, which for two months has kept the Storm King Highway closed to tourist traffic during the forenoons, ceased at the Academy today and cars can now pass without detouring.

Residents of Highland Falls and of Cornwall had protested to the War Department, as did the Orange County Board of Supervisors, but the order closing the road was not lifted. The practice schedule now has been completed.

After two weeks' training, the Fourteenth Infantry of Brooklyn and the Tenth Infantry Regiment of Albany will break camp at the State training field of the New York National Guard in Peekskill Sunday. The Fourteenth is commanded by Colonel Fred Baldwin and the Tenth by Colonel Charles E. Walsh.

ASK AIR MAIL EXTENSION.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP).—Petition for an extension of the Air Mail Service between New York and Miami, with stops at a dozen intervening cities, was received today by Postmaster General New.

The petition was signed by postmasters of the cities concerned and estimated the amount of air mail that would be available each day. It was proposed that stops be made at Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, Norfolk, Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Brunswick, Jacksonville, Daytona and West Palm Beach.

Air mail service officials were busy today working on the proposition and endeavoring to arrange a schedule. Should the proposed extension receive their approval, bids for contract service would be asked from commercial aviation companies. These bids would be opened sixty days after the call was made.

In the opinion of air mail officials it might not be feasible to operate over the entire route proposed, inasmuch as the length of it would require night flying over a lighted airway on both the New York and Miami ends. They believe a route from Washington to Jacksonville with day flying alone might be feasible. Such a service could handle mail posted in New York the previous evening and place it in Miami early the second morning, thereby saving about twenty-four hours in transit time.

CAMP VAIL'S NAME CHANGED.

Camp Alfred Vail, home of the Army Signal School and one of the largest stations in the War Department radio net, has been officially designated as a permanent military post and its name has been changed to Fort Monmouth, according to War Department orders made public at Governor's Island yesterday.

The fort is near Monmouth Court House, N. J., where Washington gained an important victory over the British forces under Clinton in 1778.

No change, it was announced at Army Headquarters, will be made in the present policy, which ranges Fort Monmouth as the principal Signal Corps experimental and training laboratory of the army for radio, telegraph and other means of communication used by the military establishment. Carrier pigeons which are trained there form the largest collection of homing birds in the country.

The royal party plans to stay in Finland eight days.

The amount of gold produced from the same quantity of mercury by Dr. Adolf Miethe and Dr. H. Stammreich of the Charlottenburg (Germany) University of Engineering has been increased 10,000-fold since the first announcement of the success of their experiments in April, 1924, according to advices received by the American Chemical Society from its Cothen correspondent.

Meanwhile, The Scientific American, which is carrying on similar experiments through Professor H. H. Sheldon of New York University, expects to announce in a month or more whether it is possible to obtain gold from a baser metal.

When the first successful experiments were announced it was said that the cost of producing a kilogram of gold was about $5,000,000. That amount of production multiplied by 10,000 would still leave the cost of gold production prohibitive.

The message to the American Chemical Society from its Cothen correspondent, which will be published in its official journal, follows:

"The skepticism which was fostered privately and publicly toward the experiments of Professors Miethe and Stammreich on the transformation of mercury into gold dwindled when investigators reported before the German Chemical Society on the results of their more recent experiments.

"Professor Fritz Haber, internationally famous for his development of synthetic ammonia, which played an important part in Germany's war plans, who previously cherished the greatest doubt as to the accuracy of the experiments, congratulated Professor Miethe and related how, on his world tour, he had seen in the laboratory of Professor Nagaoka, at Tokio, the apparatus with which the latter later, but independently of Miethe, had likewise obtained gold from mercury, and that he himself could confirm the results by repetition of the experiment.

"If electrical discharges are passed between mercury electrodes in a dielectric—that is, paraffin—the gold is found only in the mercury atomized in the spark path and at concentrations of gold to mercury as one part to 1,000—that is, from one kilogram of mercury is obtained 0.1 gram, or 100 milligrams of gold.

"Up to the time of the first publications Miethe had obtained one part of gold from 100,000,000 parts of mercury. Thus, in about a year, success has been attained in increasing ten-thousand fold the yield of gold from the same amount of mercury.

"Likewise in the laboratory of the Siemens Works in Berlin they have succeeded in obtaining gold after bombarding mercury surfaces with electrons in extremely high vacuum. It is to be emphasized that all methods thus far applied permit practically complete recovery of the mercury so that the same quantity can be used repeatedly.

"Theoretically, this is comprehensible even if it is assumed that only the one isotype of mercury, with the atomic weight 197, is subjected to transformation, for the amount of this isotype far surpasses the amounts of gold so far obtained.

"The silver-like substance which often appears with the gold, or is formed almost exclusively, arises likewise, according to Miethe, from the mercury. Professor Nagaoka has also obtained, together with gold, a second substance which he described as similar to platinum."

Chemists here said the announcements refer to "theoretically possible" processes.

It is said Dr. Miethe's discovery was accidental. He was using, the story goes, a quartz lamp and a quicksilver vapor to determine the effect of violet electric rays upon the vapor. An electric current of 170 volts and of a comparatively low amperage was passing into a vacuum chamber. After 200 hours with that current he saw the apparatus had become clogged. He took it apart and found the inside of the quartz lamp had become coated with a black film, which, upon chemical analysis, was found to be pure gold.

TREASURY SURPLUS IN ITALY

ROME, Aug. 21 (AP).—A Treasury statement issued today covering the first month of the fiscal year 1925-26 shows a surplus of 71,000,000 lire, as compared with a deficit of 83,000,000 lire for the first month of the last fiscal year. (The lire at the present rate of exchange is worth about 3½ cents).

The surplus this year is in spite of the fact that disbursements for ordinary and extraordinary expenses exceeded taxation receipts for the period by 720,000,000 lire, the excessive disbursements being explained largely by the payment of interest on the public debt.

The public debt during the month of July was increased by 362,000,000 lire, of which 357,000,000 lire was new ordinary Treasury bonds. Circulation totaled 21,000,000,000 lire, representing an increase of 230,000,000 lire over June.

Exports for the first six months of 1925 amounted to 8,569,000,000 lire, or an increase of 1,393,000,000 lire over the same period last year.

Imports, however, reached 14,427,000,000 lire, or 5,858,000,000 lire in excess of exports, whereas imports exceeded exports for the same period last year by only 2,720,000,000 lire.

The increased unfavorable trade balance is explained partly by the importation of grain, owing to the poor crop in Italy, and increased importation of raw materials for the unusual boom in industries.

MEXICO TO RESTORE LAND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 21.—It is learned from reliable sources that the Government is planning to halt the division of lands and that all grants will be reviewed in order to show the capabilities of the new owners to work the lands. In case the lands have been obtained under false pretenses they will be taken from the holders and returned to the original owners.

This change of front on the part of the Government means that it is convinced the Agrarian law as practiced will lead to disaster as giving opportunity to politicians to raise a following and increasing the difficulties of the Government in lowering the cost of living and giving legal protection to owners. It is stated that in a new division land will be given only to bona fide villages which must prove that the lands were originally taken from them to form large estates.

Lack of agricultural production is worrying officials, as reports from all parts of the republic show the acreage under cultivation is much smaller than at any time in history.

The receipts will be turned over to the Southampton Fresh Air Home for Crippled Children in the Shinnecock Hills, and St. Andrew's Dune Church. Not in years has the Junior Horse Show stirred such interest among Southampton's boys and girls. The children of the Summer colony are especially eager to win the competition for the best rider under 16 years of age, for which Mrs. Sumner Welles has offered a handsome cup. For weeks some of them have been practicing near the old stable on Main Street which serves as Southampton's Riding School headquarters. Another interesting competition will be for the best horse in the show, open to all blue ribbon winners, and in which have been entered some of the finest saddle horses in the country. Mrs. William A. Barstow has offered a cup for this event.

In addition to the young people, many of whom will ride their own mounts, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent S. Mulford will ride their blue ribbon winners, Break O'Day and Morning Mist, which have already won fifty-six ribbons between them. Colonel Robert M. MARRIED 60 YEARS.

Married sixty years next Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Mahler of 8 Birks Place, Newark, are planning to celebrate the event, as well as Mrs. Mahler's birthday, which occurs on the same day.

At previous anniversaries the couple were the guests of many friends and relatives who had seen them married, but this year, on account of Mr. Mahler's poor health and the fact that only two persons of those who witnessed the marriage ceremony survive, the aged couple plan an informal time at their home. Ten years ago Mr. and Mrs. Mahler celebrated the fiftieth anniversary with a dinner at which seven of the marriage witnesses took part. Mr. Mahler is 84, forty days older than his wife. He is a Civil War veteran.

RAIN FAILS TO MAR MISS MERRILL'S PARTY

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—Last evening for the third time since the Summer season opened it rained on the occasion of one of the largest of the season's social affairs at the Newport Summer colony. The affair was the ball given by Mrs. John Nicholas Brown at her home, Harbour Court, as the coming-out party of her niece, Miss Natalie Bayard Merrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Grenville Merrill of Stockbridge, Mass. Miss Merrill has been Mrs. Brown's guest most of the Summer.

The rain, however, had little effect on the dancing, for this took place in a temporary ballroom that had been constructed between the two wings of the house and was about the largest that has ever been put up in Newport for an affair of this kind. It was a regular building in itself, constructed around a large fountain The whole interior was hung with oak foliage and floral and electric decorations.

An elaborate electrical display took place outdoors, flood lights and incandescent lamps, as well as searchlights, playing upon clouds of steam from a steam pumper located on the pier of the property, making a pretty effect. The shore was outlined with electric lights, and the different colors on the water made a pretty picture, although it could not be enjoyed to its full extent because of the weather.

Fully 500 guests were present. A twenty-piece orchestra from New York played, and several times during the evening Florence Walton and Leon Leitrim, the well-known dancers, appeared on the ballroom floor, while Klark & Jacobs from the Chateau le Paradis in Washington also entertained during the evening.

HUGH BANCROFT IN CRASH.

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—Hugh Bancroft, President of the Boston News Bureau, and his wife, who is the daughter of Clarence W. Barron, publisher of the Bureau, had a narrow escape from death early today when their automobile, swerving from an approaching train, plunged over an embankment on the Newburyport Turnpike near Newbury.

They were on their way to Portsmouth, N. H., and as their car neared the Newbury crossing of the Boston & Maine Railroad their chauffeur discovered the gates were down and a train was coming. It was too late to stop the machine, and, rather than crash through the gates and take a chance on beating the train, he steered through a fence at the side of the highway and plunged down a steep embankment.

The car turned over. All escaped injury except Mrs. Bancroft, who was thrown from her seat and suffered a broken nose. She was taken to a hospital in Newburyport and later to her home.

TRIBUTE TO LAWSON PLANNED BY CHICAGO

WLS TO RADIO MEMORIAL

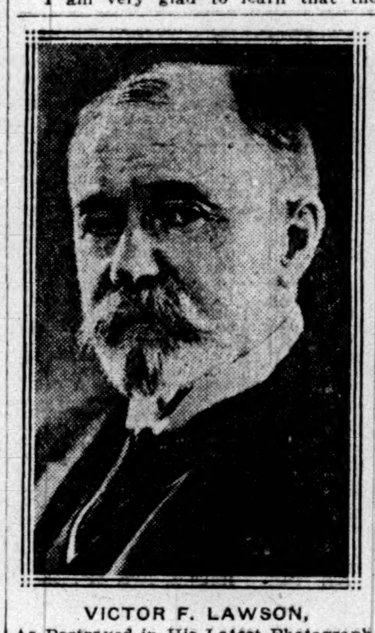
CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—A special meeting of the City Council will be held tomorrow to permit the city officially to pay tribute to the memory of Victor F. Lawson, editor and proprietor of The Daily News.

While relatives and friends were making arrangements for the simple funeral services which will be held Monday, Alderman Arthur F. Albert, of Mr. Lawson's home ward, was circulating the call for the special meeting. A few minutes after the call had gone out to the Aldermen, Mayor Dever returned to the city hall from the East, where he has been spending a vacation.



VICTOR F. LAWSON,
As Portrayed in His Latest Photograph.

"I am very glad to learn that the Council has been called in a special meeting to take appropriate action on the death of Mr. Lawson so that the city, through its proper authorities, can give expression of its sorrow," he said.

"Throughout the East, from which I have just returned, the news of his death was a great shock," the Mayor said. "By his character he seems to have impressed his work upon the nation. The expressions of sorrow that I heard were widespread and sincere."

It was announced that at the Council meeting Alderman Albert will introduce a resolution calling upon the entire City Council to be appointed a committee to attend the funeral services. A resolution paying tribute to the ideals and works of Mr. Lawson and deploring his death will also be offered

"Mr. Lawson has always stood for the finer things of life, particularly in the conduct of governmental offices," Alderman Albert said. "He was always intensely interested in the improvement of the city, and especially in our home community."

The funeral will be held in the New England Congregational Church, at Delaware Place and North Dearborn Street, where Mr. Lawson worshiped. All seats in the church will be reserved for Mr. Lawson's friends and associates. The Rev. Dr. Ozora Stearns Davis, President of the Chicago Theological Seminary, will conduct the services.

After the service at the church the body will be carried by a group of relatives and close friends to a North Side cemetery and there laid to rest.

Iver Lawson, Mr. Lawson's brother; Mrs. Lawson and Iver Lawson Jr., William Harrison Bradley, Mr. Lawson's brother-in-law, and his daughters, Miss Marion Karl Bradley and Miss Mary Linda Bradley; Mrs. Clarke M. Cavenee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Iver Lawson, and Mr. Cavenee.

Among the floral offerings that have been received at Mr. Lawson's Lake Shore Drive residence is one from Frank W. Stearns, President Coolidge's political backer. It was sent to the home by Roy C. West, Secretary of the Republican National Committee, upon receipt of a telegram from Mr. Stearns sent from his Swampscott (Mass.) Summer home.

"The community has lost a power for good in the death of Victor F. Lawson. Through his genius for organization he created a great newspaper, wielding the widest influence. He maintained a high standard of journalism. He showed his sense of responsibility for the wealth he earned by his many philanthropies."

"Victor F. Lawson was generally recognized as the dean of American newspaper publishers. He stood in the lead in every movement to create and preserve public trust in the integrity and high ideals of American newspapers. News unadulterated and trustworthy he fought for and achieved. His name and fame will be high, recorded in the history of all that is good and commendable in newspaper making. His high professional standards were but a reflection of the principles that influenced his personal character and that marked him among all who had the privilege and joy of his acquaintance as a man of the highest character and intelligence. He was a patriot and citizen of the first class."

"The death of Victor F. Lawson deprives the conscientious newspaper publishers of the country of a wise, strong leader, to whom they have turned for advice in every serious situation for more than a generation," said W. H. Cowles, publisher of The Spokane Spokesman-Review. "His kindness and willingness to help endeared him to us all. I feel that his death is a calamity."

The Norwegian Legation at Washington in a telegram to The Daily News "joins the thousands who mourn the loss of the eminent pioneer in American journalism, Victor Lawson."

B. Brenner, Acting Chairman of the Zionist Organization, in another telegraphic tribute, said:

A committee of prominent men representing the Chicago Historical Society was appointed by Dr. Otto L. Schmidt, President of the society, to attend the funeral. For twenty-five years Mr. Lawson was a member of the society and for the last few years had been a trustee.

Benefactor of Historical Society.

"Mr. Lawson was regarded especially as a benefactor of the Chicago Historical Society because of the hearty support and inspiration he gave to the movement to acquire the Charles F. Gunther collection of Americana," Miss Caroline McIlvain, Secretary of the society, said.

A special radio memorial program in honor of Mr. Lawson will be broadcast at 8 P. M. Tuesday by WLS, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation station. During the fifteen minutes of the memorial services all other stations in Chicago will remain silent to give WSL the right of way, it was announced. The memorial will be conducted under the auspices of the Chicago Broadcasters' Association.

Walter L. Fisher, Chicago attorney and former Secretary of the Interior, who was a lifelong intimate friend of Mr. Lawson, will be the principal speaker.

FRENCH AVIATORS ARRIVE.

Among the cabin passengers who arrived yesterday from Havre on the French liner Rochambeau were two French aviators, Antoine Mourr and George Kirsch, who said they were in the World War together and that their object in coming to the United States was to compete for the prize offered by Raymond Orteig for the New York-Paris non-stop transatlantic flight.

The young aviators said they would attempt the flight in October if the weather is favorable, otherwise they would wait until Spring. They did not bring planes with them nor had they any definite idea as to what type of machine would be the best for a transatlantic flight.

Mourr said their plans would not be definitely settled until they had been in New York a few days. He is also a automobile racing driver and has taken part in contests in Indianapolis.

Another passenger on the Rochambeau was Senator Hughes Leroux, French writer, who represents the Department of Seine and Oise.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Yesterday's stock market bore rather more resemblance to a sleight-of-hand exhibition than to anything that could be called finance. The artists who held the stage kept not much more than a dozen balls in the air at once and actual transactions were the smallest of the week, but the spectacle was sufficiently bewildering. It was made up of advances of 4 to 13 points in various industrial shares of the speculative sort, followed in most by declines of 2 to 4 points, with an occasional net loss for the day. These activities did not pretend to be in any respect related to news of the day (which was all but non-existent) or to the general situation.

It was merely an offhand demonstration to show what experts of the kind just now in the Wall Street spotlight can do when equipped with abundant credit by accommodating lenders, and when all sense of proportion has been discarded. The group of stocks which were driven up and then allowed to descend of their own weight held the interest of the market, very naturally, but they were not typical of the general market, even in the matter of rising quotations. The greater part of the list again moved very slightly, and the "averages" in the end made only fractional changes for the day, both in railway and industrial shares. It is not possible to discuss such a market seriously.

The advance in United States bonds, which had grown unusually emphatic the day before, did not continue uninterruptedly yesterday, but a few of them made small fractional gains, and there was no sign of downward reaction. The source of the support for these bonds, some of which are now selling only a fraction under the high prices of last month, is not easy to determine. The Reserve Board's compilation of statements made by private banks in the system shows increase during last week of about $5,000,000 in their holdings of Liberty bonds, following a decrease of some $7,000,000 the week before, most of the increase being ascribed to banks in New York City. From time to time the Treasury has to make purchases for Government account, which serves to sustain the market; it bought some $330,000,000 in 1924.

But it is hardly to be supposed that the Treasury has been a buyer at a time when prices were still 2 or 3 per cent. above those prevailing earlier in the year. The only evident conclusion from the strength of that investment market, at the time of year when weakness is traditionally expected, is the familiar inference that the buyers are convinced of continuing easy money. Yesterday's market for bonds even of foreign Governments and home companies was distinctly strong.

The contrast between the artificially stimulated Stock Exchange speculation and the restrained activities in the produce markets was again somewhat impressive. Neither grain nor cotton is utilizing the alleged "inflationary" conditions of general credit. Possibly the reason for the contrast is that the speculators in those markets are studying realities, at a time of year when impending and tangible developments make it dangerous to give play to imagination. But the wheat market is also confronted with a home and foreign situation admirably adapted to cause a deadlock even of speculative sentiment, and the cotton market is beginning to suspect that it may again be made the plaything of unexpectedly increased estimates of yield in the late months of the season. One of the usually most accurate Southern estimators placed its forecast yesterday nearly three-quarters of a million bales above the department's indication of two weeks ago. Another of the Government's "bimonthly estimates" is due for Monday, the date on which the figure was raised 605,000 bales a year ago, leaving 662,000 more to be added before the final computation.

MONEY.

Call money stiffened, advancing to 4½ per cent. following renewals at 4 per cent. early in the day. It was reported that funds were in plentiful supply, despite the advance in rates, the higher quotations being made late in the day on borrowings over the week-end. Time money was unchanged, but the tone was firm and the demand for loans increased. Commercial paper was steady and quiet. Bankers' acceptances showed a generally firmer tendency, quotations being advanced fractionally.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Although there were numerous cross-currents in yesterday's stock market operations, the tendency of the list seemed to be generally upward again. A score or more of the active and high-priced specialties recorded new high records, and as a result the combined stock market average also established a new high record, though with considerable reaction before the close. The day's sharp gains were confined to the industrials, where advances of 2 to 5 points were numerous, with extreme gains of as much as 10 points among the specialties. Steel common was in increased demand and advanced to within a fraction of 125. The rise in this stock stimulated the market for other steel shares. Oil stocks reacted probably because of elimination of part of the short interest which existed in them. The specialties which advanced most emphatically included American Can, Havana Electric, National Biscuit, Sears-Roebuck, Mack Trucks, Cast Iron Pipe, General Electric, American Ice, Industrial Alcohol and Frisco. Trading, however, was smaller than earlier in the week.

Much Buying Ascribed to Short Account.

According to Wall Street habitués who study closely the character of trading a large part of the buying yesterday was to cover commitments put out for the decline earlier in the week. On Monday and Tuesday word was broadcast about the street that the market was "growing stale" and that a reaction, due to technical conditions, would be in order. When the market actually started to react on Wednesday professional selling increased and continued almost up to the close of Thursday, the market averages on both days closing lower. Some of the selling Thursday was linked with the circulation of rumors that money was tightening and that an advance in the rediscount rate was not improbable. The local rediscount rate was left unchanged Thursday, and in view of this short covering was again in force yesterday. Several large commission houses said that public buying was very small.

Railway Rates and Farm Conditions.

Because the Hoch-Smith resolution was passed to readjust freight rates in consideration of "the existing depression in agriculture," and because that depression apparently has passed, many railroad men have expressed the feeling that the Interstate Commerce Commission will not press the investigation of rates on agricultural products. In the judgment of a former member of the commission, however, this is a false hope. The commission intends to listen to testimony at the Chicago hearing on all classes of rates, and may prolong its investigation for a year or more to adjust them.

Another Oil Company Statement.

The Pacific Oil Company, one of the largest operating companies on the Pacific Coast, issued its earnings statement yesterday covering the first half of the current year. The report makes a favorable showing compared with the corresponding period last year, as the reports of other large companies have done. Pacific Oil's earnings available for the common stock were equal to $2.32 a share on the capital stock, against $1.66 a share in the first half of 1924. One curious development in the current unsettled condition of the petroleum industry, it was pointed out yesterday, is the fact that dumping of California gasoline on the Atlantic Coast has been chiefly responsible for the recent reductions in gasoline prices, but that on the Pacific Coast both crude oil and gasoline have held firm.

International bankers were inclined yesterday to read in the current strength of the French 8 per cent. bonds of 1945 something of overseas approval of the turn French finances have taken. It was asserted that the bonds have been confidently bought since the announcement of the French plans of financial readjustment. At 105½, yesterday's closing price, they are above the previous high price of the year, and 6¾ above the low price of 1925. This does not represent the high point in the history of these bonds, however. Last year they sold at 109, only to shed most of their appreciation when the exchanges became unsettled due to the political uncertainties. Another consideration in the present market for the bonds is that 8 per cent. national bonds are extremly hard to find. Many people are looking for them to "sweeten" their investment list with a high yield.

Germans Copy American Loan Plan.

The loan just advanced to the City of Munich by a New York banking house follows the plan in force in most American State and municipal borrowing, in providing for serial maturities. The Munich loan will be paid off in annual instalments, running from one to twenty years. So far as is known, this is the first German municipal loan to be floated in New York on this basis. The loan will finance extensions to the public service system of Munich, and is of a general program of developing German cities by American financing. Berlin and Cologne recently have obtained loans here, and Bremen is expected to arrange for a loan soon.

Mr. Potter and His Rate Plan.

Despite the fact that his plan for pooling rates in the West has met almost unanimous opposition from the carrier officials involved, Mark W. Potter is not discouraged, and is going to the Chicago hearing convinced that the neutrality of the Commerce Commission and its opposition to swelling the revenues of the prosperous carriers should result in favorable consideration of his ideas. Mr. Potter does not profess to be taking a hard and fast position, but is willing to listen if the other railroad men will discuss something other than a flat increase in rates. The time has passed, he asserts, when any railroad or group of railroads can hope to receive a flat increase in rates.

A strong advance yesterday in Danish and Norwegian kroner was explained in the financial district by reports that both Denmark and Norway are calling home the proceeds of large dollar loans made in this country, also that funds accumulated here in commercial transactions were being called abroad. It was believed that speculators, knowing of these transfers, also bought kroner against the sale of dollars, thus assisting the rise in the exchange rate. Reports were revived that Denmark will promote the advance of its currency to par. The Scandinavian countries continue to expand industrially, and the Governments are strong financially, which has led to considerable American buying of their bonds at advancing prices.

The Railroad Tax Bill.

The tax bill of the steam carriers is still increasing, regardless of the condition of service or earnings, it was pointed out by a well-known expert on the railway situation yesterday. During the first five months of this year the roads paid out $6,500,000 more than in the same period last year, which is an increase of 5 per cent. If the same rate continues the taxes which will have to be paid by the carriers this year will exceed $361,000,000.

POTTER OPPOSES FLAT RATE INCREASE

St. Paul Receiver Predicts There Will Never Be Another General Advance.

FAVORS POOLING PLAN

Railroad Progress Checked by Public Reaction Against Government Ownership, He Says.

Mark W. Potter, a former railroad President and member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and now one of the receivers of the St. Paul Railroad, asserted yesterday that he did not believe the carriers should ever receive another flat increase in rates.

"What is more," he added, "I don't think there ever will be another flat increase in railroad rates. The carrier officials must become resigned to the principle of regulation which takes railroads out of the class of a private business. The feeling that the days of old railroading have not passed, that the public has had so decided a reaction from Government ownership that it will permit a railroad to be run on the same principles as an industrial corporation, is checking railroad progress.

"If a 5 per cent. increase in freight rates over the entire country were pooled and divided so as to enable each road to earn a fair return, and no more, the days of receiverships would be over. The loss of some $500,000,000 to stockholders and bondholders, as was the case with the St. Paul, through the inability of the road to receive sufficient revenues, would be impossible.

"If my opponents are able to convince the Interstate Commerce Commission at the Chicago hearing that railroading is a private business, then they have me licked to a frazzle. But if I am able to convince the commission that the railroads must be run for the economic good of the people, then I have them licked to a frazzle."

Mr. Potter laughed at the rumor that has been going around financial circles to the effect that counsel for the other Western railroads would prevent his plan from being heard by the commission. This story was based upon a clause of the Transportation act which provides that pooling agreements should have the unanimous consent of all carriers involved.

"No one can prevent me or any representative of the St. Paul from giving the commission an opinion that it would be advisable to pool an increase in rates," he said. "The commission is open-minded on all questions."

Arguments that his plan was illegal Mr. Potter characterized as evading the issue. He predicted that the commission would refuse a flat 5 per cent. increase.

"My plan is not presented," he added, "as an absolute solution of the problem. When the officials involved are willing to talk about it we may decide that it would be better to grant a 5 per cent. increase and pool only 3 of it. I am not saying that this would be the case or that I would consent to such a revision, but I regard my plan purely as a basis for arriving at an agreement."

The Western hearing might last six months, he said, or even more than a year. In addition to the petition of the carriers for a rate increase and his pooling plan, the resolution for an investigation of the entire Western rate structure will form a part of the proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce Commission's Chicago hearing Sept. 8 on Western rates will be given over entirely to presentation of evidence by the railroads and the shippers, and the public will present their evidence later at hearings in other cities still to be selected. A committee of representatives of State Railroad Commissions will cooperate in the hearings.

The carriers have been asked to present at Chicago complete information on mileage operated by each Class 1 road in each Western State, the operating revenues received by each road in each State, divided between intrastate and interstate traffic, and the total tonnage handled in each State.

German City Copies American Serial-Payment Plan—Will Yield 7⅝ Per Cent.

Harris, Forbes & Co. announced yesterday the purchase of an $8,700,000 City of Munich loan, which will be offered for public subscription in a week. The loan will mature in from one to twenty years and is said to be the first serial loan to be placed here by a German municipality. In arranging for payment of the loan in annual instalments Munich copied the plan utilized in most American State and municipal borrowings.

The Munich bonds will bear a 7 per cent. coupon and will be priced to yield an average of about 7⅝ per cent. The proceeds of the loan will be used chiefly for improvements to the city's public service systems. The tramways, electric and gas plants, waterworks and other similar enterprises belong to the city and are operated under a monopoly. Each is now yielding a substantial profit. The city also owns the public markets, built on modern lines; public bath establishments, hospitals and other institutions for the general welfare. Munich is the centre of many large German industries.

Berlin and Cologne recently obtained loans of $10,000,000 each in New York, and a number of other issues are now being negotiated. The City of Bremen is expected to obtain a bank credit here soon and probably will arrange a long-term bond issue later. Other German issues being prepared include an advance of $50,000,000 to the Rentenbank, to be underwriten by the National City Company.

PIRIKA PLAN OPPOSED.

Julius Reiter Prevents Chocolate Concern Resuming Business.

The attempts of the directors of the reorganized Pirika Chocolate Company, which failed in March for $500,000, to resume business, have met with an obstacle, it was learned yesterday, following a meeting of the directors at the Brooklyn Branch of the Bank of America. The obstacle is said to be the refusal of Julius Reiter, head of the Phoenix Factors Corporation, to agree to the plan of reorganization. The corporation has a claim of $60,900, and this includes a chattel mortgage for $35,000 against the company's machinery.

Under the reorganization plan the creditors agreed to accept corporation notes for their claims, these notes to be payable over a period of nine and a half years, without interest. Reiter was to receive a third mortgage on the physical properties of the company in lieu of the chattel mortgage and corporation notes, without interest, for the remaining $25,900 of his claim. Reiter, it was said, refused to relinquish the mortgage unless he received interest on his $25,900 claim.

Jewel Tea Makes Progress.

The Jewel Tea Company, Inc., reports net sales of $7,436,479 for the twenty-eight weeks ended July 11, 1925. After all expenses and reserves for depreciation, taxes and other deductions, net profit was $287,459. This was equal to $8.73 a share earned on the 32,900 shares of 7 per cent. preferred stock outstanding. Back dividends aggregating $34.25 a share were due on the preferred stock as of July 11. In the period covered by the report the company paid dividends on the preferred stock, amounting to $118,576, leaving a surplus of $168,883.

WILL PAY $45 A SHARE

Electrical Manufacturing Concern Will Enter American Industry on a Large Scale.

P. A. S. Franklin, Chairman of the Board of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, announced yesterday that shareholders representing a majority of the stock had given an option on their entire holdings to Laurence R. Wilder, representing the Brown-Boveri interests of Switzerland It is understood arrangements will be completed promptly for the organization of an American Brown-Boveri Company which will mark the entrance of the big Swiss electrical manufacturing concern on a large scale in this country.

The terms of the option call for the payment of $45 per share for the stock of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation. The option has been given for sixty days. Payment is to be made in cash amounting to $30 per share, and $15 per share in preferred stock. It is stipulated that application shall be made to list the preferred stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

The same terms will be extended to all shareholders, who will receive their $15 in preferred stock regardless of whether or not they sell their present stock. Minority stockholders who prefer to retain their present interest in the corporation, in addition to receiving their preferred stock will probably receive an opportunity to exchange their present holdings for the American Brown-Boveri stock.

Acting for the executive committee, Mr. Franklin has sent a letter to the stockholders in which he characterizes the offer as decidedly attractive. He said:

"With its productiondiversified through shipbuilding conditions prevailing both here and abroad, the New York Shipbuilding Corporation management has for several years pursued a policy of carefully preserving its organization and conserving its assets. One result of this policy is that its properties are an attractive nucleus around which to develop an enterprise such as, we are informed, the Messrs. Brown, Boveri & Co. contemplate for their American operations, at the same time continuing its shipbuilding facilities.

"Wth its production diversified through the addtion of Brown, Boveri & Co. lines, under their management, supported by the high standing they hold in the electrical manufacturing field, the outlook for the New York Shipbuilding Corporation would appear to be decidedly improved over that which is now possible with the activities of the corporation practically limited to shipbuilding alone."

Mr. Wilder, who is President of the Wilder Electric Trusts, the present Brown-Boveri representatives in the United States, sails today for Europe on the Majestic. He will confer with Brown-Boveri officials in London and Paris as well as in Baden, Switzerland, and is expected to complete plans for the organization of the American company. Mr. Wilder's departure follows by a fortnight the departure for Baden of Marvin A. Neeland, President of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation. Further details are expected to be announced soon in Baden. Mr. Wilder denied reports that the New York Shipbuilding Corporation intended to forsake the shipbuilding industry entirely.

ARMOUR SEES GOOD TRADE.

Brisk Business in South Expected, Packers' President Says.

Earnings of Armour & Co., for the first seven months of the current year were satisfactory, and there is reason to believe that current inventories will be liquidated profitably by the end of the year, according to a statement issued yesterday by F. Edson White, President of the company. "A brisk trade in the south is expected," the statement says, "for a big cotton crop means there will be many harvest hands to feed and harvest hands eat lots of meat.

"The directors declared the regular quarterly dividends at the rate of 7 per cent. annually on the preferred stock of Armour & Co., of Illinois, Armour & Co., of Delaware and the North American Provision Company, and also a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, or at the rate of 8 per cent. annually, on the Class A common stock of Armour & Co., of Illinois. Dividends will be paid Oct. 1, to stockholders of record Sept. 10. The company now has about 80,000 stockholders, and about half of these are employes."

COPPER HOLDS FIRM.

The Trade Expects Market to Settle on a 15-Cent Basis.

The local copper metal market was gain firm yesterday. Most producers did business on a 14⅞ cents a pound basis, but a few companies raised their price to 15 cents, and some have withdrawn from the market on the lower basis temporarily. Producers and dealers expect the market to be firmly established on a 15-cent basis early next week, especially if the current demand continues.

Export prices were advanced another fraction of a cent a pound. Dealers quoted the red metal at 15 to 15.10 cents a pound c. i. f. European ports, an advance of 10 points compared with Thursday. A better tone prevailed in the copper market due to the publication of figures showing surplus stocks of the red metal at the lowest levels reported since the end of the war.

MOODY'S SEES STOCK PERIL.

Much Unhealthy Manipulation Now, Warns Weekly Review.

Commenting on conditions in the securities markets, Moody's Weekly Review says: "Much unhealthy and danger ous manipulation is going on in the share market, but notwithstanding high prices, one seems warranted in either continuing to hold sound investment issues, or else buying them on reactions at least until the economic danger signals begin to flash.

"These signals consist of the usual indication of inflation, such as a sharp rise in bank loan ratios, or raw material prices, or a great increase in the demand for labor, or a swift overexpansion of trade activity.

"Conservatism, however, in the management of one's investments may be achieved by disposing of those issues which look the highest and dearest when judged upon a yield basis. As a rule those shares are dearest which now show the lowest yields as compared with the habitual yields of the same or similar stocks in the past.

"Bond prices, owing to monetary and capital conditions, promise to show stability for an indefinite period. Thus any exchanging into short-term issues may be done slowly and deliberately, and only when attractive switches can be found."

Denies Cast Iron Pipe Merger.

W. T. C. Carpenter, Vice President of the United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company, yesterday declared that there was no foundation to the reports circulated in the financial district on Thursday that negotiations were under way to consolidate the Cast Iron Pipe Company with the Universal Pipe and Radiator Company.

$49,054,000 BONDS OFFERED IN A WEEK

BIG UTILITY IS LEADER

Issue of $25,000,000 for International Telephone and Telegraph Already at Premium.

New bond offerings this week amounted to $49,054,000 and, like last week, were confined to public utility, industrial and State and municipal issues. The week's total may be compared with $20,809,000 offered last week and $45,009,000 in the corresponding week a year ago. The amounts of offerings follow by groups of this and last week:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Public Utility	$30,000,000	$19,100,000
State and Municipal	13,054,000	1,359,000
Industrial	6,000,000	350,000

The largest issue this week was one of $25,000,000 of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, offered by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. The financing was part of the program by which the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation will purchase the International Western Electric Company, Inc., constituting the foreign properties of the Western Electric Company, located in many parts of the world. The issue was quickly oversubscribed. Late in the week it was quoted at a premium, on a when-issued basis, on the New York Stock Exchange, due to the conversion privilege entitling owners to turn in their holdings next year for common stock of the corporation. There were several other fair-sized public utility issues in the week.

The industrial group was represented by an issue of $6,000,000 bonds of the North American Cement Corporation. There was a scattering of State and municipal offerings from various parts of the country, the chief borrowers being the Chicago Sanitary District and the Cities of Nashville, New Orleans and Miami.

Next week will see an issue of $8,700,000 bonds of the City of Munich, which will be offered by Harris, Forbes & Co. This will be the first German municipal loan floated here since the Cologne issue underwritten last month. It is understood that several other German municipal issues will be offered here soon.

S. W. Straus & Co. are offering $6,000,000 first mortgage 6 per cent. sinking fund bonds of the Fullaytar Realty Company. The bonds, maturing in 1937, are secured by the land and a ten-story store and professional office building in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Expansion Reported From the West and Southwest, Except in Texas.

Generally favorable conditions exist in business and industry, according to the summaries published today by the commercial reporting agencies. They stress the fact that buying is in small quantities, but in large volume.

Dun's Review says:

"Each week's reports bring out more clearly the fact that most phases of the business situation are favorable. Encouragement has been derived from results this Summer, which have been better on the whole than was anticipated, and the confident tone of dispatches from leading trade centres is a distinguishing feature. Progress has been on a conservative basis, thus strengthening the prospects of its continuance, and more or less expansion has occurred in all of the principal industries.

"The gain is the more significant because it has come at a time of the year when an opposite tendency would not seem unnatural, while conditions are more stable now and the outlook is more promising than has been the case for a long period.

"Competition for orders is keen and there continues to be complaint of small profit margins in some important lines, as in steel and textiles, yet the main trend of prices in other commodities than foodstuffs is still toward higher levels and there is no general disposition among the buyers to defer commitments in the expectation of obtaining concessions. Even with purchases limited closely to immediate or early needs, transactions in the aggregate are of such large volume that bank clearings and railroad freight traffic are unprecented for this season."

Bradstreet's makes the following comment:

"More is doing in trade and industry, with Fall jobbing distribution holding the center of the stage. Best reports come from western and some southwestern centres, these reflecting more optimistic reports from the corn crop, which has been helped in most areas by a combination of rains and high temperatures. Moderate expansion is reported in other areas, except in Texas, where another hot wave and little or no moisture has caused cotton to deteriorate, and parts of the southeast, where drought is still present and causing earlier optimistic cotton reports to fade somewhat.

"Retail trade as usual tends to lag, except where, as in Summer wearing apparel and in furniture, seasonal efforts to distribute stocks are noted. Industry is fairly active, with more doing in iron, steel, shoe leather, jewelry, clothing manufacturing and automobile manufacturing, which latter is reported feeling a marked response to a fairly general lowering of prices of cars."

A GAIN IN SUGAR OUTPUT.

The production of raw sugar in Cuba aggregated 5,090,045 tons up to Aug. 15, according to figures received by the National City Bank. This compares with 4,066,606 tons reported at the corresponding date last year.

According to the weekly trade review compiled by the Federal Sugar Refining Company, a total of more than 600,000 tons of Cuban sugar will be carried over at the end of the year. Stocks of sugar in Cuba aggregated 1,500,000 tons on Aug. 14, according to the company, while sugar afloat to and in stock at Atlantic ports brought the total up to 1,820,000 tons. Deducting 100,000 tons as possible exports from Cuba to Louisiana for the balance of the year and 200,000 tons for foreign exports and for local consumption for the balance of the year, 1,520,000 tons is left available for the United States Atlantic ports to Dec. 31. These ports, it is added, are the main outlets for Cuban sugar, and assuming that meltings at these ports to the end of the year will be at the same rate as in the corresponding period last year, a total of 610,000 tons will be left on Dec. 31, 1925.

JULY BROUGHT DROP IN SURPLUS COPPER

Surplus stocks of copper metal were reduced 3,328 short tons, or 6,476,000 pounds during July, according to figures compiled by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. The total stocks of refined metal now aggregate 88,088 short tons, the smallest total reported since the war, and compare with 91326 tons reported at the close of June. This reduction, accompanied by a fair increase in demand, accounts for the recent strength in the price of copper metal during the past few weeks, according to statements in trade circles yesterday.

The aggregate of blister copper, together with the amount of refined copper held on July 31, was 330,116 tons, according to the association, a reduction of 11,716 tons, or 23,432,000 pounds, compared with 341,832 tons reported at the close of June.

July shipments of copper metal aggregated 117,500 tons compared with average monthly shipments of 122,775 tons in the second quarter of the current year. July production amounted to 114,182 tons, against an average of 112,434 tons monthly for the second quarter. For the first seven months of 1925, shipments amounted to 827,632 tons, a monthly average of 118,233 tons, against an average of 109,982 tons reported monthly in 1924, which was the previous high record.

It is pointed out that domestic shipments amounted to 65,208 tons in July and 451,156 tons for the seven months ended July. The monthly average thus far this year amounts to 64,450 tons, against an average of 62,782 tons for the full year 1924 and 61,293 tons for the year 1923. Export shipments last month amounted to 52,292 tons, and for the seven months averaged 53,782 tons, against an average of 47,199 tons for the year 1924. July exports made up 44.5 per cent. of total shipments and domestic consumption 55.5 per cent. For the seven months ended July exports accounted for 45.9 per cent. of total shipments and domestic consumption 54.51 per cent.

Germany continues the best customer of American copper producers and refiners. July shipments to Germany amounted to 16,729 tons, or 31.99 per cent. of the total; shipments to England were 8,809 tons or 16.84 per cent.; France 8,841 tons or 16.22 per cent.; Italy 7,165 tons or 13.70 per cent.; Belgium 3,904 or 7.46 per cent.; Holland 3,727 tons or 7.13 per cent. For the seven months ended July, shipments to Germany averaged 16,496 tons or 27.96 per cent.; to England 10,387 tons or 19.31 per cent.; to France 7,761 tons or about 14 per cent.; to Italy 6,786 tons or 12.62 per cent., Belgium 4,072 tons or 7.57 per cent. and to Holland 5,700 tons or 10.60 per cent.

HEAT STIMULATES COTTON TRADING

The heat wave throughout the South brought highest temperatures in many years throughout Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas, and created more activity in cotton trading yesterday. A covering movement caused an advance of quarter of a cent at one time as contracts previously sold were taken from the market. On the recovery, some houses did a larger hedging business for the South than before the current cotton season which furnished contracts, started a setback and left final quotations only 7 to 9 points higher on the day. Spot sales at Southern markets aggregated 26,000 bales, largest transactions of the season, at generally unchanged prices.

Out of 201 stations, 157 reported temperatures of 100 to 110, highest records being made east of the river. In Georgia many stations showed 105 to 110 degrees, while it was 106 as far north as Charlotte, N. C. Light showers occurred at many points, and the Weather Bureau predicted thunder showers and cooler weather for today. The sensationally high records attained for two consecutive days make this one of the most extreme periods of heat experienced in the past quarter of a century.

Though Liverpool again sent a lower range of prices than due, demand for near months at the opening here caused an initial gain of a few points instead of a loss. The combined influence of abnormal temperatures in Atlantic sections and uncertainty over Monday's Government report induced steady covering which increased in volume later in the session. Various speculative interests, having covered their cotton in advance of the last report, became active sellers when December sold around 24¼ cents a week ago Monday. Reports of crop deterioration as a result of hot weather led to realizing operations, particularly as a sharp increase in the movement of new cotton failed to create hedging pressure sufficient to weaken the market. Though scattered sales of December occurred at 23.50 yesterday, the quantity of contracts wanted at that figure again proved in excess of supply and several upland lines were taken from the ring during the morning. When a rally of 10 points or more failed to attract cotton, professional operators bought more actively, which carried December above 23.75 and October to 23.50. This attracted heavier hedging operations and several thousand bales appeared in the market the last hour causing a setback of 15 to 20 points in final trading.

Week-end figures showed 168,000 bales in sight, against 79,000 last year, making 356,000 for the season, against 200,000 last year. Spinners took 157,000, against 104,000 a year ago, making the total for the season 482,000 compared with 360,000 last season. The visible supply decreased 74,000, compared with 25,000 a year ago, leaving the world's supply of American cotton 999,000 bales, compared with 791,000 a year ago.

Zinc Stocks Lower; Market Firm.

Stocks of slab zinc held throughout the world on Aug 1 aggregated 33,700 metric tons, according to the American Zinc Institute. This compares with 38,690 tons held on July 1. A firm tone has prevailed in the zinc market during the last few weeks, the price advancing along with copper and lead in connection with increased demands.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Norwegian and Danish kroner furnished the only market activity in foreign exchange, the former scoring a net advance of 61 points and the latter of 25 points for the day. There was strong buying of these two exchanges in the New York market, though most of the advances were the result of European purchases which were made before the opening here. The demand was associated with reports that Norway and Denmark were withdrawing large credits here, including the proceeds of recent dollar loans. Speculative buying of kroner based on these reports helped in the advance. Sterling closed unchanged for the day at $4.85⅝ after easing off 1-16 of a cent early in the day. There was considerable pressure of grain and cotton bills, but they were well absorbed. French francs closed unchanged for the day and there were slight advances in Belgian francs and Italian lire. Other exchanges for the most part were quiet with few changes in quotations.

WHEAT RISES AGAIN, SEPTEMBER LEADING

OFFERINGS READILY TAKEN

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—The wheat market reversed its action of the previous day and while slightly easier early advanced 2 to 2⅜ cents from the low point and closed with net gains of 1 to 1¼ cents, with September leading, and ½ cent over December at the last. Local traders were bearish early on the weakness in Liverpool, with reports of 370,000 bushels of Russian wheat being bought overnight by the United Kingdom, but the offerings were quickly absorbed by houses with Eastern connections and short covering helped to advance values.

For nearly two weeks there has been persistent selling of wheat futures by several leading local operators and large short lines have been put out for Eastern speculators, but the manner in which the offerings have been absorbed has mystified the trade and the higher prices at the close tonight led some of the pit traders to switch from the bear to the bull side during the day and so helped to bring about the strong rally from the early low point. Cash interests have been buying September and selling December in a rather persistent manner for several days and the September showed a disposition to tighten up.

It was rather hard to trace where all the buying came from during the day. The movement under way to hold wheat back from the market is regarded as largely political propaganda. The domestic cash situation is regarded as gradually tightening and red Winter is becoming scarce in all markets. Flour business at Minneapolis today was, however, relatively slow and mills did but little buying of futures.

Primary arrivals were 1,321,000 bushels; week ago, 1,301,000; last year, 3,126,000. Shipments were 778,000 bushels; week ago, 912,000; last year, 2,516,000.

Closing trades in corn were ⅜@½ cent higher for the day with around 50,000 bushels, largely new, bought to arrive, shipment by December 15. Leading cash handlers say that judging from the way the country is selling new corn a record amount will be on the books before long.

Oats were ⅛@¼ cent lower, and rye unchanged to ⅛ cent higher for the day. Export sales of around 1,000,000 bushels of oats have been put through at the seaboard in the last three days, the bulk of the grain having been secured in the Northwest.

Local handlers sold 100,000 bushels to Montreal today and charters were for 100,000 bushels of oats and 60,000 of barley to that port.

Primary arrivals of corn were 805,000 bushels; week ago, 646,000; last year, 582,000. Shipments were 294,000 bushels; week ago, 266,000; last year, 379,000.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Metals Group Active With Quotations Higher—Foodstuffs Firm—Cotton Up Slightly.

The strength in the metals group was the outstanding feature of the local cash commodities markets yesterday. Lead, copper, zinc and tin were all quoted higher. Cotton recovered part of its recent reaction and crude rubber moved up three cents a pound. Among the foodstuffs wheat and rye were higher, corn a fraction lower and oats unchanged. Most other food products held firm.

DULLNESS IN WOOL MARKET

Foreign Situation Better on British Textile Strike Settlement.

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"The volume of business in the wool market seems to have fallen off this week, although the market has steadied both here and abroad, especially due to the settlement of the Yorkshire textile strike, which caused 80 per cent. of the mills in Yorkshire to stand idle. The business done has been chiefly for fine and fine medium wools for the worsted trade, although rather more business has been done in medium wools also, and slightly more inquiry is reported from the woolen mills. The mill situation, especially with respect to worsteds, is better. In the West there has been little or nothing to happen, especially noteworthy.

"The big event in the foreign markets has been the settlement of the English textile strike, which has strengthened the Bradford market and has reflected added strength in the Australian wool auctions, where the best wools have been against the buyer. River Plate markets are dull."

MORE BUYERS OF DRY GOODS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was well ahead of last week's volume and exceeded that of the same week a year ago as well.

"Road sales were not quite equal to the same period last year. This decrease was more than counterbalanced, however, by an exceptionally fine house business.

"Customers were in the market in very large numbers, exceeding last year's total for the same week by nearly 60 per cent.

PLUMBING BUYING CLOSE.

Buying in the plumbing and heating markets by master plumbers and heating contractors, according to Domestic Engineering, is largely confined to current needs. Good-sized orders, however, are not infrequent.

Pressure for delivery of certain commodities is reported from various sections of the country as orders reach factories in excess of output and surplus stocks. This condition is said to be responsible for firmer jobbers' prices in New England. A development of the soil pipe market this week in Chicago, where most foundries have gone to a price base established by a leading company, furnishes a weak spot in an otherwise strong manufacturers' price structure.

FIXES ROAD'S VALUATION.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP).—A tentative valuation of $7,691,977 on the owned property and $7,691,934 on the used property of the Alabama & Vicksburg Railway Company was fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission today as of June 30, 1918.

The commission also fixed a tentative valuation of $900,401 on the owned property and $900,000 on the used property of the Leavenworth & Topeka Railway, as of June 30, 1916.

Rubber Plant on Four-Day Week.

CHICOPEE FALLS, Mass., Aug. 21 (AP).—The Fisk Rubber Company plant here closed today under a four-day working schedule, made imperative by the prevailing high price of rubber and in the face of a demand for goods that is said to be brisk.

Little new financing will be required to meet the corporate bond maturities of next month, which are unusually small, both in number and volume. The total of railroad, public utility and industrial bonds falling due in September is $21,053,220, which compares with $30,855,810 in the current month and $28,979,850 in September, 1924.

Railroad maturities in September aggregate $6,716,120, of which the largest item is a New York Central issue of $1,397,000 4½ per cent. equipment trust certificates, due Sept. 15. The New York Central also will pay off $844,000 of 4½ per cent. equipment trust certificates on Sept. 1.

Among the utilities the largest issue falling due next month is the Puget Sound Power and Light Company's $2,000,000 five year 8 per cent. bonds, due Sept. 1.

LOWELL MILL'S FATE UP TO STOCKHOLDERS

BOSTON, Aug. 21 (AP).—A special meeting of stockholders of the Hamilton Manufacturing Company, one of the oldest textile concerns in Lowell, has been called for September 16 to determine the fate of the company. A recent audit showed that due to inflated inventories the value of stock in process had been overestimated by $972,748, leaving debts in excess of quick assets of $580,686. The directors of the company have personally guaranteed notes for $1,805,000 outstanding.

While it was said that it had been discovered that the financial statements have been wrong since 1920 with arbitrary additions to the current inventory statements, that of April, 1924, being "grossly inaccurate," it was stated that there has been no misappropriation except, perhaps, in overpayment of taxes based on the inflations.

The stockholders at the special meeting will be asked to decide whether new capital, in the form of stocks or bonds, shall be provided for the company or whether the company's property shall be sold to raise money to pay its debts.

The first suggestion that the company was not in as firm a position as its statements had indicated came two days ago when President Felix Rackemann announced a shortage had been discovered and that Arthur R. Sharp had resigned as treasurer and director.

F. C. Dumaine Jr., has been made treasurer.

Automatic Light Runs 14 Years.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP).—Every three seconds, both day and night, for fourteen years an automatic light off the Hawaiian Islands has flashed a warning to mariners. This was disclosed today in a report to Secretary Hoover from Commissioner Putnam of the Lighthouse Service, which showed that the old-time lighthouse rapidly is disappearing in favor of the automatic light, which needs only occasional human attention. During the last fiscal year seventy-four lighthouses along the American coast were replaced by automatic beacons, with a saving of $17,785 in annual expense.

INSPECT SCENIC RAILWAYS.

Kings County Prosecutor Acts After Accident at Coney Island.

An investigation of the various scenic railways and amusement devices at Coney Island was begun yesterday by Leo Healy, assistant to District Attorney Charles J. Dodd of Kings County.

The action was decided upon following reports of two accidents at the resort. In one of these Mrs. Marie Hoffman of 206 Thirty-second Street, Brooklyn, who was riding on "the Thunderbolt" Wednesday night, received injuries from which she died. Mrs. Mary Mellor of 325 West End Avenue was riding on "the Dragon's Gorge" at Luna Park Thursday night when her head struck the roof of a tunnel and she suffered a concussion of the brain and lacerations.

HEAVY SEAS AND FOG HOLD UP BERENGARIA

The Cunarder Berengaria was six hours late in arriving yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg due to fog and a sixty-mile gale from the southwest, with a thirty-foot sea on Thursday night, which came on very suddenly, Captain W. R. D. Irvine, the master, said, as the gale burst with great fury at 1 A. M.

Miss Louisa Fletcher, daughter of Stoughton A. Fletcher of Indianapolis, was a passenger. She had been reported on July 6 to be engaged in Berlin to Count Ernst Gottfrieid van Schmettow, scion of an old Prussian family. Two weeks ago the wedding was reported to have been postponed without any reason being given out by the Count or his American fiancée. Miss Fletcher, who came with her brother, Stoughton J. Fletcher, said the wedding would take place here in October.

In September, 1920, Miss Fletcher attracted public attention by running away from her Summer home at East Gloucester clad in overalls and was found three days later working on a farm, raking hay, at Ipswich, where she had hired out that morning as a farm hand.

Another passenger was Clarence H. Geist, founder of the Seaville Golf Club at Atlantic City, and a stockholder in utilities companies. He returned from a seven weeks' trip to Paris and London with Mrs. Geist and their three daughters. Mr. Geist had a private car waiting in the Pennsylvania Station to convey the party to Atlantic City.

Colonel Bernard A. Flood of the New York Police Department returned from a special mission abroad for District Attorney Joab H. Banton. He traced four criminals, and found two in Germany, one in Vienna and the other one in Prague. Colonel Flood said he did not know whether they could be brought back to the United States for trial under the existing extradition treaties.

Mrs. Georgette Cohan-Souther, daughter of George M. Cohan, returned from England, where she attended the Cowes regatta with her mother. When asked about the rumor of her engagement to the Earl of Berwyck, Mrs. Souther said: "I am not engaged to any one, nor will I be. For when I marry it will be sudden and there will be no need for an engagement." Others on the ship were the Earl of Caledon, Judge John H. Goff, Countess Collorado-Mansfeldt, Count von der Vetter and Dr. J. Eastman Sheehan, the noted plastic surgeon. The Berengaria brought 579 second, 383 tourist third and 131 third-class passengers, which, with the 737 first class, made a total of 1,830 passengers.

SUES TO PREVENT SALES OF SUBSTITUTE OILS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—A step in a nation-wide campaign by the National Better Business Bureau of New York to stamp out the alleged "substitution evil" was taken today, when the Vacuum Oil Company of New York filed a bill in equity in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia asking for an injunction to restrain the Penn Oil Company from selling substituted oils in place of Mobiloil when the latter is asked for.

Affidavits allege that oil sold at nine of the Penn Company's stations and represented to be Mobiloil "A," on July 25 and 27, were substitutions.

Samples were obtained, it is alleged, through the use of an automobile so equipped that oil which presumably went into the crankcase was actually led off into an empty can. The can was then delivered to chemists for analysis.

It is said that legal proceedings are being instituted in various parts of the United States. A statement today on behalf of the National Better Business Bureau said:

"The substitution of lubricating oils is not only serious from the standpoint of hundreds of thousands of dollars that are mulcted from the motoring public annually, but from the possible damage wrought to cars as a result of inferior and improper lubrication.

"Our investigation revealed numerous cases where motorists have paid $1.20 a gallon for what they thought was high-grade oil, which probably did not cost the dealer more than from 13 to 20 cents a gallon.

"The remedy lies in three directions: First, legal actions under existing statutes and the enactment of better regulatory legislation; second, cooperation between dealers, and, third, the education of the motoring public, so that when trade-marked products are asked for proper precautions are taken by them to see that they are received."

RENT CASE JURY DISAGREES.

A jury in the Fifth District Municipal Court in Brooklyn yesterday reported a disagreement in the action of Bernard Naslund, who recently leased Plum Beach Island, in Jamaica Bay, from the city, to recover rent which he claims is due him from more than a hundred residents of bungalows on the island. Justice Glore set Oct. 13 as the date for the re-trial.

Henry Meyers, President of the Plum Beach Welfare Association, was the only defendant named. Naslund asserted that he had been receiving $100 a month rent for each of his bungalows, but that last month each of the tenants paid only $50. Meyers contended that Naslund had failed to make certain improvements to the property.

$50,088 TO SCENIC SOCIETY.

Mrs. Antonia Dixon's Will Also Gives $10,000 Each to 3 Relatives.

The estate of Mrs. Antonia Draper Dixon was appraised yesterday, showing that she left $50,088 of the total of $90,721 to the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society. Mrs. Dixon died on Oct. 9, 1923, at Hastings-Upon-Hudson. She named Edward Hagaman Hall, head of the society, as executor. The other beneficiaries were two nieces, Antonia C. Maury of 9 East Fortieth Street, and Carlotte C. Maury of Yonkers, and a nephew, John W. Draper of Hastings-Upon-Hudson. They got $10,000 each.

CONNOLLY FAVORS CHANGE IN SUBWAY

CITY WOULD SAVE MONEY

Under Present Plan Queens Boulevard Would Have to Be Widened Fifty Feet.

The proposed subway along Queens Boulevard should serve the Richmond Hill and Hayestown sections, said Maurice E. Connolly, Borough President of Queens, in a letter yesterday to Chairman John H. Delaney of the Board of Transportation. If needful, the plans of the projected route should be changed, Mr. Connolly added.

"In order that doubts may be set at rest and that a decision may be made at an early date which will permit us to be informed of the future of Queens Boulevard, between Union Turnpike and Hillside Avenue, I would thank you," President Connolly wrote, "if you would communicate with me, expressing your views as to the practicability and desirability of causing the subway in Queens Boulevard to depart from the same as it proceeds southerly on Queens Boulevard at Union Turnpike. This so that it may run through Kew Gardens Road as extended to Hillside Avenue.

"This change of plan will, of course, place Richmond Hill and Hayestown, as well as other sections to the westward of Sutphin Road, within easy reach of the new line."

In his letter Mr. Connolly pointed out that Queens Boulevard, between Union Turnpike and Hillside Avenue, is only 130 feet wide and if the subway route is to be continued as planned, an additional fifty feet of land must be acquired. He asserted that considerable opposition had developed in Queens against the plan of constructing the subway line directly from Maple Grove Cemetery to Sutphin Road, Jamaica. Mr. Connolly, in urging the change to include Hayestown and Richmond Hill, added that the fifty feet of land needed for the Boulevard, would not be required and that the Boulevard could be kept open to traffic.

Money could be saved to the city and more residents of Queens served by a line such as mapped out in his letter, declared the Borough President. He ended:

"Queens needs better transit facilities and we are anxious to have the work of building the Boulevard subway get under way. Queens is New York's fastest growing borough and immediate action to relieve traffic congestion is imperative."

COMPLAIN OF MAIL COSTS.

Western Newspaper Men Testify Before Congress Committee.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (AP).—Circulation managers of some of the country's important newspapers today told the Congressional committee investigating postal rates how metropolitan dailies had been swerved from use of the mails, with consequent heavy financial loss to the Postoffice Department, and how delivery of newspapers by mail might be encouraged. The hearing brought out that one of the chief sources of objection to using the mail was department insistence on use of sacks for packages.

George M. Rogers of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, also speaking for The Cleveland Press and Cleveland Leader-News, said that distribution by mail cost six and one-half times as much as the average cost of all other methods of distribution. A return to the rate in effect in 1920 probably would cause the newspapers to have a disposition to resume use of the mails, he said.

The Chicago Tribune found that it cost 25 per cent of its entire expense of distribution to handle by mail approximately one-tenth of its daily circulation, said Max Annenberg, director of circulation of The Tribune, The New York News and of Liberty, a weekly magazine. He said that The Tribune had eliminated virtually all mail subscriptions except those in States adjacent to Illinois, and that the newspaper lost $11.05 a year on every mail subscription. In delivering packages of newspapers The Tribune used baggage and express, in preference to the mails, at a distinct saving.

L. R. Hatton, circulation manager of The Detroit Free Press, read a statement indicating that while The Free Press subscription lists had been undergoing a healthy increase, payments to the postoffice department steadily had declined by thousands of dollars. He said his paper was getting the same service by using baggage cars for 60 cents a hundred pounds as the Government would give at $2.21 a hundred.

The Indianapolis News has built up its truck delivery system, explained J. M. Smith, business manager, and he doubted whether The News could be lured back into the use of the mails. In 1920 The News mail subscription totaled 19,000, and has been deliberately reduced to 9,200.

Frank P. Glass, editorial director of The St. Louis Star, speaking also for the other newspapers of his district, said that increased rates prohibited use of the mails, and to regain the lost business the Government would have to offer a very good rate and facilities.

CHAMPIONS DR. TAYLOR.

Investigation of the causes leading up to the resignation of Dr. Henry C. Taylor as Chief of the Bureau of Economics of the Department of Agriculture and a demand for a Congressional inquiry should it be found that his support of the Dickinson bill led to the demand for his resignation by Secretary Jardine were promised yesterday in a statement issued by John D. Miller, President of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation.

"We view this action with grave concern," said Mr. Miller's statement. "Last Winter there were two cooperative marketing bills pending in Congress. One was known as the Commission bill, being supported by the Chairman of the President's Agricultural Commission. The other bill was known as the Dickinson bill. The Commission bill was opposed by substantially all of the cooperative marketing associations of the country. The Dickinson bill was supported by many cooperative associations.

"We will make an investigation to ascertain the facts, and if it be found that public servants who supported the Commission bill are continued in office, and that Dr. Taylor has been removed because he favored the Dickinson bill, then it may well be that cooperative associations will request a Congressional investigation of the entire matter."

Book Hearings Adjourned.

By agreement of counsel, the case of Harry Kuhn of 333 West Eighty-fourth Street and Henry Klein, charged with possession of lewd books, was adjourned yesterday until next Wednesday by Magistrate Richard F. McKiniry in Jefferson Market Court. The date of hearing on the charge of selling the books, set for Sept. 2, was changed to Sept. 8.

†Nominal.

The downward trend of prices in the foodstuffs was again a feature. There were twenty-six changes in this group, of which eighteen were declines. The reductions were specially notable in the grains and provisions, more than half of the declines occurring in them. In the local market Spring patent flour declined 15 cents a barrel. A greater decline, amounting to 25 cents per barrel, took place in fancy Minnesota family flour, but the Winter soft straight variety did not change. Middle Western lard declined and bacon moved higher. At Chicago live beef steers, live hogs, live sheep and short ribs were cheaper.

There were two changes in the local dairy products list. The best creamery butter was up three-quarters of a cent a pound. Near-by fancy eggs were a cent a dozen cheaper, but there was no change in fresh-gathered eggs. Cheese was also quotably unchanged.

Neither the fresh nor the dried fruits showed any change. Two declines featured the listed vegetables. One of these was in cabbage, which dropped 50 cents per barrel. Potatoes exceeded this decline, easing off 75 cents per barrel. Onions and peas held steady.

In the beverage list there were four advances. No. 7 Rio and Santos No. 4 coffees were both higher. Japanese tea of the best and low grades also moved up, there being no change, however, in the Formosa variety. A decline in Zanzibar cloves was the only change in the spices. The best grade of raw sugar was higher and there was also an advance in the 96 test grade.

All of the seven revisions in the grains were reductions. No. 2 wheat, No. 2 yellow corn, No. 3 white oats, No. 2 rye, malting barley, hay No. 1 and No. 2 rye straw were all cheaper. For the second week in a month or more the leathers were quotably unchanged. In the hides the changes were two. There were reductions in the prices of No. 1 calfskins and Chicago city calfskins.

Neither the lumber nor the building material list showed changes either way. There were ten changes in the metals, these being equally divided between advances and declines. Pig iron, zinc and lead were higher, while steel bars, tank plates and beams at Pittsburgh moved lower. Furnace and foundry coke also cost more. Ordinary antimony and tin were cheaper.

Four changes were revealed in the combined list of dyestuffs and chemicals. Stearic acid, crude brimstone, bulk cocoa butter and nitrate silver crystals showed advances. Another rise in resin featured the naval stores. Turpentine was easier.

In crude rubber the plantation variety was higher, but there was no change in the up-river fine quality. In the raw silks China steam filatures were stronger, with the Japanese No 1 Sinshiu, however, showing a drop of 15 cents per pound. A decline in hemp and a rise in jute were two of the leading miscellaneous changes.

No marked changes took place in the textiles during the week. Burlaps were slightly easier. In the cotton goods there was little of note, excepting a slight increase in the buying of gray goods toward the end of the week.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Thursday—4 per cent. for the best names.
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Good Outlook for Women's Belts.

Although the demand for leather belts for women's dresses is said to be somewhat behind that of the Fall season of last year an improvement over the volume of Spring business is noted. Not a sufficient amount of reorders have been received as yet to indicate any decided style preferences, although the out outlook is good for an active business with department stores as well as the dress industry. Belts with ribbon insets are thought well of, as are such materials as dull kid, lamb suede and patent leather. Metallic effects are favored in the finer grade of leather belts.

Lightweight Underwear Buying.

Spotty conditions are reported in the buying of lightweight underwear. Fair success is reported to have attended the efforts of balbriggan mills to introduce into volume consumption flat knitted garments with horizontal rayon stripes. In several instances it is declared that the initial business of these goods has been everything that could be hoped for. Yet in at least one case a mill has been so disappointed with the reception accorded its fibre-striped suits for men that it has withdrawn the offering entirely. Important producers of men's ribbed suits to retail at $1 have done a larger business than seemed probable when prices were first made. It is not believed there will be price advances in this division, although there has been some talk of this in the trade. The position of heavyweight goods is growing stronger every day. Entirely satisfactory duplicate orders during the last month have placed many mills in a thoroughly independent position.

Buyers of hats and caps for children between the ages of 2 and 6 are said to be operating rather later than usual, with the result that deliveries of merchandise may be somewhat tardy. This is due to the policy of some manufactures in this line of not carrying stocks of goods, in order to avoid the danger of being left "holding the bag" at the end of the season. The hat type is said to be popular in all materials, French blue, sand and beaver being some of the predominating shades. In the cap and bonnet merchandise, wool crêpes are showing much strength.

Hosiery Trade Is Confident.

While there is a lull at present in the hosiery market, feeling continues confident regarding a substantial increase in business next month. There never has been a stronger situation than the present in full fashioned hosiery, according to the special news letter of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers. For Spring, well styled lines of infants' socks and children's seven-eighths goods with fancy tops have had a better initial business than during the same period of time in any season within the last three or four years. The jobber has bought these goods practically to the exclusion of other lines, particularly staples, which are virtually neglected. Jobbers are held to be suffering from an overdose of caution, but are counted on to furnish much activity during September in the cleaning up of the remainder of their Fall requirements.

With trade opinion practically unanimous that there is no chance of side stepping a suspension at the hard coal mines on Sept. 1, the anthracite market has continued very strong, Saward's Journal will say today. Buying by the regular retail trade has continued on an active basis, though there is by no means a feverish desire for tonnage. All customers want a little more than they have been accustomed to taking and in the aggregate this counts up handsomely. There has been some extra purchasing by middlemen who desire to have coal running during the first week of September, if they have not already arranged for storage of some extra supplies in boats. Under the circumstances, independent prices have in all cases been steady, with some additional premiums added here and there. The bituminous market shows a slight increase in asking prices, consequent upon increased volume of business.

Quiet Market in Burlaps.

The market in burlaps continues rather quiet. There are some bids being made for goods under the asked prices but none of these is being accepted. Consumers, generally, however are biding their time awaiting further developments. Little change is reported from the Calcutta market. These prices were quoted here yesterday by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., covering both "lights" and "heavies" for spot and future deliveries:

Weight.	Spot.	Aug.-Sept.	Oct.-Dec.
8 ounces	8.05 cents	8.10 cents	7.95 cents
10½ ounces	10.60 cents	10.50 cents	10.15 cents

Woolen Dress Goods Wanted.

Woolen and worsted goods manufacturers are greatly encouraged by increased calls from the dress industry during the past week. The emphasis placed on silks by cutters up had been carried to such a degree that the cloth fabrics were being neglected. Sheen and other fancy twills were ordered actively by dress manufacturers during the last few days, as well as reps and printed flannels. The latter, offered in a fifty-four inch width by one mill, are said to be meeting with an active demand for popular priced dresses as well as the more expensive variety. Taffeta weaves are also selling well.

Bracelets That Are Called For.

Victorian and antique jewelry effects are said to be showing signs of increasing popularity for the Fall season, judging by the purchases of buyers who have thus far visited the New York market. In bracelets, for example, heavy gold plated varieties, in rather broad widths illustrate the revival of the Victorian type, which incidentally, is said to be producing renewed popularity for cameos, that have been in slight demand for some time. The antique variety, of beaten gold and old-looking gems and enamel, are expected to be popular during the latter part of the Fall season. In cheaper bracelets, black celluloid and ivory ones ornamented with rhinestones are being called for to retail for a dollar.

Retailers who have visited the market recently are showing their customary conservative buying policy in ribbons, and are displaying no desire to speculate on style trends. The encouraging feature of current trading in ribbons is the large number of varieties that are selling, rather than any concentrated demand on a few items. Plain ribbons seem to be leading, with demand in the fancy varieties centered largely upon banding ribbons for dresses. These came from two to four inches in width, with jacquard patterns and are made of silk, or silk and rayon, with some tinsel decorations. The outlook for plain ribbons in the widths from six to nine inches is said to be good, owing to the increasing emphasis of the waistline of dresses, in which flat bows are playing a prominent part. The satin faced ribbons are preferred for these purposes.

No Change in Gray Goods.

There was little feature in the gray goods market yesterday. Sales were again somewhat limited and prices held to the basis of the day before. In 39-inch 68-72s a few transactions were put through at 10¼ cents for spot goods, first hands. Small lots of 38½-inch 64-60s changed ownership at 9⅝ to 9½ cents, with the former price ruling for September shipment. A few sales of 38½-inch 60-48s were made at 8 cents, although first hands held this construction an eighth-cent higher. Sheetings were quiet. Business was done in 37-inch 48-square four yard goods at 9⅝ cents. Some sales of pajama checks were closed on the basis of 10¾ cents for the 72-80s and 8¾ cents for the 64-60s. Drills and sateens were inactive.

Dont Lease an Apartment!

LEASES are not required of those guests staying at Briarcliff Lodge, America's Foremost Resort Hotel. Those who rent apartments at Briarcliff Lodge are held here only by their own appreciation of the nice things in life—an attractive apartment, good food, a pleasant environment, a sociable atmosphere. If you, too, enjoy these things it will pay you to investigate, for an apartment, from one to twelve rooms, may be rented from November until May at a rate more attractive than staying in the city.

The commuting time to Scarborough station is only fifty minutes, a whiz of the motor and you are lost in the quiet, health-giving pine woods—far away from the strife of the city. We will be pleased to furnish you with additional details.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21.—The northeastern disturbance has moved eastward beyond Newfoundland, but a trough of low pressure extends southwestward to Northern Florida. The northwestern disturbance has moved east southeastward with increasing intensity and it is centred over Northern Manitoba tonight as a disturbance of wide extent and marked intensity. Elsewhere fair weather has prevailed. Cooler weather has now overspread nearly all sections east of the Mississippi River and the temperature is below normal as far south as Kentucky and Virginia. The temperature was higher Friday from Manitoba and Minnesota southwestward to Arizona and New Mexico, but a change to considerably cooler weather has taken place in Manitoba and British Columbia.

Fair weather will prevail Saturday in all sections east of the Mississippi River, except Florida, and the weather will remain generally fair Saturday in the Atlantic States, but showers are probable Saturday afternoon or night in the lower lake region and in the Ohio and Lower Mississippi Valleys. The temperature will rise gradually in middle and northern sections east of the Mississippi River during Saturday and Sunday.

THE WORLD OF BOOKS

TOMORROW, SUNDAY

JAMES BOSWELL, whose story of the life of Samuel Johnson is recognized as the world's greatest biography, is coming into his own as a personality at last. An account from unpublished material of one of the outstanding episodes in his colorful career.

CONTROL OF INDUSTRY through research is the plea of Mr. Feldman in his book, "The Regularization of Industry," which is comprehensively reviewed. Mr. Feldman contends that industry loses as much by temporary shut-downs as by production at a loss during slack periods.

ANTHONY GIBBS, son of the noted Sir Philip, makes his debut as an author with "Peter Vacuum," a comedy of English and American manners, in which the characters are compelling and the action swift. An interesting review of this book.

AERONAUTICS FROM THEIR EARLIEST BEGINNINGS to the first developments of modern aviation are traced by J. E. Hodgson in a profusely illustrated and extremely interesting volume as reviewed.

THE TRIALS OF MERE MAN during his first years of fatherhood are satirized cleverly in prose and verse by Fairfax Downey, whose volume, "Father's First Two Years," humorously illustrated by Margaret Freeman, is entertainingly reviewed.

The New York Times stands, I feel, at the very pinnacle of American journalism. News, intelligently selected and authoritatively written, has won for it a character and prestige which are unique.

RECORD YEAR SHOWN FOR PRESBYTERIANS

10,017 FILL THE PULPITS

Communicants Gave $1,000,000 a Week to Church, Survey of Dr. Mudge Says.

Steady growth of the Presbyterian Church in America is indicated by the annual statistics made public yesterday by Dr. Lewis S. Mudge of Philadelphia, Stated Clerk of the Presbyterian General Assembly. The report shows that during the fiscal year which closed March 31 Presbyterians contributed to the Church more than $1,000,000 a week, or an average of 57 cents a week per member.

There was a net gain for the year of 42,931 in the number of communicant members, which now total 1,873,859, the largest in the history of the denomination. There were added on confession of faith 107,691, which is 20,059 more than the previous year. There were restored to membership 12,249, or 1,140 more than were restored the previous year. There were added by certificate from other churches 74,393, which is a gain of 7,698 over the previous year.

Dismissals to other churches numbered 59,437, or 6,063 more than the year before. Suspensions from the rolls (causes not named) were 60,680, or 568 less than the previous year. Deaths of members totaled 21,707, an increase of 494, but represented a death rate of less than 12 per 1,000. The total membership is divided into 1,737,657 resident and 136,202 non-resident members. The Sabbath school membership is 1,596,259, a gain of 48,212 over the preceding year.

Financial Contributions.

The financial statistics show that $57,382,988 was contributed by 9,649 churches to their various causes, a gain of $294,824 over the year before. These contributions are classified as follows:

National missions, $4,988,298, a decrease of $593,462 from the previous year; foreign missions, $4,142,192, a loss of $442,130; Christian education, $1,852,290, an increase of $95,708; General Assembly, synodical and Presbyterial expenses, $374,287, an increase of $90,654; local congregational expenses, $41,751,298, an increase of $1,625,569; miscellaneous benevolences, $3,496,437, a decrease of $555,721; miscellaneous contributions to boards, $102,873, an increase of $43,228.

The total number of churches now in the denomination is 9,649, which is 254 fewer than in the preceding year. Of these 6,352 have adopted the Every Member Plan of unified budget and uniform canvass, which is an increase of 271. During the year seventy-two churches were organized, a gain of six; 129 churches were dissolved, twenty-one less than the year before; three churches were received, one less than the previous year, and two churches were dismissed, which is one more than the year before.

Church Has 10,017 Ministers.

The Church now has 10,017 ministers, a gain of 146 over the previous year. There were also 241 licentiates, a gain of fifty; 150 local evangelists, a gain of 29; 1,285 candidates, a gain of 7. The number of ministers lost through death in the year was 178, or three more than in the previous year. The churches are officered by 46,986 elders, an increase of 1,646, and 19,324 deacons, a gain of 308.

The geographical divisions of the denominations throughout the United States maintain the same totals as the year before, with forty-six synods, corresponding somewhat to State lines, divided into 299 Presbyteries. The ten largest Synods remain as before. They are, in their order, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, New Jersey, Illinois, California, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan and Missouri.

The ten largest Presbyteries also remain unchanged. They are Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Chicago, New York, Los Angeles, Brooklyn-Nassau, Corisco (Africa), Detroit, Philadelphia North and Lackawanna, Pa. The New York Presbytery shows a loss in communicant membership of 406, and that of Philadelphia a loss of eighty-six. All the others gained. There are thirty-one Presbyterian churches with a communicant membership of more than 2,000 each.

Of what is known as the annual $15,000,000 budget authorized by the General Assembly to be raised among the churches for the official benevolences of the denomination, the total receipts were $9,722,529, which is $5,277,471 less than the amount they set themselves to reach.

SEVERE POLAR WEATHER CALLED NOT UNUSUAL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The temporary abandonment by the MacMillan expedition of exploration work over the polar sea on account of severe weather conditions has led to the suggestion that abnormal weather is world-wide. Officials of the National Geographic Society do not share this opinion, but issued a bulletin today emphasizing the importance of world-wide weather forecasts, and pointing to the expedition which will be sent to Asia under the auspices of the society and the Smithsonian Institution to establish a sun observation station, which will be used to study the solar constant and the possible relationship between it and terrestrial weather.

With particular reference to the suggestion that abnormal weather is now world-wide, the statement of the society says:

"A look at weather records with a view to finding whether this is a 'queer Summer,' as some laymen assert, does not show much that is abnormal in the general weather situation, but it does show what a complex clutter of cross currents go to make up the world's weather.

"MacMillan, pushing up the coast of Labrador in June, found more ice than had been present at that season in the memory of the oldest sealing skippers. At the same time, however, the temperature over practically the entire United States was from one to six degrees above normal. Furthermore, since January, except during a part of May, this excess of heat had been marked over the whole United States. In some regions and in some months the average run was as much as twelve degrees above normal, and the areas of excess temperature extended well into Canada.

"Beginning the latter part of June, there have been inroads of below-normal temperature from the northeast and north, possibly a reflection of the unusually cold conditions which MacMillan has found in the Far North. This is borne out somewhat by the records from Alaska.

"Those available (for the early months of 1925 only) show consistently lower temperatures than normal for the three typical stations: Juneau, in the southern 'pan handle'; Nome, in the extreme northwest, and Eagle in the Yukon Valley, near the frontier of Canada. These abnormally low temperatures were being recorded in Alaska at the time that abnormally high temperatures were present over the rest of the United States."

BLAUVELT, N. Y., Aug. 21.—For the first time since the war reserve officers of the headquarters and brigade staff of the Seventy-seventh Division, at Camp Bluefields, are undergoing active, intensive training in all branches of army service, including artillery, infantry, cavalry and aviation, under the instruction of eight regular army officers. Fifty officers are taking the course, which is given to each group for two weeks in accordance with a new plan of the War Department.

Today the officers divided, half attacking and half defending South Mountain, one of the northern Palisades. The object of the mimic battle was to ascertain whether or not the mountain could be taken by a force coming from the hills. The attacking force was declared victor. Next Wednesday the officers will engage in a mimic battle in conjunction with the Military Academy at West Point. Colonel Peter E. Traub is commandant of the camp and Lieut. Col. Moses King Jr. is the senior officer in command of the reserve officers in camp.

This NEW way in solving a real hygienic problem will mean much to you

Now there is a new way . . . a way that supplants the dangers and uncertainties of the old-time method.

Physicians urge it. Women's doctors have adopted it. Hygienic authorities employ it. And your own peace of mind demands it. For it offers charm and immaculacy under any and all circumstances.

It deodorizes, is easily disposed of, ending all embarrassment. And that prevents danger of offense.

Eight in every ten women in the better walks of life have adopted it. Which proves its benefits.

It will mean much to you in health, in daintiness and protection. It proves old ways a needless folly.

KOTEX
PROTECTS—DEODORIZES

3 Easy to buy, anywhere. You ask for them by name. Many stores keep them ready-wrapped—help yourself, pay the clerk, that is all.
